CONVICT CONFESSES BAKER KILLING

NORRIS SHOALS PLAN BELIEVED SESSION PRICE

Hoover Opponents May Demand Acceptance or Extra Term.

WHITE HOUSE URGES BOTH TO COOPERATE

Some G. O. P. Leaders Advise President to Accept Ownership Bill.

POWER OPPONENTS ALL WIN VICTORIES

Robinson Expected to Move Slowly on Proposed Support Ideas.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

There is a possibility that the Senate Progressives and Democrats, mostly the former, will insist upon President Hoover accepting the Norris Muscle Shoals plan as the price of avoiding an extra session of Congress.

The White House, commenting yesterday on reports that Mr. Hoover, following the issuance of the Democratic cooperation statement, had written Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, asking for an assurance that the Democrats would not force an extra session, said he had, in fact, "communicated" with the leaders of both parties to this end.

The White House statement said: "The President has been in communication with the floor leaders of the Democratic and Republican sides of the Senate with a view to securing cooperation for the prompt passage of the appropriation bills through the Senate at the forthcoming session.

May Be Optimistic.

"Both leaders have expressed their desire and full cooperation to accomplish this. The fear and apprehension which have been expressed over reports that delay or filibuster would be resorted to to force an extra session of the Congress have, therefore, no foundation."

In political circles there is a question as to whether the White House is not overly optimistic.

There is a particularly strong determination among the Progressives for the passage of the Norris bill providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals.

And it is known that some Republican leaders are counseling that the President may as well accept the bill now, as it would certainly be passed, even over his veto if necessary, in the new session.

Bill in Conference.

The bill is now in the hands of Senate and House conferees, the House having passed a bill under the rigid control of the Republican leaders providing for private operation. Should the administration decide to accept the Government operation plan it would be a very easy matter to have the House conferees accept the Senate bill.

Representative Reece, of the First Tennessee District, who has been sponsoring the private operation bill, has uttered a defiance against any effort to do this, but should it be decided upon by the House leaders he will not be permitted to stand in the way. Mr. Reece was defeated for reelection after the President had gone to his rescue in the hot primary which he went through.

There is, of course, no suggestion that the House leaders are prepared to let the Senate bill go through or that should it do so the President would sign it.

May Force Session.

The question then arises, however, as to whether the Progressives, and some of the Democrats, will not force an extra session. In the extra session they would have the strength to pass it and pass it over a presidential veto.

They contend, too, that passage of the bill is important in alleviating unemployment.

The White House statement did not take into account the mood of the Progressives. Senator Norris will be back in fine fettle as will, indeed, all of the Government power operation advocates. In every State in which the power issue entered into the campaign the proponents of Government operation were successful.

Glass Takes Hand.

The White House statement is believed to have been prepared with a view to checking partisan criticism of his letter to Senator Robinson. Senator Glass, of Virginia, for example, very promptly commented that Senator Robinson should answer the re-

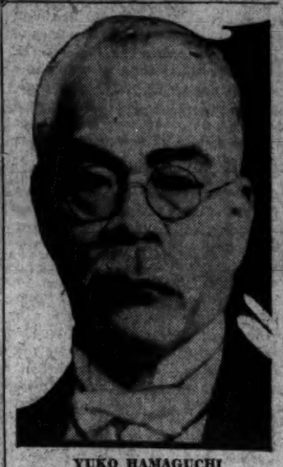
Premier Hamaguchi Shot by Reactionary

Japanese Statesman Has Chance to Recover, Physicians Say.



YUKO HAMAGUCHI

Tokyo (Friday), Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Yuko Hamaguchi, premier of Japan, was shot and wounded at Tokyo Central Railroad Station at 8:35 a. m. today. Physicians who examined the elderly premier at the station master's office said his chances of recovery were good. The bullet penetrated the abdomen. He was carried to the station master's office and physicians called.

At 11:30 a. m. the premier was still in the station master's office, his condition apparently much more serious than was first believed. Physicians resorted to transfusions, the premier's second son, Iwane Hamaguchi, supplying the blood.

The premier's assailant was identified as Tomeo Sagoya, aged 23, a member of the Aikokusha, translated "love of country association," a reactionary patriotic organization.

Motive for the attack was not clear to officials.

Tokyo central station was the scene likewise of the assassination November 4, 1921, of Premier Kei Hara, who was stabbed at the main station lobby when he was about to entrain for Kyoto to attend a political rally. He died in a few minutes.

Hara's assassin, Konichi Nakaoka, a weak-minded youth, was sentenced to life imprisonment, which later was commuted to eleven years. He is still in Senrai Penitentiary.

Premier Hamaguchi's assailant apparently is a similar type.

DATE BARRIER TO ARMY-NAVY CHARITY GAME

West Point Head Moves for Contest December 6 at New York.

ANNAPOLIS, WILLING, MUST ENGAGE PENN

Refuses to Cancel With Quakers, Offers Two Alternative Days.

ELIGIBILITY RULES WAIVED BY 2 RIVALS

December 13 Suggested as Compromise; Await Reply of Military Academy.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Superintendents of the United States Military and Naval Academies moved yesterday to arrange the resumption of Army-Navy football relations in a charity game to be played in New York next month with final announcement that the game has been blocked only by their inability to agree on one of three dates proffered.

Three days after a joint statement issued by the Secretaries of War and the Navy had announced that negotiations for a game had collapsed, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, commandant at West Point, declared yesterday that the Army was ready to meet Navy in a renewal of relations, for one year at least, in a game to be played for the benefit of the unemployed at New York on December 6, with the question of eligibility of players not to be considered.

Navy's reply to this challenge, made public by Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, advised Maj. Gen. Smith of the acceptance of the contest if it was possible to select either November 29 or December 13 as the date for the game, inasmuch as Navy already was scheduled to meet Penn at Philadelphia on December 6.

Will Not Cancel Penn Game.

Navy would not consider cancellation of the Penn game, said Admiral Robison, who denied reports that the game had been scheduled with the understanding that it was to be postponed in the event of a resumption of relations with Army. The game with George Washington had been scheduled for November 29 with this provision and Navy would be willing to pay George Washington its guarantee for the game should Army accept that date.

Army is scheduled to meet Notre Dame at Chicago on November 29, thus eliminating that date for a Navy game. December 13, after both Army and Navy complete their schedules looms as a likely compromise date.

Army Withholds Reply.

Objection to December 13 as the date of the game made by Army on the grounds that it would interfere with the semiannual examinations of the cadet corps was met with the reply by Admiral Robison that the date was embarrassing to Navy, too, but

Prohibition in the Senate

Cassiday's Arrest and Seizure Of Black Book Bared by Butts

Customers' List Copied by Dry Officials, Then Burned, He Hears.

Man With Green Hat Not Convinced When Spy Appears Drunk.

By ROGER BUTTS.

I had worked two full months in the Senate Office Building as an "undercover" agent for the Prohibition Bureau, when we finally trapped "the Man in the Green Hat," and seized his customer list.

Previously to this I had repeatedly tried and failed to get Cassiday to deliver an order of liquor to me in the Senate stationery room, where I had been planted as an employe by order of Vice President Curtis.

Just before the arrest I made one last effort to establish Cassiday's confidence, so that he would include me on his list of regular customers in the Senate Office Building. One reason Cassiday was shunning me was, I believed, that since I was only 20 years old and had never been a drinker of hard liquor he had no confidence that I actually wanted the liquor I had tried to order from him for my own consumption.

I had by this time secured the cooperation of another Senate employe who knew Cassiday well and he and I fixed up a plan that I should come into the stationery room apparently drunk. The idea was to have this get back to Cassiday so he would believe I was in the habit of drinking.

In the effort to get liquor for this purpose I discovered that "the Man in the Green Hat" was not the only bootlegger doing business on Capitol Hill. I had no difficulty in getting in touch with another "salesman" who delivered two pints of gin to me just outside the Senate Office Building. He and other bootleggers were competing with Cassiday for the Capitol trade at that time and some of them were cutting rates to undersell each other and thus get control of the market.

Rival Bootleggers Found in Building Cutting Liquor Prices.

Job Done, Butts Stays On to Run Upon New Adventures.

The next morning after making this purchase I came to work in the Senate stationery room at 10:30 o'clock, an hour and a half late. Outside, on the stairway of the Senate Office Building

SLEW TO SEAL HER LIPS UPON GEORGIA CASE

Man Jailed in Syracuse Says Girl Knew His Part in Murder.

HENRY ALLARD SAYS HE SSTABBED NAGAL

LOADED REVOLVER DISCOVERED IN CELL

Guards Are Told Gun Was Used to End Life of Clerk in Washington.

Mary Baker was killed to silence forever the voice that had threatened to expose his part in another murder, according to the confession of a prisoner held in the county jail at Syracuse, N. Y.

The man, Henry Allard, 25 years old, was in custody of the Washington police August 13, when he was apprehended in an attempt to dispose of a stolen automobile. Because the theft occurred in Syracuse he was returned to that city for trial. He is under sentence of five years in Dannemora Prison in New York State.

Allard, about a month ago, wrote a confession that in December, 1928, after a wild party at a house near Brunswick, Ga., he stabbed to death Frank Nagal. Nagal, who lived at 308 Sixth street southwest in 1928 and who had a brother, James, living in St. Mary's County, Md., where both were born.

Told Guard His Story.

At the time of his arrest Allard apparently escaped suspicion in the Baker case, although police diligently questioned prisoners in custody since the murder.

A few days ago Allard is reported to have casually told one of the guards that he had killed a girl in Washington, D. C. He said that she was the only person who knew of his connection with the Brunswick, Ga., murder.

When pressed for details the prisoner became reticent. He is said to have told the Syracuse police that a loaded revolver found in his possession at the jail, was the gun with which he slew Miss Baker. Authorities however say that the weapon was smuggled to Allard by a young man and woman who visited him in his cell.

Gun Found After Sentence.

The gun was found a few hours after Allard was sentenced. The pair accused of slipping the weapon into the jail are being held. They are from Utica, N. Y.

A detailed account purporting to reveal details of his friendship with Miss Baker was handed to newspaper men in Schenectady by the confessed slayer yesterday afternoon. He claims that he met her in 1928 and went out with her at various times.

Says He Was Threatened.

While in Schenectady, he said, he received a letter from the Navy Department clerk asking that he return to Washington. When he failed to comply with this request he said he received another note threatening to expose the Georgia murder, according to the unsigned message from Allard.

Statements in the prisoner's message are at variance with the evidence found by those who investigated the Baker murder. It is painstakingly written in closely penciled words and covers about six sheets of paper. Illiteracy stands out in every line.

Allard wrote that he called at the Baker "apartment" early on the eve-

MARTIAL LAW RULES HAVANA; SIX SLAIN

RIOTING LAID TO PUPILS

Havana, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The tense Cuban political situation, marked by desultory shooting for several days and the deaths of at least six persons, today caused the serious injury of a youth claiming to be an American citizen and resulted in Havana and environs being placed under martial law.

Arturo Tagle y Soria, a 24-year-old student of Key West, Fla., was shot by a policeman while engaging in a student demonstration at Prado and Virtudes avenues, in the center of the capital's downtown district, and was not expected to live when taken to the emergency hospital.

He was said to have resided in Havana for four years but to have retained his American citizenship. When told that some sources questioned his citizenship, he still insisted he was an American.

Soldiers took control of Havana and its suburbs today after President Machado exercised the authority invested in him by congress more than a month ago to suspend constitutional guarantees. The decree at first was interpreted to cover all Cuba, but the president announced tonight that only Havana and its environs were affected.

The president's drastic action followed sporadic disorders since one person was killed and 50 were injured at Santiago de Cuba in a clash between several hundred demonstrators and police Monday.

This was followed by rioting in the streets of Havana, and a disturbance last night caused the accidental death of Mercedes Barbarrosa, who was hit by a stray bullet as she watched a street disturbance from a window. Four other persons were

PROHIBITION REPORT IS BEING PREPARED

Having Heard Woodcock, Commission Adjourns for Individual Work.

MORE ENFORCERS ASKED

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission delved deep yesterday into the actual enforcement of prohibition in the United States and then took recess for ten days to permit individual work on its dry law report.

Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, appearing before the commission for the first time since its prohibition deliberations began, laid before the members the enforcement facts demonstrated by his organization system, which he believes is the best that can be devised.

Earlier Henry S. Dennison, a prominent Boston manufacturer, who has been engaged for more than a year in studying for the commission the existing enforcement organization and its personnel, delivered his report.

Meanwhile comparative quiet prevailed over the rest of the Capital prohibition front. Attorney General Mitchell made known that both he and Woodcock are studying the situation presented by the manufacture of grape juice concentrate capable of easy fermentation into wine, but said there had so far been no change in the Department of Justice attitude toward it.

The Attorney General said he was backing to the limit the prohibition director's plan to add 500 men to the prohibition enforcement personnel and would urge it before the House appropriation committee.

From Capitol Hill, meanwhile, came a statement from Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri, an anti-prohibitionist, predicting that if the Wickersham commission would report favorably for modification to permit the manufacture and sale of beer, and President Hoover approved

ENVOY SAYS CHINESE FIRED ON U.S. SHIPS

Report Arrives as Stimson Was Planning to Reduce Special Law Rights.

ARMY SENT TO HWANGAN

(Associated Press.)

Reports of continued firing upon American vessels by Chinese on the Yangtse River was announced by the State Department yesterday as Secretary Stimson disclosed that the United States has made proposals to China with a view to gradual abolition of American extraterritorial privileges.

The proposals of the American Government similar to those made to the Chinese by the British are in line with the statement last year that the United States is prepared to negotiate toward gradual relinquishment of the privileges. The policy of gradual relinquishment was conditional upon the Chinese making effective laws based on modern concepts of jurisprudence. Under the extraterritorial privileges, Americans are in effect not subject to Chinese law.

Scattered rifle and cannon fire on the U. S. S. Panay along the Yangtse was reported to both the State and Navy Departments by American authorities in China. American Consul General Frank P. Lockhart, at Hankow, reports that firing on passing vessels had been resumed near Wusueh. Two privately owned American vessels reported having been fired upon.

Mr. Lockhart in another message said Chinese troops were being sent to Hwangan, Hupeh Province, where the Rev. Burt N. Nelson, of Minneapolis, was reported recently to have been captured by bandits. Chinese authorities have advised Mr. Lockhart they are taking steps to protect Americans at Kwangchow.

Word came from Mr. Lockhart that Kanchow, in Kiangsi Province, where concern had been felt for the safety of foreigners, was now peaceful.

Six Called to Testify They Are Still Living

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Six men listed on insurance records as dead marched briskly to the witness stand today in county court at St. George, Staten Island, and in varying degrees of indignation denied that they were ghosts.

One by one the "dead men" testified against six other men who are on trial charged with conspiracy to defraud the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. It is charged that they proved the "deaths" and were paid the insurance on the lives of the six.

FOUR THANKSGIVING FOWL GIVEN HOOVER

ONE WEIGHS 22 POUNDS

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 13.—Four wild turkeys will grace the White House table for the Thanksgiving dinner of President Hoover. The President's secretary, Lawrence Ritchey, is returning tonight with the fowl, one of which is one of the largest wild birds ever brought down, a gobbler weighing 22 pounds. The bird was one of a flock of wild turkeys which Mr. Ritchey and Robert Bridges, wealthy retired clubman, shot today on the game preserve of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, near Hancock. The other three turkeys, two of them young gobblers, weighed 16 and 12 pounds, respectively, and a hen weighed 14 pounds.

The largest gobbler and the hen were shot by Mr. Bridges, secretary-treasurer of the club, and with four English pheasants, which he also brought down, were sent with Mr. Ritchey to the President.

The President's secretary shot the two smaller gobblers, both on the

SLIDE BURIES 100; 25 RESCUERS KILLED

DARKNESS STOPS SEARCH

Lyons, France, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—This was a bitter night in Lyons as workmen thrust crowbars under the debris of twelve ruined homes, fearful of what they would find beneath as the toll of a landslide today reached perhaps as many as 100 lives.

As night fell, only three bodies had been recovered in the ruins along the slope of the Fourviere Hill, where the ground slid out from under a dozen homes this morning, burying men, women and children.

Police and firemen hurried to the vicinity as the first thunderclap of the catastrophe startled the city. Twenty-five of them moved unafraid into the ruins to bring out the injured, and were buried under walls which toppled without warning. About the scene of horror tonight the families of those who were lost, sobbed as the work went slowly along.

Volunteers were scarce after that group of police and firemen had perished, and the task of caring for the living appeared of even greater importance than that of searching for the bodies of the dead. Engineers called from Grenoble hastily shored up buildings which remained standing in the vicinity. Hospitals near cautionary measure. The cathedral the ruins were evacuated as a prewas opened to the survivors and hundreds of homeless crowded in, for it was the only place they had to spend the night.

Cardinal Maurin himself, who had narrowly escaped death or injury many times during the day as he moved about the ruins giving consolation where it was needed, supervised the temporary barracks into which he had turned his church.

As night advanced and darkness made work impossible, the task of

California Fights Invasion By 'Al' Capone's Gangsters

Law Enforcement Agencies Act After Rumors of Kidnaping Plots and Reports That Chicago Gunmen Have Decreed "Grape Juice" War.

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Tips on kidnaping plots and newspaper reports that "Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang leader, was in Southern California, sent the heads of three law enforcement agencies into a secret conference here today, to plan action against "an invasion by gangsters."

The danger in the situation was outlined by District Attorney Buron Fitts, who said: "It is time to take concerted action against these criminals." Fitts declared that within sixty days, he had obtained "astonishing information" from underworld sources.

The reports of Capone's arrival here sent detectives in a vain search for the gangster. On several other occasions he had been reported here but no trace of him was found. Two years ago, he made a 30-minute visit in Los Angeles, 15 minutes of which was spent in going to a hotel and 15 more in getting back on a train, in custody of police.

The authorities indicated that their campaign to prevent gangsters from gaining a foothold here would be one of scattering the criminals as quickly as their presence is learned.

Today's conference came upon the heels of an alleged plot to kidnap Harry Chandler, owner of the Los Angeles Times. The veteran publisher showed little perturbation over the information, but Fitts assigned two detectives to guard him against any attempt to carry out the threat.

Meeting with Fitts at the conference were Chief of Police Roy Steckel and Sheriff William I. Traeger.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Every little while it is claimed that old economic principles are outgrown and do not fit modern conditions of trade. Recently that was constantly asserted about business. The past few months have shown the contention was untrue.

Now it is proposed to stimulate business by modifying the Sherman antitrust law. That statute is little more than a codification of the common law; which resulted from centuries of bitter commercial experience. Its object is mainly to prevent those conspiracies in restraint of trade, commonly called monopolies, which always have in them an element injurious to the public welfare. Otherwise no legal monopoly exists.

If monopolies were permitted a few men in key positions would soon control our economic and probably our political destinies. Open opportunity would be gone. About the only remedy would be revolution. The alternative would be a rigorous and blighting government control.

Present conditions are far from perfect but the rule against monopolies is sound. If we need conservation of natural resources, let it be secured in less hazardous ways. A bill to amend the Sherman law in one particular is certain to produce all kinds of modifications. It is a dangerous proposal.

Vizetelly Gives Low-Down On Slanguage; And How!

Dean of American Lexicographers, Put on Spot by Rag's Scribe, Comes Clean With His Impressions of Etymological Short-Cuts.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Dead languages are dead "because they had no slang to vivify them," in the opinion of Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, dean of American lexicographers.

Dr. Vizetelly acknowledges that he gets "a great kick out of the expressiveness of American slang; there's something snappy about it that seems to fit, no matter how spontaneous, it originates." He not only gets a "kick" out of it, but when usage decrees he puts it in the dictionary.

Dr. Vizetelly says he is not a "wisecracker," but admitting an academic interest in slang he uses a "wisecracking" medium to put over his ideas. Let him tell it in his own words:

"Slang travels in cycles," says the lexicographer, "but every now and again one is startled by the discovery that the shorter the term, the stronger its force. There is a certain sincerity about slang that frees it altogether from snobbery, and it leaves very little room for doubt as to inattention. Prove it? Well, there's not the least doubt about a man's meaning when he calls you a dud, a wet blanket or a calamity howler. You know what he means, and you can't possibly kid yourself that you don't, and I don't mean maybe. At the same time, nothing is more dismal than dead slang.

"Of course, I know without being told what a stick-up artist is, even though yesterday I did not know what a skip-tracer was. Yes, bum dough, a grand, a hard bird, a firebug, a spieler and a gat-toter are ning preceding that of the murder. Miss Baker lived in a house in Clarendon.

In Separate Cars.

The prisoner relates how they were in separate cars on the night of the murder but he says that she left her machine and joined him for a drive over Virginia roads. The murder took place in his car, according to the cast Miss Baker's body into a culvert man's statement. He wrote that he and burned a bloodstained seat from his car.

These statements are refuted by the discovery of Miss Baker's bloodstained Ford car at the murder scene. Allard said yesterday that her car was a Chevrolet, and that after killing the young woman he went to the place where it was parked and drove it to the place where he had thrown the body.

The two-year search for Harry Allard in connection with the murder of Frank Nagal, in McIntosh County, Ga., in December, 1928, ended a month ago with the receipt of a mailed confession from the man in the Syracuse jail, according to dispatches from Darien, Ga., last night.

Case Was Mystery.

The case attracted wide attention because of the numerous elements of mystery with which it was surrounded.

The slain man's brother received a telegram on the night of his disappearance, saying that Frank Nagal had been killed and that his body was being shipped to this city. At that time the body had not been discovered by the Georgia authorities, although there had been a report of an altercation on a roadway near Brunswick.

More than a year later, the decapitated corpse, badly decomposed, was found in a swamp near the scene of the tragedy.

The investigation was reopened and with new clues the police rounded up six women charged with knowledge of the murder.

Fliers Forced Down On Porto Rico Flight

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, chief of the United States militia bureau, who was forced down at Seymour, Ind., last night by fog on the first leg of a flight to Porto Rico, went to Bowman Field here today to await the arrival of his airplane from Seymour. He came to Louisville last night by train.

Fort Bragg, N. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Capt. Vincent Meloy, Army pilot, forced down by weather here yesterday while flying to Columbia, S. C., where he was to meet Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, said today he would take off for Atlanta as soon as the weather permitted.

Cashier Held in Theft; Holdup Inquiry Is On

Hillsboro, N. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Robert Riley, cashier of the Bank of Bland and admittedly short in his accounts, today was in jail here while officers reopened their investigation of an attempted holdup of the bank ten days ago in which one man was killed.

Riley confessed he has misappropriated a "considerable sum" yesterday when the State bank examiner began his regular audit. He asserted no one else was involved and placed the amount of the shortage as "possibly $40,000" refusing at the same time to say what the had done with it. Officers were reluctant to discuss what theories they held.

Three Middle-Aged Men End Their Lives by Gas

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Three middle-aged Westchester County men, one in poor health and the others facing financial difficulties, lay down in their kitchens today, turned on the gas and died.

John Smith, a contractor, was found dead at Mount Vernon by his son. Louis Simonson, a real estate broker, ended his life at Eastchester. Alexander Finn, a retired fur dealer, was found dead in his White Plains home by his wife, on her return from a shopping trip.

wing, shortly after they came in contact with the flock of 60. The two men had their turkeys by noon and then lunched at Camp Cleveland in the center of the preserve, where the late President Cleveland spent much time while fishing at the camp. During the afternoon they hunted only pheasants, Mr. Ritchey getting seven and Mr. Bridges four.

The President's secretary arrived this morning and was met at the new clubhouse by Mr. Bridges, who with a guide accompanied Mr. Ritchey into the mountains. The famous club, which was organized in 1870 by the late Rear Admiral Robley D. (Fighting Bob) Evans, has numbered among its membership some of the leading financiers of the country. The club is considered the most exclusive hunt club in the country. Four former Presidents of the United States have been entertained there, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison and a large armchair made by one of the guides of the club, is known as the President's chair and bears the names of the four Presidents who sat in it.

The Potomac River just below the club was one of President Cleveland's favorite fishing grounds and he often was the guest of the club on many of these expeditions.

Among the most notable members are the Mellons, the Du Ponts and several of the leading bankers in New York, Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

The club has a 6,000-acre preserve and turkeys are reared in the wild state, as well as other game, including deer. The preserve is entirely inclosed and special laws passed by the Maryland Assembly govern the hunting upon the preserve.

Ocean Air Liner Planned.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Nov. 13 (A.P.)—Advices from Pancevo today told of the death of the Russian general, Smirnoff, who distinguished himself in the defense of Port Arthur, during the Russo-Japanese War. Gen. Smirnoff has lived for many years at Pancevo in exile from his native land.

BANKER KILLS THREE DAUGHTERS, HIMSELF

WIDOW FROM BALTIMORE

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A father apparently crazed by the specter of poverty shot and killed his three small daughters and critically wounded his wife among the luxuries of their fashionable home here today. He then shot and killed himself.

The man, R. W. Playford, 65, was a prominent lawyer and banker of the city. His widow formerly was Nancy Stirling, member of a prominent Baltimore, Md., family, from which has come three admirals of the United States. She is 45 years old.

Mrs. Playford late today was given a slight chance to recover from a bullet wound in her head. She still was unconscious at her home, too critically wounded for removal to a hospital.

Fear of Poorhouse.

The mother and the three children were shot in their beds, the oldest child, Nancy, 13, as she lay under a bed light studying her lessons for the day in school. The younger children, Margaret, 10, and Pauline, 9, and their mother, apparently were sleeping when Playford shot them.

The fear of the "poorhouse" that Playford expressed to friends was believed by them to be unfounded. While it was agreed he may have lost money, District Attorney J. B. Adams said his financial condition was not as bad as he supposed.

Temporary insanity was believed to have caused the shooting, since Playford recently told friends he feared he would go insane because of his business worries, and that his family might go "to the poorhouse."

Were Prominent Socially.

The Playfords lived in one of the most pretentious residences in the city and both were prominent in social life here. Mrs. Playford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Stirling, made her debut in Baltimore, and her marriage to Playford was a brilliant event.

Playford was a director of the National Bank of Fayette County and vestryman in St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Funeral arrangements for Playford and his children awaited arrival of the dead man's brother, Charles, from Baltimore.

Family of Admirals.

Baltimore, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. R. W. Playford, probably fatally wounded by her husband at Uniontown today as he killed his three daughters and himself, is a member of a prominent Baltimore family and the grandniece of the late Admiral Yates Stirling, naval officer whose family has given three admirals to the Navy.

She was, before her marriage, Miss Nancy Stirling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Stirling, and made her debut in Baltimore. She became one of the most popular members of her debutante group. Her marriage to Playford, then a young banker, was a brilliant social event and attracted society leaders from several large cities of the East.

Playford's brother, Charles, is engaged in business in Baltimore.

Four Are Urged For Galt Award

BOY DIES AS STUMP, BLASTED, HITS ROOF

Five Ironton, Ohio, Students Hurt When Road Force Sets Off Charge.

ONE LAD FACING DEATH

Ironton, Ohio, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—One child was killed, another was injured, possibly fatally, and five others were hurt less seriously today when a 500-pound tree stump fell through the roof of the old Kelly School, 4 miles north of here after it was blown 125 yards by dynamite.

James Dean, 12, died in a hospital here of a crushed skull a few hours after the accident. Rodney Elam, 11, suffered a laceration of his face. His condition was serious.

The tree stump was blown from the Black Fork highway on which workmen had started paving. County officials said that a charge of 22 sticks of explosive had been placed under the stump.

Several students told officials that they saw the stump hurled into the air and then heard it strike the roof of the school. The stump broke through the roof, fell into an aisle in the center of the schoolroom and then broke through the floor and was buried in the dirt beneath.

Dean and Elam were sitting at desks adjacent to the place where the stump went through the floor. The othered injured were struck by debris from the roof.

James Nance, teacher of the school, carried the injured children from the building and other pupils fled to exits as soon as the missive struck the roof. The school had 23 pupils ranging in age from 9 to 17 years.

U. S. Exports to Orient Gained in September

(Associated Press.)

American exports to the Orient during September were estimated by the Commerce Department today to have increased 8 per cent over August. The increase, it said, was "more significant in view of the almost unbroken downward trend from February to July" in general foreign trade.

September shipments of flour to China and the Philippines amounted to 420,000 barrels, probably the largest monthly total on record, and an increase of 90 per cent over the preceding month.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—More than a thousand Communist sympathizers battled with police today in a demonstration in front of a cafeteria in West Thirty-fourth street which has been the scene of labor trouble in recent weeks. Half a dozen persons were injured in the struggle and between 30 and 40 were arrested.

A month ago left wing Communists were restrained from picketing the cafeteria, operated in the garment making section of Manhattan.

FRENCH HILL SLIDE BURIES 100 PERSONS

excavating the debris was halted, to be resumed at daybreak. "We must dig for several days," said Commandant Pegout, of the fire department, "unless there is another landslide. If there is, Gold help us."

Mayor Herriot, who once was Premier of France, came with the earliest contingent of police and remained through most of the day. A landslide like this had been feared, he was told, because of heavy rains during last several days, and some of the buildings along the hill had been emptied of tenants. The mayor instituted an investigation to determine whether any of his officials had neglected their duty in failing to take precautionary measures which might have averted this disaster.

Tenants needed no police warnings to abandon such houses as had escaped destruction; and as they massed about the scene of havoc they interfered with the work of the rescuers until police lines were formed to keep them at a distance.

It was a "geological slip" which caused the catastrophe, engineers said, and they expressed grave fears that more rain tonight or within the next day or so might bring another landslide. If heavy rains should come, they said, the whole Fourviere Hill might come down in an avalanche which would be extremely dangerous.

Men Tunnel, Save Nun, After Digging 18 Feet

The rescue of a Catholic nun, Sister Blondine, was remarkable. She was asleep on the top floor of a building in the Rue Tramassac when the building fell. Not only her bed but the entire room was hurled to the ground floor, a mass of wreckage, and she escaped immediate death only by a peculiar formation of stone and roof beams which hemmed her in.

Rescuers heard shrieks of pain from the debris and immediately began tunneling the 18 feet of building wreckage which separated them from the nun. Four workmen finally dug through, although their own lives were constantly imperiled by falling ruins. After two hours they found Sister Blondine gripped by stone and iron. She was pale and weak, but as the workmen tenderly released her, she found strength to murmur "God has saved me through you." She was badly hurt, with her body paralyzed, but is expected to live.

Mayor Herriot, himself an anxious spectator, escorted the rescuers to a crowd waiting nearby, where they were acclaimed as heroes.

LEGION PLEDGES AID TO JOBLESS CAUSE

Bodenhamer Says 900,000 Members Will Back Woods' Program.

REPORT IS ENCOURAGING

(Associated Press.)

The cooperation of the nearly 900,000 members of the American Legion was pledged yesterday to the President's emergency committee on unemployment in its efforts to provide jobs for those out of work.

O. L. Bodenhamer, a former national commander, assured Chairman Woods of the committee that the "entire strength" of the legion was back of the movement. At the same time Bodenhamer called upon the legionnaires to support plans for speeding public building construction to relieve unemployment.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department reported there had been no increase in unemployment during October as compared with previous months.

"This in itself is a good sign," it added, "as October is often marked by increased idleness, due to seasonal influences. With all Government agencies, States, and municipalities cooperating to stimulate employment, we are hopefully looking forward to an improved situation."

Chairman Woods also announced the receipt of other encouraging reports including one from Capt. J. F. Lucey, of Dallas, advisor for the Southwest. Lucey said he had conferred with Gov. Long of Louisiana and the mayors of New Orleans and Dallas and had found them organizing to meet their own problems.

At the same time Woods counseled industry to solve the problem of discharging men or women "on the basis of merit, rather than on the basis of sex."

Asked for the committee's attitude on cutting production costs by replacing men with women workers, Woods said he would urge employers to "take the more competent. If they are equally competent—take the one whose need is greater."

TRIAL BARES INCOME OF CAPONE MANAGER

Guzik Amassed $1,000,000 in 3 Years, According to Tax-Hearing Evidence.

DEPOSIT SLIPS CHECKED

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A procession of bankers moved through a Federal courtroom today adding up for the Government the little deposit slips that recorded the wealth of Jack Guzik, Capone gang manager.

They wrote a total of $863,338 at noon, and added bit by bit to the evidence through the afternoon until deposits of nearly $1,000,000 had been shown to the credit of Guzik in a three-year period. The Government had promised to show the jury the gangster was in the millionaire class, despite his protestations that income tax schedules totaling $60,340 for 1927, 1928 and 1929 represented his true earnings.

Gambling houses run by Guzik, and profits of the Hawthorne and Laramie Kennel Clubs—now closed by injunction—were the source of most of the indicated wealth, the prosecution contends.

Although the trial may bring to light some of the operations of the underworld syndicates, the jury was warned by Judge Charles E. Woodward that Guzik is on trial only for alleged evasion of the Federal income tax, and no extraneous matter may be considered in determining the issue.

Most of the deposit slips identified by tellers and officers of the bank today showed credits to Guzik's account in the Equitable Trust Co. Other evidence, however, included checks written by various persons on a Cicero bank used by the Capone brothers; these were indorsed finally by Guzik.

Defense attorneys sought to break down the testimony of the bankers, but Ansley Jacobs, a receiving teller, was positive of his identification of 110 deposit slips brought to his window by Guzik or his messengers.

The Government hopes to send the gangster to the penitentiary. Ralph Capone, elder brother of "Scarface Al," has already been convicted of hiding his wealth and escaping the Federal tax and has appealed from a three-year prison sentence.

Officials of the Department of Justice and Prohibition Bureau said yesterday they had never heard of the reported threat by Chicago gangsters to kill officials of Fruit Industries, Ltd., if they sold grape concentrate there.

Some officials recalled that several years ago it had been charged that Chicago gangsters had refused to permit unloading of carloads of grapes until a tribute had been paid them.

It was said that frequently because of the gangster interference grapes were sold at less than the cost of shipment and found their way into the hands of gangster winemakers.

CALIFORNIA FIGHTS CAPONE "INVASION"

"GRAPE-JUICE WAR" SEEN

Fresno, Calif., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Fresno Bee said today that orders had gone out from the headquarters of Al ("Scarface") Capone, Chicago gangland chief, that grape concentrates, the new product of the Fruit Industries, Ltd., of California, could not be sold in Chicago, and that death would be the price of disobedience.

It was understood, the Bee said, that gangland's orders were handed down to those in a position to act as selling agents for the new product—a highly concentrated grape juice capable of fermentation.

Officials of the Fruit Industries, Ltd., the Bee declared, are in Chicago to see what can be done. The concern is part of the Government-sponsored grape-control organization in California.

The newspaper asserted that its information was obtained in Washington, Chicago and San Francisco, and that the Capone order to his henchmen came at a time when the concern was preparing to enter Chicago with the legal grape product after launching a campaign in Milwaukee.

Representatives of Fruit Industries, Ltd., in Washington are said to be consulting with Government authorities on what should be done.

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Chicago branch officials of Fruit Industries, Ltd., of California, said today they had received no threats from "Al" Capone and that their only knowledge of the gangster had been gleaned from newspaper columns. They had heard nothing, they declared, of a report from Fresno that Capone had warned against introduction of their product into Chicago.

L. H. Fisher, the local manager, said the company's product had been on the market for ten years.

Former Ohio Treasurer Paroled From Atlanta

(Associated Press.)

Bert B. Buckley, former State treasurer of Ohio, convicted on charges of bribery and conspiracy and sentenced to serve two years and six months in the penitentiary, yesterday was granted a parole effective November 20. He had one year yet to serve in the Atlanta Penitentiary.

Buckley was arrested in January, 1929, and charged with conspiracy to bribe John Eckhart, acting assistant prohibition director of the Ohio-Indiana District, to permit the shipping of beer from Cincinnati breweries. Gov. Cooper threatened to impeach him before the Legislature, and he resigned as treasurer.

Receivers Named For Shipping Line

Goodrich Transit Co. Fails After 60 Years of Lake Traffic.

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Goodrich Transit Co., operator of steamships on Lake Michigan for more than 60 years, went into the hands of receivers today.

Such action against the line, which had done a gross business of approximately $15,000,000 during the last six years, followed the filing of a claim for $39,000 by the Consumers Co., a Chicago fuel concern. The bill, filed in the United States District Court, states that the Goodrich company has assets of $2,000,000. L. M. Bowden, attorney for the plaintiff, declares the liabilities are estimated at $1,300,000—$800,000 in mortgages and $500,000 on other accounts.

President Edward E. Taylor of the Goodrich line, who, with George F. Getz, was appointed receiver by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, said the firm's condition was due to the industrial depression, but that he looked for an increase in the next season's business to carry the company out of its dilemma without loss to any one.

DRY LOSSES IN OHIO LAID TO ECONOMICS

Antisaloon League to Fight to Prove There Was No Backward Step.

W.C.T.U. PLANS PRAYERS

Special to The Washington Post.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 13.—The Ohio Antisaloon League emerged today from the great debacle which overtook it on November 4. It came up ten days after the wet tide rolled over Ohio to say there was no such thing. The defeat of Senator R. C. McCulloch, dry Republican, and the election of R. J. Bulkley, wet Democrat, were not due to prohibition but solely to "economic conditions, for which the voters held the national administration responsible," the league officially said today.

The league continued: "The economic upheaval relegated to private life in Ohio and other States a number of representatives and in most instances placed in their seats new men—some of them wet. This was true in several Ohio districts."

Asserting that a wet victory has been claimed in Ohio, the league said, "drys will have to fight harder than ever and prove to the country and the world that there is to be no backward step on prohibition here in Ohio." The present delegation in Congress from Ohio stands eighteen dry and four wet, the league says, but the new one is to stand ten dry, eight wet and four doubtful.

The Antisaloon League says that a referendum is to be called in Ohio to repeal the State prohibition enforcement law. It calls on the drys to rally with "no shirkers and no sleepers."

Houston, Tex., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Expressing no discouragement at wet gains in the recent general election, officials of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union today approved plans for a world-wide week of pentecostal prayer. Before entering the preconvention meeting at which the prayer week was authorized, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, said the election had not changed the status of the United States Senate. Dry losses in the House "were too small to be of real significance," she continued. "We aren't discouraged. We are going to gird for battle at this convention," she said.

As many as 2,500,000 members of the W. C. T. U. may participate in the prayer week, it was said. The plan will include sending a message of temperance, identically worded, to sister organizations all over the world for reading, probably in the week of January 8-15. Heretofore, it was said, the prayer week had been observed only in this country. There was no open convention session today, the general meetings not being scheduled to begin.

quest "with the suggestion that the President fix his own party first."

The statement pointed out that the leaders of both parties had been "communicated" with.

There is confusion, too, about the degree of assurance that Senator Robinson has given the President. It had been the understanding that he had not replied to the President's letter and an Associated Press dispatch from Little Rock said that Senator Robinson had not even received it.

Doesn't Want Session.

In view of the attitude of Senator Glass and other Democrats—Senator Glass having issued a scorching statement Wednesday that the Democrats should not be apologetic about their victory—it is probable that Senator Robinson will move very slowly in the cooperation business.

Senator Glass emphasized yesterday that he did not want an extra session and said he knew of no Democrats who do want one. There are, however, some who do.

Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, also got into the "cooperation" argument, asserting that "those of us who have been on the firing line for the last eight years, battling against the vicious policies of the present administration * * * are going to continue the fight, ambiguous statements seemingly to the contrary notwithstanding."

DRY LAW COMMISSION TAKES TEN-DAY RECESS FOR REPORT

the report, it would be enacted at the coming short session of Congress.

As the Law Enforcement Commission adjourned yesterday, there was some optimism among its members that they could get together on a report, if not by the predicted "early in December," at least by the end of that month. From within the ranks came the prediction also that the report might be almost unanimous in its recommendations, but with possible dissension by one or two members.

A majority of the members will remain in Washington during the ten-day recess. Newton D. Baker will not be able to remain. Two other members also have been called away.

The appearance of Woodcock before the commission brought back rumors that the members might have had a hand in his hurried recall from San Francisco. Woodcock himself would not say, nor would he discuss what he had laid before the commission.

The Attorney General, in discussing the situation brought about by a California concern's campaign to sell grape concentrate, said the Department of Justice's attitude toward the use of fermentable fruit juices in the home had changed "not an iota" since 1926. He pointed to a statement issued by the department at that time, saying it would not appeal to the Supreme Court the decision of a lower court holding "that a person who has manufactured fruit juices may lawfully possess the product in his home exclusively for home use, notwithstanding that it has, by process of fermentation, acquired an alcoholic content of one-half of 1 per cent or more by volume, providing that it has not become intoxicating in fact."

Mitchell also mentioned instructions given to prohibition agents about a year ago, telling them not to interfere with the sale of fruit juices intended only for home use.

CURTIS SAYS G. O. P. WILL REGAIN GROUND

Vice President Lays Recent Election Losses to Depression.

SPEAKER AT BANQUET

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A prediction that the Republican party would regain the ground lost in the recent election was made here tonight by Vice President Curtis in an address at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

"All of us are greatly surprised at the reversal of public opinion in the recent election," Mr. Curtis said, "which was brought about by the business depression and loss of confidence, and it will take the united efforts of the men and women of the entire country to restore confidence, but when this confidence is restored, as it will be, our party will regain the ground lost November 4, 1930."

Turning his remarks to the position of women in government in this country, Mr. Curtis said no evolution in human history is as more important than the expansion of the powers and privileges of modern women.

The Republican party, he said, had played an important role in enacting legislation giving women the right to vote. Among the first 36 States to ratify the amendment, he asserted, 31 were normally Republican and 5 normally Democratic.

Mr. Curtis praised the efforts of women to secure legislation such as the establishment of the Children's Bureau, an act to protect American women married to foreigners, establishment of an industrial home for women and child labor laws.

Maryland Couple In Yawl Are Safe

Pair From Crisfield Were Moored in Shelter During Storms.

Word was received here yesterday from Charleston, S. C., that Carl and Jessica Justice, Crisfield, Md., couple, had arrived there safely in their 34-foot yawl, Explorer, after fears had been entertained by their friends here for their safety during the storms which swept up the seaboard after their departure from Washington in late summer.

Justice, in a letter to friends, declared they were moored in sheltered waters along the North Carolina coast near Beaufort when the Santo Domingan hurricane lashed the Atlantic seaboard, and had proceeded leisurely southward to Charleston.

The couple left Washington on a projected world cruise after spending about two years here in saving the money to finance the trip and outfit the craft in odd moments for the journey.

GAS COMPANY CUTS RATES FOR COUNTY

Changes in Montgomery Is Made Effective for First of November.

HEATING PRICE LOWERED

Lower gas rates for Montgomery County were announced in a statement issued by George B. Fraser, vice president of the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County, yesterday. The new rates were made effective as of November 1, 1930, and it is expected the cut will be noticeable on this month's gas bills.

Under the domestic service schedule, the first 2,500 cubic feet or less is charged at $1.20 per 1,000 cubic feet. All over 2,500 cubic feet is charged for at the rate of 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. This is expected to effect a considerable saving over the former method of charging a straight $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The gas company also announces a new general house and building heating service schedule which provides for a fixed charge of $1 per month for the meter, plus a maximum use charge of $2 per 1,000 cubic feet during the seven heating months from October to April and a gas consumption charge of 65 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Under this schedule the gas in the average gas heated home in the heating season will be 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. This low house heating rate also is applied to gas consumed for cooking, heating water and all other purposes, provided the annual requirement for heating is at least 60 per cent of the total annual consumption. The new rates have been filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department has taken the initial step toward erection of a modern firehouse, it was learned yesterday, by purchasing a lot for its proposed home. The lot is located on Conduit road adjacent to the blacksmith shop and was purchased from Mrs. D. S. Tuohey. The transfer has been recorded at Rockville.

A building committee, which will have charge of the plans for the new structure, was announced yesterday by C. E. Benson, president of the department. It includes D. S. Tuohey, William Hannon and Sydney Graham. He also announced the election of B. G. Brann as secretary of the department.

The Montgomery County grand jury is expected to complete its deliberations today. The grand jury has been in session at Rockville since Monday, when the November term of circuit court convened. Donald A. DeLashmutt, Rockville automobile dealer, is foreman of the grand jury.

It is believed that the grand jury has completed its work on criminal cases and that it will view the county jail and almshouse today as the final effort of its session. It is probable that the report of the grand jury will be presented to Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court tonight unless some new development necessitates further deliberations.

The sixth annual meeting of the Council of Home Demonstration Clubs of Montgomery County will be held Thursday in Firemen's Hall, Rockville, it was announced yesterday by Miss Blanche Corwin, home demonstration agent for the county.

Mrs. James D. King, president of the council, will preside. Other officers are: Mrs. Edward S. Barpsley, first vice president; Mrs. John E. Darby, second vice president; Mrs. Charles R. Smith, secretary, and Mrs. Granville E. Kinsey, treasurer.

The semiannual meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs will be held today in the Bethesda Presbyterian Church. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, of Baltimore, president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, president of the sixth district, will address the meeting.

Mrs. J. Somervel Dawson, chairman of the Montgomery County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Miss Estelle Moore, who is in charge of the tuberculosis Christmas seals sales in the county, also will speak. Directors of the constitutent clubs will report on their club's activities.

Prof. W. R. Beattie, of the Department of Agriculture, will speak on "Seasonable Operations in the Garden," at a meeting of the Bethesda Garden Club this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Battery Park Community House. Mrs. Leon M. Grant, president, will preside.

Mrs. Francis M. Hallowell is chairman of the committee which has been named by the woman's board of the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring to prepare a slate for the annual election in January. Other members of the committee are: Mrs. Samuel Nichols, Mrs. George Hunter, Mrs. Leonard C. Burns and Mrs. Robert H. Miller.

The present chairman of the board is Mrs. Mahlon Kirk. Mrs. Earl H. Clapp, of Chevy Chase, has resigned as a member of the board. Mrs. Arthur W. Palmer has been appointed to represent the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, Mrs. Archibald Small to represent the Home interest Club of Forest Glen, and Mrs. Donald Bowie, member at large from Aspen.

Miss Elizabeth Jones, superintendent of the hospital, reported 65 admissions to the hospital in October.

The Maryland Tuberculosis Association will hold a clinic at 10 o'clock this morning at the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring.

Train Hits Truck, Injuring Driver

Memor Crippen, of Herndon, Hurt About Head in Crossing Crash.

Memor Crippen, 47, of Herndon, a driver for the Washington Laundry, Washington, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he, according to the police, drove his truck in the path of a freight train on the Washington & Old Dominion Railway at Dunn Loring, Va. The truck was demolished.

Crippen was rushed to the Georgetown Hospital by R. B. Turner, of East Falls Church, where he was said to have a fracture of the skull and cuts and bruises.

M. C. Trail, a next door neighbor of Crippen, was on the train returning to Herndon when the accident occurred and accompanied the injured man to the hospital. Policeman Lewis L. Finks, of Fairfax County, who investigated the accident, was of the opinion that Crippen's carelessness was the cause of the crash, as a view of the tracks in both directions is clear.

TELEGRAM SPURS HUNT FOR CRATER

Nervous Man Wires Missing New York Justice at Baltimore Hotel.

NOT REGISTERED THERE

New York, Nov. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The search for former Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, who disappeared August 6, took another spurt tonight following word that a telegram had been sent from New York, addressed to the missing jurist at the Hotel Southern, Baltimore. Inquiry in Baltimore revealed that no one by the name of Crater was known at that hotel.

The telegram was sent by a man who signed himself as "Pat Hogan." The sender, apparently highly nervous, walked into the Western Union office at 100 Broadway between 5 and 6 o'clock this afternoon and wrote out his message on a blank. The telegram read:

"Everything is O. K. Will see you tonight."

The man, described as tall and middle-aged, handed this to the clerk, with money in payment, and then hurried from the office.

Police were notified, and Detective James Reilly of headquarters, who was in Baltimore, was instructed to go at once to the Southern. He soon reported that no one by the name of Crater was at the hotel. Police then thought it possible the telegram was the work of a crank.

Rumors that Crater was in Maryland have been investigated extensively recently by detectives attached to the office of State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Connor, of Haford County, Md., acting on request of District Attorney Crain. The detectives were reported to be shadowing several houses in Baltimore, where Crater was reported to have stayed under an assumed name.

There is a Patrick Hogan known to be a present or past member of the Cayuga Democratic Club, Tammany club, of which Crater was at one time president. A Patrick Hogan is special investigator in Mayor Walker's office, and was a witness in the Ewald case before the grand jury Wednesday. This latter Hogan, reached on the telephone tonight, denied all knowledge of the Crater telegram.

ALEXANDRIA FIFTH EXEMPT OF TAXES

Memorial Temple, Churches, Schools, Hospital and Aged Home Are Valued.

NEW ASSESSMENT MADE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Property in Alexandria which is exempt from city taxes amounts to approximately one-fifth of the entire assessment, according to the preliminary survey just completed. The exempted property consists of the George Washington National Memorial Temple, the assessed value of which has been tentatively placed at $4,000,000; churches, church property, city schools, the City Hall, the Alexandria Hospital, Lee Camp Hall and the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged.

The new assessment, which has just been completed, shows the value of all real estate, exclusive of public utilities, such as gas plant, water, electric and steam lines, to be $36,661,915. This assessment has been made for the first time on the basis of the actual market value of the property, previous assessments having been based on an arbitrary figure set by the assessors, usually about one-third the actual market value of the property.

Under the old valuation the tax rate was $2.65 on each $100 assesed valuation, whereas, if the new assessment is placed in force, it is expected the city council will establish a tax rate of either $1 or $1.25, which will yield a slightly higher return than the old rate.

The work of preparing an alphabetically arranged tax land assessment book is now under way, the work being done by J. W. Maddux and C. E. Crock. It is expected this work will be completed within the next week or ten days, and the books will then be open to the public for inspection in the office of the clerk of the Corporation Court.

The last day on which city taxes may be paid for the second half of the year without incurring a penalty for delinquency will be tomorrow, and yesterday there was a steady stream of taxpayers in the city collector's office.

C. C. Brown, of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion, addressed the Kiwanis' luncheon meeting at the George Mason Hotel yesterday on the work of his committee. F. Clinton Knight, rehabilitation chairman of the local legion post, who was program chairman for the meeting, introduced Mr. Brown. Sidney Weil, local post commander, told of the efforts of the post to relieve the unemployment situation.

Roger C. Sullivan, chairman for the ladies' night entertainment of November 20, announced that he has secured the services of Jules Brazil, of the National Broadcasting Co.

Man Struck by Auto.

Deeton was taken to the Alexandria Hospital, where Dr. S. B. Moore treated him for a broken rib and minor bruises. According to the police, Deeton stepped in front of the car and was struck before the driver could stop.

Lawrence Baggett, 12 years old, was strucky by a city street sweeper on the 400 block Cameron street, yesterday morning, but escaped with a few minor cuts. The boy, according to Marvin Downs, driver of the sweeper, ran his wagon in front of the sweeper, apparently being blinded by the lights of the machine.

Owing to the absence of some of the officers and members of the standing committee of the Washington Society of Alexandria, the meeting of the society scheduled for Tuesday was postponed. It is expected a meeting will be called for November 20.

R. Humphries, Alexandria, and Mrs. W. S. Adams, New York City, and a brother, L. P. O'Neil, of Hampton, Va. Mr. O'Neil was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and of the Railway Employes Association. Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 13.—An offer for the purchase of the municipally owned gas works has been placed before the Fredericksburg Common Council by representatives of the Washington Gas Co., of Washington, D. C., and although the negotiations have failed to result in a definite decision from the lawmaking body, it is believed that an eventual sale will be made.

The acquisition of the local gas works by the Washington Gas Co. would be marked by a considerable reduction in the present rates, the representatives stated, and better service to consumers.

FARMERS TO PRESS FOR TAX ON INCOME

MORE EQUITABLE, CLAIM

A proposal to tax the income of farmers rather than their landholdings will be presented to the State Grange by the Pomona Grange of Prince Georges County when the State body meets in Silver Spring early next month.

This plan was discussed by the county group at its quarterly meeting yesterday in Beltsville. The proposal was developed and presented to Pomona Grange by the farm taxation committee of the Prince Georges group. This same group also will consult with Dr. Samuel H. DeVault, of the University of Maryland, who is making a State-wide survey of economic conditions in agriculture.

Whether or not the new method of taxation will become a bill to be presented to the State Legislature depends upon the action of the State Grange, which will no doubt be guided by the counsel of Dr. DeVault. Farmers point out the inequality of taxes in such years as the present, when crops values are cut in half, although taxes remain the same.

A. C. Conway, of Savage, Md., has received the contract for laying sidewalks along the Baltimore boulevard in Hyattsville. Work will start immediately so that the walks, torn up during the recent widening of the boulevard, can be laid again before winter sets in.

Announcement of letting the contract was made at a special meeting of the Hyattsville town council, which also granted a permit for construction of a railroad spur from the Baltimore & Ohio line to the coal yard of Dickey Bros. This branch line will cross Railroad avenue.

A permit also was granted to the coal company for erection of four concrete coal silos, each 60 feet high. These are expected to eliminate the coal dust which has been a constant source of complaint by neighboring property owners.

Crops in Prince Georges County have diminished from 30 to 60 per cent, according to figures gathered by County Agent W. B. Posey, for the Maryland Drought Relief Corporation. Tobacco suffered least, being 60 per cent of normal, although the monetary loss will be about $438,000.

Corn crops are only 30 per cent of normal and hay 40 per cent. The loss due to the drought is estimated at $1,816,000.

Conversion of the two-mile stretch of dirt road between Brandywine and Aquasco to a gravel-surfaced highway will begin within a few days, Joseph C. Chaney, district engineer, said yesterday. The work will cost about $36,000 and is expected to be completed during the winter.

Mr. Chaney also said no more concrete work will be done on roads or bridges this year, as it is too cold for proper hardening of the material.

Members of the Maryland Bankers' Association in the fourth group will meet November 20 in Trinity Hall, Upper Marlboro, at 2 o'clock. This group includes bank officials from Prince Georges, Anne Arundel, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys counties. Discussion of the credit aspects of the farmer's economic difficulties probably will be a feature of the gathering.

Arrested yesterday by County Policeman Earl Blackwell, Charles Hooper, of Capitol Heights, was committed to the county jail until he can be tried on a charge of stealing chickens. Blackwell said he chased the man about five blocks before capturing him.

The arrest was made on complaint of Mrs. Zelma King, also of Capitol Heights, who said she saw Hooper come out of her henhouse early yesterday. Two chickens, identified by Mrs. King as hers, were found in the man's possession, police declare. She said she had lost more than 40 during a series of raids on the roosts. Hooper will be tried on a simple larceny charge in Police Court next Thursday.

A mission to strengthen the faith of church members will be held all next week in the Pinkney Memorial Episcopal Church at Hyattsville. Dr. Robert S. Flockhart, of Baltimore, will conduct the services, assisted by the Rev. Clyde Brown, rector of the church.

A proposal to establish a central fire control board in Prince Georges County was discussed at a recent meeting of the county Volunteer Firemen's Association. Such a board would better control the movement of fire engines throughout the county and prevent the calling out of unnecessary apparatus, it was said.

It was recalled that Capt. B. Wesley Cranford, of the Marlboro department, had been killed when his engine responded to a minor fire. With a central control board, the Marlboro company would not have been summoned at the time.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 13.—Jacob Boss, local merchant, was summoned by phone to the bedside of his dying father, James Boss, Harrisburg, late yesterday. The son, driving to Harrisburg, himself was stricken with a heart attack and was taken to Carlisle, Pa.

CASSIDAY'S CUSTOMER LIST BURNED BY U. S., BUTTS LEARNS

leading to the ground floor, I took about two drinks to get a breath, but not enough to affect me.

He Whoopees in Office.

I went into the Senate stationery room, conducting myself as though I were feeling very, very good—not staggering, but just a little unsteady. I sat at my desk and started singing and making all kinds of noises to give the impression that I was feeling good.

The other Senate employes in the stationery room were all good-natured about it. They laughed and joked with me and seemed to get quite a kick out of the incident.

I was making so much noise, singing and talking loud, and playing horse, that the boys finally took me in charge. They did not want me to get into trouble and lose my job or have it get around the Senate Office Building that I was drunk. At noon one of the boys took me home to "sober up."

A report of this incident got back to "the Man in the Green Hat," but his suspicion of me was almost an intuition and he was too shrewd to be taken in in regard to my personal habits. He continued to stay away from me, although I could see that he was getting orders and filling them regularly each day at the Senate Office Building.

A plan was finally worked out in the Prohibition Bureau that I should arrange to have a purchase of liquor made on February 18 at 11 o'clock in the morning in the space back of the Senate Office Building where members of the Senate and their secretaries park their cars.

Agents Sent to Make Arrest.

Two other prohibition agents, Messrs. Aiken and Gardiner, were sent up to Capitol Hill by the bureau to make the arrest when "the Man in the Green Hat" arrived with the liquor.

I had another Senate employe telephone Cassiday at his home from the stationery room to give him the order. The order was for six fifths of gin, or about five quarts. Directions were given to have the liquor left in an automobile parked at First and C streets northeast, in the rear of the Senate Office Building. Cassiday said "all right," he would have it there. A few minutes before 11 o'clock he drove up and the prohibition agents grabbed him.

Cassiday had been smart enough not to bring the liquor in his own car but the agents found the six fifths of gin in another automobile driven by another man for whom Cassiday was acting as a sort of convoy.

While the agents found no liquor either on Cassiday's person or in his car they did find a little black book in his inside coat pocket which contained the names and office numbers of the senators, congressmen and their secretaries, to whom "the Man in the Green Hat" had been delivering liquor.

This customer list was taken down to the Prohibition Bureau and filed in the Treasury Department. The original copy of the list was kept by the Treasury Department and by the Department of Justice, to which it was referred, for about five months, when I understand it was turned back to Cassiday.

Hears List Was Burned.

I have heard reports that photostat copies of the list were made and are now on file in the Treasury and Justice Departments. Others have told me that when it was seen what names of senators and congressmen were included among Cassiday's customers, those higher up in the department ordered the copies burned and they were destroyed.

Since I can not speak of this with my own knowledge I will not undertake to say what finally became of these lists, but I do know Cassiday's little black book was taken from him when the arrest was made on February 18, 1930, as the result of the investigation made in the Senate Office Building.

The arrest of "the Man in the Green Hat" and the seizure of his customer list did not bring my work in the Senate Office Building to an end. I continued to report every day at the stationery room with the regular employes until well along in March. Then I went off the temporary roll but dropped in at the stationery room at intervals until the last few months of the session of the Senate.

Another Bootlegger Nabbed.

In addition to Cassiday, we succeeded in catching another bootlegger at the Senate Office Building as a result of the investigation ordered by Vice President Curtis. The order was for three fifths of gin. When he arrived at the building with the liquor he was arrested by Prohibition Agent White and another agent whose name I do not recall, both having been sent by the Prohibition Bureau to Capitol Hill to make the arrest.

The object of the Prohibition Bureau in having me stay on as an employe in the Senate stationery room after Cassiday's arrest was to clean up all the bootleggers operating on Capitol Hill and to prevent other Senate employes from knowing that an agent had been planted in the Senate Office Building during most of the session of the Senate.

During the early spring, however, there were some unexpected developments in the Senate Office Building which made my position in the stationery room more difficult than ever.

TOMORROW — The "Senate spy" will refer to the raids on the offices of Senators Johnson, of California; McKellar, of Tennessee, and other senators, occurring while he was planted in the Senate Office Building.

Danville Cows Get Ration From Union

Strikers Find It Cheaper to Feed Them Than to Buy Milk.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 13.—The Schoolfield cows became "unionized" today and will henceforth subsist on strike rations provided by the committee on cow feed, of which Rufus Moseley is chairman. The drought this summer prevented the laying away of forage. Efforts by strikers to sell their cows, according to union members, were rewarded by poor offers. A union official then calculated that it would be almost twice as cheap for the union to buy feed for the cows as it would be to buy the milk they normally produce, hence the closing of feed contracts.

Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, has telegraphed to Buford Nash, president of the Danville local, that he will be here tomorrow to tell of a conference with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, at which Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, is said to have been present. The meeting will be for union members only.

Relief for Drought States Is Planned

Asking of $5,000,000 for Each of 18 Affected Is Discussed.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Plans to urge Congress to advance highway appropriations of $5,000,000 to each of the eighteen States of the drought area were discussed at a conference today between Gov. Pollard, Chairman Harry F. Byrd, of the State Drought Commission, and State Highway Commissioner Henry G. Shirley.

The plans will be presented by Chairman Byrd at a meeting of State drought chairmen in Washington next Thursday.

Under the plan advanced by Gov. Pollard, said to have been favorably commented on by drought relief chairmen of other States, the advance appropriations would be deducted from future appropriations to drought States at the rate of $500,000 a year.

VICE RING SUSPECT HELD IN BALTIMORE

'Milhan' Taken Into Custody for New York Police as Fugitive.

FIRST ARREST IN DRIVE

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The first arrest in a campaign against a vice ring alleged to have extorted $1,000,000 a year from women embroiled with New York police or the city courts was made today in Baltimore.

The prisoner was arrested on a warrant issued by Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, who, with Isadore J. Kresel, special prosecutor in the appellate court's investigation of the minor judiciary, has been delving into the activities of the ring.

Has Various Aliases.

The man held was described as "Hal Gibson," "Harry Milhan" and "Harry Copeland." Magistrate Corrigan says he is a former convict. Reports from Baltimore described him as assistant stage manager of a New York musical revue on tour.

At the same time Joseph Lesser, who has been before Kresel as a witness, appeared with a story of having been kidnaped and held captive by four men, who questioned him about the progress of the investigation.

Lesser said he was held in a house at Jersey City, other inmates of which were Louis Taube, confessed stool pigeon known as "The Dove;" Marty Booth and a man called "Harry the Greek." All three, subpenaed by Kresel, are believed hiding in the Jersey City house.

Taube appeared twice before Kresel, then disappeared about three weeks ago, after expressing belief that the information he gave had placed his life in danger.

Also Seeking Woman.

In connection with the Baltimore arrest, detectives sought a woman reported to have been in Atlantic City last week. She is said to have been an associate of Milhan in directing the activities of the vice ring.

Complaints have come to directors of the inquiry that meetings are arranged between individuals purporting to be business men and women and girls in the show business or elsewhere; that after luring the girls into compromising situations the men, in reality stool pigeons, summon police and demand the girls' arrest on vice charges; and that to obtain their release the girls are required to pay tribute to the self-styled "fixers," who purport to protect them from legal punishment.

Three Stores Robbed In Fredericksburg Area

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 13.—Quick working thieves using a high-powered automobile last night robbed three stores in this city and section and escaped with money and merchandise valued at $500. The E. M. Curtis Clothing Store and J. W. Masters, Inc., lumber concern, both here, and a combined filling station and general store, operated by J. A. Talley, at Chancellorsville, 10 miles from here, were plundered in rapid succession.

The finding of an addressed but empty envelope near the scene of the Chancellorsville robbery led investigating authorities to Quantico where an arrest is expected shortly. Police believe the Talley store was the first entered and that the thieves dashed to Fredericksburg, where two more thefts were perpetrated.

State Cotton Yield To Be 39,000 Bales

212-Pounds-an-Acre Crop in Virginia Reported by Official.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—John A. Hicks, Federal-State agricultural statistician, said today in his October report that the Virginia cotton crop, with a reported yield of 212 pounds per acre, is now estimated to be 39,000 bales, compared with 34,000 bales forecast on October 1, 48,000 bales harvested last year and a five-year average production of 44,000.

The report said that with the advancement of harvest farmers generally are finding the crop exceeding earlier expectations. Weather conditions were favorable for harvest and about 90 per cent of the crop has been picked, compared with 40 per cent on the same date last year.

The cotton crop of the United States was estimated at 14,438,000 bales of 500 pounds average gross weight, based on indications as of November 1. This was 48,000, or 0.3 of 1 per cent, below the forecast a month ago and approximately 300,000 bales below production last year. The indicated average yield for the United States was 184.2 pounds per acre.

FAIRFAX 4-H CLUBS WILL GATHER TODAY

OAKTON BOYS ORGANIZE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

"What the 4-H Club Means" will be discussed at the meetings of the 4-H Clubs at Fort Humphreys, Potters Hill, Lee-Jackson, Woodlawn and Lorton Schools today. The meetings will be held under the direction of Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent.

Approximately 5 miles of the Washington-Great Falls and Dranesville road, between Elkins and Dranesville, will be returned to the Fairfax County highway system, according to a recent order signed by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court. This road has for many years been owned by the Georgetown-Leesburg Turnpike Co. and operated as a toll road, but with the advent of automobiles and other improved roads in this section of the county the company let this section of the road fall into disrepair because the tolls were not large enough for its maintenance. Little by little the company abandoned its holdings to the State or county until at present the only section of the once famous turnpike owned by them is that section from Langley to Great Falls. This section of the road has been a paying proposition for the toll gate because of the historic falls. This is one of the few remaining toll roads in the country.

The directors of the turnpike company endeavored to present the petition to the court at its September term allowing them to abandon the Elkins-Dranesville section to the county, but they were delayed because of the necessity of obtaining the signatures of a large number of the bond holders of the company. There are no funds available at present in the county road funds that will allow the county board of supervisors to improve the road, but it is believed by many that this will be one of the first road improvements undertaken by the county highway department.

The boys studying agriculture at the Oakton High School have organized a club of the Future Farmers of Virginia. The officers of the club and members, include William Butler, president; Marcell Pfalzgraf, vice president; Stanley Dove, secretary; Willard Edwards, treasurer, and Frederick Reilsgard, reporter. The members are Bruce McLure, Roger Miller, Eugene Denny, Charles Edwards, Bernard Brown, Lowell Rieley, William Grau, Warner Moore, Basil Wingate and Harold Compton.

Pupils of the schools in Fairfax County who make an average of at least 90 per cent in their studies and who are not absent or tardy to their classes are entitled to have their names inscribed on the school honor roll for the month. Five of the schools have announced their honor rolls for the last month, as follows:

Lee Jackson—Fairfax Ludlam, Jean Jones, Lee Eustace, Harold Javins, Dorothy Beal, Kathleen Munday, Betty Long, Mary Durrer, Edward De-Butts, Courtney Saum, Alice Baber, Vivian Long, Charles Besley, Stephen Taylor, Jean Lewis, Hamilton Fairfax, Thurman Mercy, Bob Biggers, Randolph Hart, Louise Hinsey, James Brown, Kenneth Lewis and John Nevitt.

According to the records of County Agricultural Agent H. B. Deer, the reduction of freight rates on hay and other stock feeds allowed by the railroads on account of the existing drought conditions have saved the farmers of Fairfax County approximately $25,000 on the cost of their winter hay and $5,000 on other feeds. The reduction on these feeds will be allowed until the 1st of this month and after that time the former rates will be in effect.

During October, Deer issued railroad permits to farmers and dairymen for 116 cars of hay, 9 of grain, 38 of other feeds, and 52 for bran, cotton seed meal and gluten feeds. He states that the drought conditions of the past summer and fall have caused many farmers to ask for Government publications, from his office at Fairfax, on the feeding of emergency rations such as straw and other products which heretofore were not considered. He attributes their inquiries to the fact that they were unable to produce their usual crops and therefore lack the necessary funds to purchase the regular feeds.

APPROVAL DENIED WATER BOND ISSUE

Arlington Supervisors Will Plan Future Action at Next Meeting.

NEED IS HELD ACUTE

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Failure of the New York bonding attorneys, Thompson, Wood & Hoffman, to approve proposal for a bond issue to relieve the acute water situation confronting the county, according to a letter received by State Senator Frank L. Ball, leaves the county board of supervisors with their hands tied.

Commonwealth Attorney Gloth, commenting upon the contents of the letter, said: "It only bears out the opinion which I gave the board of supervisors at its last meeting that they were without any authority to borrow funds for extension until further legislation is enacted at the next session of the General Assembly in 1932."

Supervisors Advised.

Senator Ball has advised the members of the county board of supervisors and County Engineer C. L. Kinnier of the opinion given by the New York attorneys.

The question will be taken up by the supervisors at a meeting tomorrow and whether any other move can be taken whereby the needed funds can be raised was undetermined last night.

While there are hundreds of homes in the county where there is no water and where many have hot water heating plants and are unable to operate them, the county is confronted with a further serious situation, that of the need of enlarging the supply mains across the Chain bridge.

Even should the supervisors find a way to make the large number of extensions now being demanded, there is a danger of having insufficient water to supply them.

Text of Letter.

The letter reads:

"We desire to advise you that we do not feel that Arlington County can now issue any bonds under chapter 284, acts of the General Assembly, 1926. This act provides for the issuance of bonds of the county for the purpose of constructing and operating a public water supply system in any magisterial district or districts in such county, and provides for the vote of the qualified electors of the district. The act also provides that 'the full faith and credit of the entire county of ——— is hereby pledged for their payment.'

"You will therefore note that these bonds are county bonds authorized by a vote not of the electors of the county, but of the electors of this district, for whose benefit the bonds are to be issued. We desire to call your attention to section 115 A of the Constitution of Virginia, which provides that no debt shall be contracted by any county or by or on behalf of any district of any county, unless in the general law authorizing the same provision be made for the submission to the qualified electors of the proper county or district.

"A serious question is presented in view of the language of the section whether or not county bonds may be issued merely upon the authority of a vote taken in the district, and we do not feel that we would be justified in approving any bonds so voted until this question has been passed upon by your Supreme Court."

Giving his support to the annual Red Cross roll call in Arlington County, Hugh Reid, delegate to the General Assembly, gave out the following statement yesterday:

"The Red Cross needs no indorsement. Unfortunately, it needs explanation. It is so identified in the average person's mind with its international aspects in time of war that its tremendous services in a local way in time of peace are overlooked.

"In public health, disaster relief, education in home hygiene and the marshaling of millions of junior members in an army promoting safety, relief and a knowledge of the hazards of modern life it is doing a service without which countless lives would be lost annually.

"If the average citizen understood its work, the financial response would be overwhelming. Its importance to the Nation is great, but a strong national organization is possible only where the local units are active, alert and well informed.

"It is therefore important that Virginians support their local units. This is especially important as the local chapters are dependent for their support on a part of the contribution received through those particular chapters.

"In suburban communities, the tendency is to subscribe in the city where one's business interests are located. This helps the national organization, but does not help your local unit. Arlington County should support its local chapter."

The dairies in Arlington County have been found by the recent inspection carried on by State inspectors of the dairy and food division of the State Health Department to be in excellent condition and meeting all requirements as to operation, according to a statement given out yesterday by Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer.

With the hunting season for practically all small game opening tomorrow, County Clerk William H. Duncan announces that his offices at the courthouse will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight in order that all persons unable to reach the office prior to the usual closing hour may obtain their hunting licenses.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas Nelson Page School at Ballston held its monthly meeting last night in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Elsie V. Edwards, delegate to the State convention of the Parent-Teacher Associations of Virginia, recently held at Lynchburg, gave a report on the accomplishments of the organization as reported by the various delegates attending the convention.

Funeral services for Dr. Vladimar A. Sebiaken-Ross, 80 years old, who died at his home, 20 Military road, Cherrydale, yesterday, will be conducted tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock from the funeral parlors of W. W. Chambers in Washington by Alexandria Lodge of Elks. Interment will be private.

Dr. Ross, who was born in Russia, came to this county at the age of 40 and located in South Dakota. He had made his home in Arlington County for the past ten years.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Josephine and Sonia, and two sons, Martin and Vladmore.

Record Still Is Seized, Man Held After Raid

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Nov. 13.—The largest capacity moonshine still ever seized in this county was taken yesterday by Federal and State agents when they confiscated an 80-gallon daily output plant on Cacapon Creek, 7 miles above the town of Great Cacapon, on what is known as the Harlem Place. It was of the gasoline-burning type.

George Youngblood was arrested when he approached the scene in an automobile which was found to have some freshly made liquor. He denied ownership of the still. Following a preliminary hearing in Martinsburg before a United States commissioner, Youngblood was held under $1,000 bond for appearance at the Elkins term of Federal court.

Man Given Eight Years In Robbery of Recluse

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 13.—Russell May, 21, was given eight years in the penitentiary tonight by a jury in the Rockingham Circuit Court on a charge of holding up Alexander Groves, aged recluse of Grove Hollow, in the Shenandoah Mountains, and robbing him of $120.

May used a gun in the holdup, the maximum penalty for which, in Virginia, is death. The verdict was rendered at night session of the court.

Postoffice Chief Turns Art Critic

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, turned art critic for the time being, yesterday made a "find." In the Westmoreland Club at Richmond, Va., he found a portrait of George Washington, which he hailed with delight as a "novel portrait," a good portrait, one I have never seen copied before."

The Postmaster General is seeking portraits of Washington as a youth, a civil engineer, an officer and so on through his life. The portraits will be reproduced on stamps to commemorate the George Washington Bicentennial in 1932.

He came across the portrait while on a trip in connection with the air mail. He received permission to photograph it. The painting was done from life by Robert Peel.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 13.—A mass meeting was held here tonight in the Grays' Armory, to consider an industrial roll of honor as a relief measure for the unemployed.

Kilgalen, on "Duty to Your Fellowman;" Rabbi Raffell, on "Good Business," and the Rev. J. M. B. Gill, on "Group Employment."

Stock Bought on Margin Taxable, Court Rules

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The purchaser of stocks on margin is the owner of such stocks and should pay tax on its full value, the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals held today.

The court's decision, sustaining a ruling of State Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrisett, reversed a judgment of the Clifton Forge Circuit Court in an action brought by Commonwealth's Attorney M. J. Putnam against A. C. Ford. Ford claimed a tax refund amounting to $1,485.45, claiming he paid tax on the full value of stocks when he did not own them outright. His assertion, upheld by the trial court, was overruled today.

UNEMPLOYMENT POLITICS.

Senator Glass forcibly reminds Democratic "spokesmen" that they are all wrong when they sing of harmony. He makes it plain that there is no harmony in the Democratic ranks, and he does not propose to permit that party to defy tradition by becoming harmonious. He is especially opposed to overtures of harmony toward the hated foe, and very properly objects to his party offering apologies for its victory at the polls.

If the Democratic party has any reason for existence it is because it offers the best means whereby the people of the United States may throw the Republican party out of power when it does not behave to suit them. It is the present duty of the Democratic party to lay its own course, prove its fitness to administer the Government, and test out every proposal of the other party. Sometimes it can best prove its fitness by cooperating in nonpartisan legislation for the general welfare, as for instance in the alleviation of distress arising from unemployment. But if either side should attempt to gain political credit for beneficial unemployment legislation, the other is not bound to cooperate in the attempt.

Inasmuch as the Democratic party intends to destroy the prestige of President Hoover, if possible, as a prelude to winning the Presidency in 1932, the offer of cooperation tendered by seven self-appointed spokesmen of the Democratic party should not be taken seriously, even in the matter of unemployment relief. The probabilities are that Democrats in Congress will find fault with President Hoover's unemployment relief proposals and will offer substitutes of their own. It will be surprising if these substitutes do not take the form of extravagant proposals to take money directly from the Treasury for the relief of distressed citizens. Mr. Hoover would be bound to oppose raids on the Treasury for any purpose. If the Democratic-insurgent coalition, which constitutes an anti-Hoover majority in the Senate, should succeed in passing such bills, Mr. Hoover would be held up as an enemy of the unemployed if he should veto them. If he should approve of them and they should make necessary an increase of taxation next year, much political capital could be made against him among those who are opposed to an increase of taxes—and that includes everybody.

The temptation to play politics with unemployment relief is so strong that Democrats and insurgents in Congress can not be expected to resist it. Nothing will be easier than for them to assert that Mr. Hoover's plans, whatever they may be, are inadequate; that the United States Government must not be parsimonious in this great emergency. They are apt to bring forth proposals of a very plausible and popular character, calling for immensely larger appropriations than Mr. Hoover could approve. The anti-Hoover elements in Congress are not responsible for the balancing of the budget, as Mr. Hoover is. They do not care if extra taxes must be levied to make up a deficit caused by extravagant unemployment relief. The demand for extra taxation would have to be made by Mr. Hoover, and he could be blamed for trying to increase taxes.

The only matter upon which Democrats agree is that the Republican rascals must be turned out. In this the insurgents agree with them. It may be that unemployment relief will seem to be a suitable fulcrum with which to pry out the adversary. In that case the Democrats and insurgents will soon show that the harmony song of the tuneful seven was merely the prelude to a chaos of discord in the expiring session of the Seventy-first Congress.

A BLOW AT USURY.

Announcement is made by Senator Capper that he will introduce a measure in Congress to provide facilities through which the people of the District may obtain small loans. The Post exposed the loan shark racket through which hundreds of Washingtonians in straitened circumstances are swindled. Efforts have been made to prosecute the predatory lenders, but there is little hope that the public can be protected until a system of making small loans at reasonable rates is established.

Senator Capper's plan is to authorize the incorporation of credit unions which could make loans to their members at not more than 1 per cent per month, interest to be assessed only on unpaid balances. This plan is in sharp contrast to the Bowman bill introduced in the last Congress, which would allow a maximum of 3½ per cent interest per month. If Senator Capper's plan is found to be feasible, and is enacted into law, it would save low-salaried people of the District thousands of dollars annually.

The time is ripe for a comprehensive investigation of the subject, and Senator Capper's bill will furnish that opportunity. Loan sharks will continue to do business until some more satisfactory means of lending money in small amounts has been devised.

CHRISTMAS FUNDS.

The distribution of funds stored up by the American people through the so-called Christmas Clubs will begin shortly. This year, despite the depression, about $667,000,000 will be paid out to 11,000,000 depositors. Deposits in 1930 reached a record figure, although the rate of increase was not as large as in normal years. In 1929 the average deposit was $59.50, whereas this year it was $54.60. The fact that the distribution will be on a wider scale this year, however, means that the stimulation to retail trade will be the more beneficial. Experience indicates that 38 per cent of the fund is expended for Christmas presents or in connection with the Christmas celebration; 30 per cent is applied to permanent investments and savings; 13 per cent to year-end commitments; 6 per cent to insurance; 5½ per cent to mortgage amortization and interest; 4½ per cent to taxes, and 3 per cent to travel, charity and education.

The release of $667,000,000 at this time will have a most beneficial effect upon business, particularly in view of the fact that the stores are filled with exceptional bargains. Following a recent survey of prices, the Merchants' Association of New York said: "Greater opportunities exist today for wise buying than have existed in several years." In many lines of goods it was found that a $10 bill was equivalent in retail purchasing to $11 or even $12 a year ago. Women's coats and dresses are selling at from 10 to 33 per cent less than they were a year ago. A typical store gave prices on 37 articles comprising a woman's wardrobe, showing a reduction of 25 per cent under the prices of a year ago, while a child's wardrobe could be had for 28 per cent less than a year ago, and an infant's layette for 18 per cent less. Similar reductions were found with respect to men's clothing and furniture. Moreover, the Department of Labor has recently found that retail prices for foodstuffs are 9 per cent less than they were in 1929.

The Christmas savings funds will buy far more than they would have bought a year ago. Hence, they will provide work indirectly for a greater number of persons. Thriftiness is not of benefit to individuals alone. By accelerating the wheels of industry, the thrift that is evidenced from the size of the 1930 Christmas savings fund promises to be of tangible benefit to the whole Nation.

END OF THE FRUIT FLY FRAUD.

The final chapter in the serial dealing with the encounter of Uncle Sam with a formidable insect known as the Mediterranean fruit fly is about to be written. The Department of Agriculture has announced that it will lift the Federal quarantine on Florida products this week in token of victory over the pest. It appears that Uncle Sam has not only conquered this foe, but that he has exterminated it from its favorite haunts in the Orange Blossom State. So diligent has he been that not a trace of the insect has been found in any commercial orchard for a year. His crew of 700 inspectors have examined more than 600,000 specimens. They have scrutinized growing fruit and windfalls. They have analyzed the soil in backyard orchards. Yet they were able to discover only ten larvae in one group and two pupae in another.

Uncle Sam concludes that the job is done. Certainly no one would ask that it be done more thoroughly. It must be admitted that the $15,000,000 which Florida demanded early in 1929 to save the horticulture of the country from ruin was not needed. Will F. Wood, chairman of the House appropriations committee, who exposed the plan to drain the Treasury through a false alarm, deserves hearty congratulations.

It should be noted, however, that the Government actually spent $6,355,000 in fighting the fly. To this must be added the cost to the State, the vast quantities of fruit that were destroyed, the damage to orchards, and the loss of markets for Florida products. How much of this expense was unnecessary no one will ever know. But it is quite certain that the fly scare was a costly experience for both the Government and Florida.

Had not Representative Wood taken upon himself the responsibility of investigating the Florida fly scheme a few thousand inspectors would probably still be peeking under fallen oranges to detect evidence of the "country-wide menace." In putting an end to this fake Mr. Wood has performed valuable service for the State of Florida, which ingenious schemers were willing to stigmatize for the sake of drawing salaries from the Treasury.

SALVATION ARMY POLICY.

The conference of the commissioners of the Salvation Army, now in progress in London, is a sequel to the meeting of 21 months ago which ousted Gen. Bramwell Booth from the high command of the army and resulted in the downfall of the so-called Booth dynasty. The conference, to which 42 commissioners have made their way from all corners of the earth, was called to consider the future structure and unity of the organization started in the slums of London years ago by Gen. William Booth. William Booth and his successors have guided the Salvation Army with a firm hand. Under its constitution, the commanding general has the absolute power to name his successor; in his person is lodged title to all the army's property in England, and he is empowered to rule autocratically, with nothing comparable to a cabinet or board of directors to share responsibility for his decisions.

The council meeting of 1929 resulted from the growing dissatisfaction among the commissioners with autocratic government. The meeting succeeded in ousting the commander, Gen. Booth, and the council named as his successor Edward J. Higgins. Gen. Higgins, however, has autocratic authority to no less an extent than his predecessor. It is the purpose of the present meeting to shear him of some of his power; first, by providing for the election of the commanding general instead of his selection by his predecessor; second, by specifying a retirement age for the general; and, third, by providing for the appointment of a body of trustees to hold the army's British properties and to confer with the general on matters of policy.

The Salvation Army survived the shock of the 1929 meeting. Although there will be differences of opinion among the commissioners as to how the democratization of the government of the army may best be accomplished—by what method and by whom the general shall be elected, at what age he shall be retired and by whom and how the board shall be constituted and how broad shall be its authority—an organization that has survived a shock as severe as the deposition of Gen. Booth and the breaking of the firmly established Booth dynasty, doubtless will be able to come to an agreement on the issues now before it. Under the form of government that will be worked out in this meeting, the army will continue its noble work for the alleviation of distress.

Dr. Lyman Cornell advises young lawyers to marry their secretaries. In these times when every one has to guard expenditures that's good advice to all young fellows.

THE DISARMAMENT DOLLAR

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Two methods for the limitation of armament are under discussion at Geneva. One method would use the size of the military establishments—the number of rifles, guns, soldiers, &c.—as a criterion. The other method would regulate arms limitation according to the amount of money expended. The American representative, Ambassador Gibson, very rightly reaffirmed the opposition of the United States to having the second, or budgetary, method applied to us, while raising no objection to having other powers apply it as among themselves. Because nearly everything costs so much more in this country than in others, a limitation on the basis of expenditure would make us look as though we were a great military power, which, of course, we are not.

The confusing aspects of the disarmament dollar are well exemplified when you come down to concrete cases. If you consider expenditures for armed forces on the per capita basis, the United States figure for 1929 was $4.48—a figure larger than that of any other major power except Italy, which stood at $4.86. Next in order came France with a per capita expenditure of $3.78, then Russia with $2.87, Germany with $2.59, Japan with $2.13 and the British Empire with $1.92. These results are easily explained, however, by the fact that the American expenditure is based on a population of 134,000,000, whereas that of the British Empire is based on a population of 391,000,000, which, of course, reduces the per capita figure considerably. Italy's figure seems large because it is based only on her domestic population of 44,000,000, whereas the smaller French per capita figure rests on a population total of 110,000,000, which includes the French colonies.

Look at this from the standpoint of total appropriations, and the British Empire is seen to come first with $750,000,000 appropriated, the United States second with $600,000,000, Russia third with $420,000,000 and France fourth with $414,000,000. Italy, which leads on a per capita basis, comes next to last—below Japan and ahead of Germany. None of these calculations, therefore, can alone serve as a sure guide, and none of them, it should be observed, allows for the different standards of living and the varying costs of maintaining armaments.

Perhaps the truest way of viewing armaments from the financial standpoint is to look at the total appropriations for the military establishment of a given country and then see what percentage they are of the country's national wealth. This is shown in the following table, which uses 1929 dollar figures and includes appropriations for air, land and sea armament:

Nation.	National Wealth.	Appropriations.	Per Cent
United States	$423,000,000,000	$600,250,842	.14
British Empire	189,000,000,000	749,133,320	.40
France	61,600,000,000	413,155,559	.67
Italy	30,000,000,000	215,263,150	.72
Japan	43,000,000,000	235,100,000	.55
Russia	31,672,500,000	420,371,000	1.33
Germany	55,000,000,000	164,504,728	.30

On this basis the United States is well at the foot of the list, being surpassed to the tune of more than two to one by every world power. On the basis of soldiers—regulars and reserves—to the billion dollars of national wealth our inferiority is also marked, since it shows us with 994 soldiers to the billion dollars; the British Empire, 5,118; France, 98,798; Italy, 113,651; Japan, 52,279; Russia, 199,400, and Germany, 1,827. If Europe were armed on our basis, its status would sink to the level of Switzerland or of present-day Austria.

Perhaps these figures will show some of the complexities of computing world armaments on the budgetary system. Clearly Ambassador Gibson was right when he said that "it is far easier to conceal the application of a dollar than it is the existence of a rifle"—though neither, it may be added, is any too simple.

PLAYER AND CADDIE REPORT.

This is what the player said:
"The caddie was an empty head!
He rattled clubs and moved about,
I cursed him for a lazy lout.
I hate a boy who is a dunce,
He spoiled my shot by sneezing once
I hit an almost perfect ball,
The loafer never saw at all.
I can't see what they are about
To let a boy like that go out.
'One of the best boys at the club?'
I marked him bad. 'He's just a dub!'"

But this is what the caddie said:
"I had a guy whose brains are dead;
He's really in a dreadful fix,
He thinks that 5 and 3 are 6.
He can't play mashie shots, but, oh,
He is a wonder with his toe!
You ought to watch him on the sly
Inch upward to the perfect lie.
To get a dollar more to spend
That bird would even cheat a friend.
A golfer, eh? A man like that

Is the Lion Cub a Failure Because the Keeper Thinks All Animals Should Eat Hay?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

HUNDREDS of Japanese school boys end their lives in the time-honored Japanese way rather than endure the disgrace of failure.

To the normal American, proud of his common sense, such unwarranted suicides seem incredibly absurd. Yet the young people of America are just as proud and sensitive as the young people of Japan, and the sanction of custom would make their reaction to disgrace equally tragic.

Thousands of American boys quit school every year rather than endure the shame of being left behind by their classmates.

The more sensitive ones become embittered Ishmaelites or are broken in spirit and doomed forever to feel inferior. All are handicapped in some measure. All are cheated of their rights.

Whose is the fault? Is a boy at fault if his body is frail or his vision imperfect? Should he be shamed and humiliated in public because of these shortcomings?

The boy who quits school rather than endure nine months of humiliation deserves no censure. He obeys his nature. Adults would do the same if they were in his place and felt the "disgrace" as keenly.

The fault is in the system. Our educational system is the most archaic and uniformly stupid of all our institutions. Designed to foster and encourage intelligence, it lacks the intelligence to keep pace with the civilization that supports it.

Why should children be herded in "grades" and required to become like one another? If one child can memorize ten words in ten minutes, is that any reason why another of the same age should be humiliated if it can not do as well?

Children of different heights and weights are not required to wear clothing of the same size. They are not required to become taller or heavier on penalty of public disgrace.

If school standards had been handed down from an infallible heaven, it might be necessary to use them as a measure of excellence; but who are pedagogues to set up arbitrary standards and say to our children: "Measure up to these or be disgraced."

Children are not educated or taught to think. They are merely required to memorize unimportant facts.

How brutally unfair to say that one of them "fails." Fails to do what? It doesn't fail to be as intelligent or as quick-witted as it is. It merely fails to qualify in an arbitrary memory test devised by unintelligent adults.

The business of schools is not to judge the child, but to teach it. The child never fails, for it can not be judged except by its own abilities and capacities. It is the school that fails, for the school is obligated to teach the child all it can learn.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Take That, Gerald!

Minneapolis Journal.

There is no mystery as to what the present chairman of the campaign fund committee will do with increased inquisitorial powers, if and when he gets them. Those who have watched Senator Nye in the role of political detective know that he will delve where the delving will hurt an enemy, and fail to delve where the failure will help a friend.

If he can make contributors tell where they got the money, then he is likely to force business men who aid a fund like Mrs. McCormick's to bare all their private affairs to the world. And he is just as likely to show no curiosity whatever as to whether a gift to a fund like Tom Schall's was really the money of the dummy credited with making it.

Tell It to Carter Glass.

Atlanta Constitution.

The esteemed Washington Post, assumed organ of the Hoover administration, is frankly put out of humor by the declaration of the Democratic leaders that their party in Congress will not pursue an obstructive policy, but will cooperate with the President and the Republicans in measures wisely designed to serve the whole people and restore their prosperity.

When men of influence in the Democratic party, such as Cox, Davis, Smith, Robinson and Raskob tell the country that their party is set for sane and progressive nonpartisan legislation to serve the vital interests of agriculture, industry and labor, the country will believe them and the rank and file of the party will stand to their pledge. And there is ample time between now and December a year hence for the esteemed Post to recover from its strabismus and resume its accustomed mental poise.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Private Enterprise Develops New Inventions While Government Ownership Stagnates—An Example.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the editorial of November 12 on "Muscle Shoals Socialism," you said: "The American people are unalterably opposed to competition from the Government in business. President Hoover may be expected to veto any piece of legislation that is sent to the White House with that end in view. And there is no hope of getting such legislation through Congress by a two-thirds majority."

In commending your views, I desire to call attention to the following, from Dr. Michael Pupin's excellent narrative, "From Immigrant to Inventor," published in 1926. Dr. Pupin is professor of electro-mechanics, Columbia University, New York, and is probably as well informed on subjects about which he writes as any man in the world. He said:

"Today the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the affiliated Western Electric Co. employ about 3,000 persons at an expenditure of some $9,000,000 annually in their research and development work. * * * Young men of the highest academic training and splendid talents are busy day and night exploring the hidden treasures on the boundary lines between the various sciences and the science and art of telephony, and their discoveries, I am sure, are the best investment of this great industrial organization. For instance, their development of the many details in my invention have been wonderful, and give testimony of the highest kind to the excellence of their scientific research. * * * When I think of that I am perfectly convinced that very few of the great advances in the telephone art would have happened under Government ownership. That explains why telephony is practically dead in most European countries. What little life it has in Europe is due to the American research in the above-mentioned laboratories." B.

Proposal to Lend Silver to China Meets the Approval of a Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It would be a mighty act of friendship for this country to loan China several hundreds of millions to assist in reorganizing her financial system. I believe it would go further than anything else to relieve world depression. We owe China something for her wonderful art and the sane philosophies of Laotze and Confucius. The youngest and most prosperous nation should assist the oldest and least prosperous.

There is a way it could be done without costing taxpayers a cent, but no doubt the ramrods of conservatism would object. We have, as every one should know, a mountain of 539,959,520 silver dollars stored in the Treasury, taking up needed room, to redeem an outstanding equal amount of silver certificates. Who ever heard or ever will hear of a silver certificate being redeemed in silver? All our money is redeemable in gold, and we now have the enormous sum of $4,511,238,178 gold bullion to do it with. The great bulk of that silver could be put to use in China to give her a quantity of subsidiary silver for the exigencies of trade and internal improvements, amongst 400 millions of born merchants.

If Congress decides to help China in this respect it should go far enough to assist China in getting her finances on a gold basis with a currency system redeemable in coin, but based on wealth, similar to our flexible reserve notes. ALTRUIST.

Advantages of Washington As a Convention City Should Be More Widely Known.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The exceptional advantages afforded by Washington as a convention city have never been completely brought to the attention of interested organizations, except perhaps in particular instances where a special reason was advanced for the selection of Washington.

While other cities, because of their environment, are fairly entitled to consideration aside from that of promoting business, Washington could be made to attract attention because of its beauty in arrangement, its places of historical interest, its being the seat of governmental activities, and the delightful hospitality of its people.

Again, the educational advantages and extreme pleasure afforded by a visit to Washington would be of considerable interest to our schools and colleges in addition to the organizations that hold conventions, if literature were annually available to them. There is no reason why such literature should not be systematically distributed by your local Chamber of Commerce, which, I assume, has the best interests of Washington at heart.

Says Partisanship Must Be Abandoned While Everybody Helps to Solve Economic Problems.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that the election agony is over, the howl of the nation-savers has gone silent for a spell. The result clearly shows that the people still cling to the notion that Congress makes the grass to grow and fills empty stomachs. There was no political issue before the American people. The campaign was one of party, not of measures; for public office, not principles.

Must millions of us, with our hearts of oak and muscles of iron, remain idle and beg or steal a morsel of bread in a bountiful land? Have we not wisdom and honesty enough to work together and fairly divide the joint product?

I shall not presume to take the initiative in telling what we must do to be saved, but I suggest that we abandon our pet panaceas and turn to the complex social questions with which we are confronted. Above all, we must free ourselves from partisan prejudices if we would hope to deal wisely with the existing social chaos.

GERMANY TO FORCE ARMS VOTE TODAY

Bernstorff Aims to Secure Action on Question of Land Limitation.

CECIL SEEKING CLARITY

Geneva, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Caught in a tangle of parliamentary procedure, the League of Nations disarmament commission adjourned today's session without reaching an agreement on how to limit land war material. During the discussion, Lord Cecil, British delegate, threw his hands in the air and exclaimed to Chairman Loudon: "Let us have something clear and definite to vote on."

Count von Bernstoff, German delegate, said that he expected to force a direct vote tomorrow on whether the majority of the commission wants direct or budgetary limitation. Resolutions seeking disposition of the problem were submitted by the British, French and Italian delegations.

The British proposal offered by Lord Cecil, seeks to get on record opinions of the various delegations.

What British Propose.

After recognizing the value, but insufficiency of publicity alone, it says:

"The commission recognizes that the majority of the commission is of the opinion that as to land war material the most practical method of securing this more precise limitation is by budgetary limitation, that other members of the commission are of the opinion that the most practical method is by direct limitation by specific enumeration, and that a certain number would desire there be some combination of the two methods."

The Italian resolution, after a similar reference to publicity, declares:

"The best method for limitation of land war material would consist of a combination of the two systems of direct limitation and budgetary limitation."

Purport of Resolution.

The French resolution reiterates its stand for budgetary limitation and asks that this method be studied by a committee of budgetary experts who should transmit their reports to various governments some time before convening of the general disarmament conference. The resolution suggests that experts first study the subject of budgetary limitation as it concerns land materials and then as regards expenditure in every country of land, naval, and air forces.

First indorsement of the American suggestion of leaving it optional with the nations whether they adopt budgetary or direct limitation came today from the Spanish delegate, Eric Cobian.

He said that Spain, like the United States, prefers direct limitation, but like the United States is willing to let various countries take their choice.

Greece's Delegate Speaks.

Nicholas Politis, Greece's delegate, said that his country preferred the budgetary plan but was willing to follow the majority in adopting an optional draft. Russia again came out for simultaneous application both of direct and budgetary limitation.

Count Von Bernstorff, who spoke briefly a number of times emphasized Germany's aspiration of bringing all other countries down to her own enforced level in armament. Tala drew from Rene Massigli, French delegate, who said that in order to enable the commission to finish its work in a "spirit of cooperation" he had abstained from discussing Count von Bernstorff's references to "symmetry of obligation." But, he said, since Count von Bernstorff again had raised this point he now considered it indispensable to have a thorough "explanation" before the commission adjourned.

The American delegation took no part in today's discussions.

Memories of the political "War of Roses" in Tennessee were revived yesterday by Representative Reece, of Tennessee, defeated for reelection as a Regular Republican from the First Tennessee District.

With his defeat, he said, goes the seat that has been held by a Regular Republican since young Robert L. (Bob) Taylor, a Democrat, won in 1878 and served in the Forty-fifth Congress.

It was in 1886 that Bob defeated his brother Alf Taylor, a Republican, in the race for the governorship in which the former wore white and the latter red roses.

WORLD IS FULL OF PALUKAS, MASTER SAYS, SPILLING WORKS

well known to most of us nowadays. When Marlowe didn't 'keep his nose clean,' the gang decided to give him the works, so he was taken for a ride. After they gave him the heat they lammed for fear of going up to the house, where they would have burned for sure.

"You, as a newspaper worker, can realize that you have put me on the spot, and that I've got to come over with the goods. So experience has taught me that a spieler shoots a hot line nowadays—and how! I've learned to know what it means to do a bit, and that bracing a stiff for a set-down has not changed except in phraseology, and the panhandling gentlemen with red noses, who call one buddy and want a dime to get a roll and cup of coffee, formerly called a meal a set-down and begging from one, bracing a stiff.

"Historically, the beaut, peach and pippin each gave way to the charmer, who gave way to the vamp, who has become the red-hot mama. Is she so very red-hot these days, or is she just merely dismissed as ex-Guinan?

"Once upon a time we declared that something was 'all the rage;' now we merely point out that it's a 'wow.' In prepetting days the bud would say 'Now, stop!' but today the baby or weenie tells papa, or the butter and egg man, or her sugar daddy, the same sad story with 'Is that nicer?'

"It seems but yesterday that when we were short of some vocal ejaculation we just yelled 'And how!' particularly when somebody else shot off his mouth with a phrase or sentence that did not leave any one cold. We all know what putting on a padlock is, or using a cold deck, or doing a trick, or crashing a racket. And Henry L. Mencken certainly wasn't far wrong when he said that 'Slang is the source from which the energies of decaying speech are constantly refreshed.'

"In the good old days of the man with 'a big stick,' the muck raker earned what he was raking for and was lucky to dodge the steam roller. The gangaters still come across, but some make so much fuss about it that they are warned by their friends, the cops, the bulls, or whatever else you may please to call them, to come across clean. The drug store cowboy of today is a very different man from his predecessor, but the dumb-bell does not seem to be any more noisy than in days of old.

"The one thing that puzzles me is what has become of all our cake-eaters, lounge lizards and the rest of the gang? Have they followed the alligator's ankles, the bee's knees, cat's meow, the snake's hips, the cheap skate and the nickel nurser?

"One thing we may all be very thankful for, and that is that the flapper has disappeared and taken her flapperology with her. English may still be the berries with the monocle boys and stiff fronts, but to the gang that thinks it's made up of regular guys it's just cuticure, goose flesh or some other irruption of the skin.

"Did slang come over with the Mayflower? Well, who knows? Perhaps, for, after all, isn't there a bit of it in Priscilla's 'Why don't you speak for yourself, John?' Anyway, slang has been with us since the Declaration of Independence and the days when 'Yankee Doodle stuck a feather in his cap and called it macaroni.' And you know the Macaronis were the Marylanders in the Revolutionary War.

"Lest we forget, let me say right here that slang which is picked up by writers of vaudeville acts or burlesque shows consists of wise cracks culled from newspapers or cribbed from some bozo who has been lit up with a little joy oil. Then it is shot across the footlights, and all the boobs in the trenches of the underworld around the dance halls, shooting the stuff off as if it were their own. And what are they? Just nothing more than common or garden paluka. What's a paluka? Of course, you know. Why shouldn't you? In the underworld he's the fall guy, but out in Hawaii he's just a poor fish, served as hors d'ouvre and eaten raw. The world is full of palukas."

D. A. R. Seeks to Ban Treasonable Meetings

St. Louis, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Legislation to prevent meetings, marked by "treasonable utterances," will be sought by the Daughters of the American Revolution, as part of its campaign against Communism. This was announced here today by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Cincinnati, president-general of the organization, here for a brief visit.

"Free speech should not be permitted when it is treasonable," Mrs. Hobart said, "and efforts to overthrow America are treasonable." Mrs. Hobart charged that communistic speakers openly have advocated overthrowing the Government and have organized children into prorevolutionary groups. She said the next national convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington in April probably will prepare a definite legislative program in its campaign against communism.

Twelve passengers will make tomorrow's flight, including Frau Dornier, wife of the inventor and builder, and Lady Drummond-Hay, who has crossed the Atlantic three times in the Graf Zeppelin. The weather prospects were good, and it appeared tonight that nothing would interfere with the scheduled take-off.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA FIXES MARTIAL LAW

METROPOLIS IS ORDERLY

killed in shooting in various parts of the city today.

Much of the trouble is laid to students. The government this morning ordered normal and elementary schools closed. At the same time students were prohibited from gathering in the streets, the clashes later resulting from their refusal to obey the decree.

While students and others attempted various demonstrations, most of Havana's householders remained indoors for safety today and the streets were largely deserted.

One incident of the trouble was the refusal of the newspaper El Pais and Diario de la Marina to publish because they objected to the government censorship of certain articles intended for today's issues. It was the first time in 98 years that the Diario had been closed. Senorita Barbarrosa, the girl killed last night, was a sister-in-law of the chief editor of Diario.

With the proclamation of martial law the police were relieved of their 72-hour vigil, heavily armed soliers taking over the patrolling of the capital.

President Machado, through his secretary, Dr. Ricardo Herrera, told the Associated Press tonight that the suspension of constitutional guarantees was "merely temporary" and most likely would not be kept in effect during the full 20 days possible.

"The order is the result of the activities of Communist elements and students motivated by schemers working underhandedly," the statement said. "The measure is intended to be restricted to Havana and surrounding districts. Reports from all other parts of Cuba show that there is absolute order there."

The wounded student, Arturo Tagle y Soria, is a relative of former President Mario Menocal, who has worked with the Nationalist Union against the Machado administration.

Ambassador Orestes Ferrera, of Cuba, said last night he had received a message from the Cuban foreign office saying that Arturo Tagle y Soria, who was wounded in an encounter with Havana police, was not an American citizen.

The telegram said Tagle had held several official posts in the Cuban government and there were could not be an American citizen.

Ambassador Ferrara said he had been informed that President Machado considered the situation in Cuba tranquil. He said martial law was resorted to in the island republic yesterday as a preventative measure against further student outbreaks.

Tiny Golf Was Played By Dutch Years Ago

The Tom Thumb golf fans may be interested to know that a similar game was played by the New Amsterdam Dutch burghers in the long ago. In this connection a bulletin of the National Geographic Society says:

"Miniature golf may not be new to these shores. Early chroniclers tell of New Amsterdam Dutch burghers playing 'kolf' on small courses near taverns. After a round or two the 'kolfers' retired to the tavern for a bowl of punch, lingering over it in typical 'nineteenth hole' fashion until the room was filled with the aroma of their long clay pipes."

island of Shikoku, he was the third son of a small landholder.

He acquired his present name when he married, at the age of 19, a daughter of the Hamaguchi family, and took her name.

Hamaguchi is affectionately known to his Japanese supporters as "the lion" partly on account of his shaggy crop of hair and heavy eyebrows and mustache and partly from his stentorian voice.

Hamaguchi graduated with distinction from the Imperial University of Tokyo. He entered the government service immediately. His early progress was slow, but he rose through minor posts in the finance ministry until he became vice minister of finance, his first strictly political position.

Under Premier Kato, Hamaguchi was made finance minister. Under Premier Wakatsuki he was home minister. When the Wakatsuki cabinet fell, Hamaguchi succeeded him as the leader of the party. Hamaguchi became premier February 7, 1929.

Premier Hamaguchi figured prominently in preparations for the Washington Naval Conference. Similarly, he contributed largely to the success of the London Naval Conference.

Sharon Bank Suspends; Cashier Under Arrest

Sharon, Pa., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Dollar Title & Trust Co. Bank, a State institution, was closed today, and the cashier, Ralph E. Matthews, 34, was held for court on charges of embezzling $135,000 of the bank's funds. J. D. Swigart, State bank inspector, took charge of the institution. Neither Swigart nor the bank officials made any statement this morning when the bank did not open.

Matthews was alleged to have confessed to the charges against him at a hearing before Alderman H. E. Phipps early today. He was held for court under $100,000 bond. Directors of the bank asked last Tuesday that an inspector be sent here. The institution was one of the smaller banks of the city.

BRITAIN FACES MINE AND RAILWAY CRISES

Trainmen to Fight Proposal for Wage Reductions by Employers.

DEADLOCK IN PROSPECT

London, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Already staggering under a burden of unemployment and industrial depression, Britain was faced tonight with prospects of a grave crisis in two of her leading industries—railways and coal mining.

The railway situation, in which a deadlock over wage reductions appears, seems likely to come to a head first, but developments in the mine situation, which is much more complicated, may surpass it in gravity.

Discussions of railway problems began today when employers put forward proposals for a general wage reduction of about $1.80 a week, with a minimum wage of $9.50 a week instead of the present $10. Junior staff wages would be cut 75 cents a week and salaries from $900 to $1,750 a year by about $100.

Will Resist Demands.

The proposals now are to be considered by the unions and it is likely the process will take several weeks.

C. T. Cramp, general secretary of the railway unions, made a gloomy prediction, however, regarding the possibility of arbitration.

"In our opinion," said he, "no case can be made out for wage reductions of any kind, or for any sort of change the railways have proposed. These demands are going to be resisted."

The mining position is even more complex, for conditions vary in the districts into which the coal mining industry is divided.

Situation Is Grave.

Spokesmen for the miners as a whole, in an informal conference tonight with Emmanuel Shinwell, minister of mines, told him the situation was extremely grave.

The problem turns upon an agreement, which becomes effective December 1, reducing the miners' working day from eight to seven and a half hours. In South Wales and Scotland mine owners have asserted this change must entail a wage reduction. Union representatives have refused to consider a wage cut and a deadlock has resulted.

The national delegate conference of the miners' federation meets next Thursday.

Edges Finish Their Visit in White House

Envoy Goes Hunting and Mrs. Edge Returns to Jersey.

THE American Ambassador to France, Mr. Walter Evans Edge, has stolen a march on his friends in Washington, who have been seeking to entertain him, and has gone on a shooting trip. Desiring relaxation from his recent campaigning in behalf of the senator-elect from New Jersey, Mr. Dwight W. Morrow, Mr. Edge has reverted to his favorite sport, game hunting.

The Ambassador and Mrs. Edge have been guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House for the past few days. Mrs. Edge has returned to their home in Atlantic City. However, the Edges will be here again December 1.

Mr. Edge's love for hunting was developed anew in Europe, where he spent the last few weeks prior to sailing for this country in bagging birds and other game near Paris. The Edges are frequent guests at French chateaux for big shooting parties.

Comte Louis Aubervielle and Mr. Edward Huffer, an American, are joint owners of the estate where Ambassador Edge recently displayed his skill. Among other Americans in Paris who are devotees of the sport and often join the Ambassador on hunting trips are J. P. Morgan and also Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, of Newport and New York, who visited Mrs. Frederick Jennings Parsons in Paris this fall. They spent the grouse season in Scotland where they were guests at Ardross Castle, the property of the Perrins family. A notable French host, M. Colombel, one of the best guns in France, always has American guests at his fine estate near Orleans.

The ladies of the Cabinet will be at home on Wednesday afternoons until 6:30 o'clock, with the exception of December 17, 24 and 31, beginning the first Wednesday in December and continuing through until Lent.

Mrs. Hoover Goes To Visit Her Son.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover left for Asheville, N. C., last evening, where she will visit her son, Mr. Herbert Hoover, jr., for a day or two. Young Mr. Hoover will be in Asheville through the winter to recuperate from his illness. Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., has gone to California to bring their children back to Asheville for the winter. She was accompanied by Mrs. Stark McMullin, who has been a White House guest for some time.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had as their guests on Wednesday night at the White House Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Clark, of California, who left Washington yesterday for the West.

Mrs. William D. Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General, went to New York yesterday to remain over the week-end. She will return to Washington Monday. Mrs. Mitchell made the trip to see her son, Mr. Baneroft Mitchell.

Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, of Hewlett, Long Island, will sail tonight on the France for Europe and later will go to Budapest, where on Friday her son, Mr. Nicholas Roosevelt, presented his credentials as United States Minister to Hungary to Regent Horthy. Received with much ceremony, the new minister, who recently reached Budapest, entered the palace between a double line of royal lifeguards in gala uniforms. After the presentation the minister addressed the regent in a long speech and later remained in conversation with the regent and Premier Bethlen.

Representative and Mrs. E. Hart Fenn, of Connecticut, will come to Washington tomorrow for the winter. They will reside at 1661 Crescent place.

Senator and Mrs. Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, who have been guests at the Mayflower for a day or two, left Washington yesterday morning for Wichita.

Mrs. Hughes Attends Sterling Silver Show.

Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, attended the sterling silver fashion show yesterday at the Willard. Among others who have attended the exhibit are Senora de Alfara, wife of the Minister of Panama; Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. V. Butler, Capt. and Mrs R. Perry Robert and Mrs. Frederick Shelton.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the Vice President, will attend the show this morning.

Mr. Charles S. Dewey, who has just completed his three-year mission as financial adviser to the Polish government, was the guest of honor at a farewell dinner given in Warsaw Wednesday night by President Wladyslaw Wroblewski, of the Bank of Poland. Mr. Wroblewski was formerly Minister of Poland in Washington.

Members of the German Riding Team who have just distinguished themselves by winning the international military trophy at the national horse show in New York, will come to Washington on December 2, when they will be entertained by the German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz. They will probably be received by President Hoover and will see Washington and nearby places of interest, and will also be guests of honor at some entertainments at the embassy.

Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams will be the honor guests at the first of the Navy and Marine Corps dances tonight at the Willard.

A number of interesting dinner parties will be given preceding the dance. Among those who will entertain are Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Rufus H. Lane, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Norborne L. Rawlings, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Henry R. Delaney, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Paul Richmond, Lieut. Comdr. Walter Rehrauer and Capt. and Mrs. William H. Bell.

Although Mrs. Davis' official affiliations will be transferred to the group of Senate wives, her affections are closely linked with the Cabinet ladies, with whom she has enjoyed great popularity.

On Tuesday Mrs. Davis has been "signed up" as honor guest at the luncheon to be given by the Women's Press Club. Accompanied by the "little Davises," her presence has been eagerly anticipated. However, as Mrs. Hoover has chosen that day for the luncheon, Mrs. Davis' other engagement was necessarily canceled. A staff of servants has already been installed at the Belin's palatial Georgetown home, putting things in readiness for their master and mistress. The house has not been occupied for some time, since Representative Ruth Pratt, who formerly resided there went to her Long Island home several months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lorimer, of Philadelphia, have taken a suite at the Carlton.

Mr. Maurice Colbourne, lecturer for the Theater Guild, season 1930, will be guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon of the Woman's National Democratic Club next Monday. His subject will be "The Real Bernard Shaw," which is also the title of his latest book. Shaw himself took a hand in preparing this book and correcting the proofs. It contains, therefore, the latest authoritative information about Bernard Shaw.

He is one of the governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon and is personal friend of Bernard Shaw. He is an honor graduate of Oxford and was acquainted with the late Thomas Hardy and Ellen Terry and is a friend of the British poet laureate, John Masefield and many other celebrities.

WASHINGTON

2:30 Friday Afternoon, November 14

Edna Wallace Hopper

The One Woman in the World Who Never Grew Old

Is Going On the Air Friday to Tell Exactly How She Does It!

Famous Stage Star Who at Over 60 Has the Face and Figure of a Girl, to Broadcast Her Basic Secrets to American Women Over N. B. C., Network in Special Youth Matinee—First Appearance Friday, November 14th

DO YOU ever wonder whether you're not beginning to look your age. A bit "middle-aged", perhaps, in the way you walk, the way your skin acts; in the broadness of your hips, or one of several other obvious ways? Well, then, here's your chance.

Edna Wallace Hopper is finally going to tell American women how she does it. And so that she can accommodate her vast audience, has chosen the radio to do it, where the crowd won't be too great. One time she attempted to do it at a San Francisco theatre, and then had to call the police to handle the crowd. 10,000 women tried to jam into the theatre that afternoon.

At over sixty she looks like a girl. Her skin is as unwrinkled and youthful as the average woman of 25. Her figure that of a girl of 16. When she walks down the streets of Paris or New York, boys of college age frequently try to flirt with her. At something past 60, she recently returned to America to present the difficult technique of the Russian Ballet to American theatregoers with her partner, Fernand Grip, famous dancer of the Casino de Paris.

To Tell Women 2 Basic Secrets Friday On Air

Now—on Friday November 14th at 2:30 P. M. Eastern Standard Time and 1:30 Central Standard Time, Miss Hopper will broadcast the exact ways and means she uses from the roof of the famous New Amsterdam Theatre, New York City, the first spectacular programme of the Affiliated Super-Features of the Air.

In this talk Miss Hopper will tell you simple ways to end two universal problems of women. (1) How to eliminate age lines and wrinkles from the face. (2) How to lose that "middle-aged walk" most women past 25 reveal to advertise their age to the world.

Remember the date and time and tune in.

Program sponsored by AFFILIATED SUPER-FEATURES OF THE AIR.

Strange But True

The two pictures below of Miss Hopper were taken exactly 31 years apart. No question, surely, whether or not she has found the secret of youth!

This picture was taken during Miss Hopper's star engagement with the famous "FLORADORA" Company in 1899.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

MR. GILBERT MILLER, who sponsors the play at the Belasco, "Marseilles," is about the busiest manager in the theater these days. Katherine Cornell, coming here next week in "Dishonored Lady," appears under his management. His latest offerings will also have a Washington hearing; a premiere, in fact. Miss Helen Hayes, the Washington girl, will get started in her new play on Monday night, December 8—a play having to do with petticoat government. It is called "Petticoat Influence."

It was the week of December 8 that Washington was to witness the return to the stage of Miss Maude Adams. Other arrangements made, the National has now booked a brand-new musical comedy for that week. So, with Helen Hayes in her new play at the Belasco, and W. C. Fields, the comedian, starring in a new musical comedy at the National, there will be plenty for the speculators to write home about. Fields' new vehicle, called "Ballyhoo," is the offering of Arthur Hammerstein, whose son wrote the book for "Rose Marie." Arthur Hammerstein 2d also contributed to "Ballyhoo," it is said.

One by one the troupers come back to town. Johnny Slaughter, the local boy who started his own jazz band toward fame and fortune, landed in Washington yesterday after a sojourn down Bermuda way where he played under the auspices of no less a personage than His Majesty the King of England. It seems the king has an interest in a hotel, or a night club, or something in Bermuda, according to Ralph Palmer, the erstwhile dramatic editor and play reviewer, who would not tell a fib. Bermuda is, of course, an English possession. Next to come back home will be Miss Ann Suter, the Washington entertainer, who has just toured the world.

Mr. Harry Askin, manager of Sousa and his band, spent a busy day in town yesterday, visiting Gen. George Richards, U. S. M. C., an old friend of the bandmaster and L. J. Fosse, manager of the Auditorium, where the final concerts of the present Sousa tour will be given next Thursday afternoon and night. It seems there are going to be big doings that day. The Bicentennial Commission, en masse, has been invited down to hear the march Sousa composed in honor of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth. Incidentally, Mr. Askin states that the most popular march on the present tour, is "The Washington Post"—composed many years ago for this newspaper, and known wherever bands play.

Under the guidance of Mr. Harold Phillips, an old riverman himself, most of the Washington contingent of theatrical reviewers journeyed the other day to St. Michaels, Md., a quaint little city on the Chesapeake Bay—over on the Eastern Sho'. There, riding at anchor, was the James Adams Floating Theater, the original show boat that furnished copy for Edna Ferber's novel and later the mammoth musical put on by Flo Ziegfeld. It is the intention of Kalipolis Grotto to bring the show boat to Washington later this month. Lovers of old-fashioned melodrama will then see something worth while when the leading man, Charles M. Hunter, and the leading lady, Beulah Adams, called "The Mary Pickford of the Chesapeake," uncork "Gossip," a real old-fashioned thriller. Mr. Carleton Howell, of the Grotto, will be master of ceremonies at concerts after each show.

Tomorrow morning at 10:30 the Junior Theater Players will occupy the stage of the National Theater—instead of the Belasco—in what is heralded as the world premiere of "Tom Sawyer." These players, who number on their roster Miss Sue Pollard, daughter of the Governor of Virginia, are affiliated with the Professional Players and are giving a series of plays for juveniles in this city and Philadelphia. New York may eventually see their work. Henry Hull, Jr., is the impresario. Clifford Adams, leading man, plays Huckleberry Finn; Henry Fonda is the school teacher; Christine Ramsey, the Widow Douglas; Mary Buckner is Becky Thatcher, and Bob de Lany is Joe Harper. The play was adapted from Mark Twain's celebrated work by Paul Kester.

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

With the above hand played at Contract Bridge, South bid two Hearts. He counted the 6 tricks needed for a two-bid as follows: Two high-card tricks in Hearts and three low-card, 5; the Ace-King of Diamonds, 2; and the King of Spades, ½; a total of 7½. Therefore he was amply strong enough to bid two, but not quite strong enough to bid three as a three-bid needs at least 8 tricks and preferably 8½. West did not dare to overcall two Hearts (it might have been expensive had he done so), and North very conservatively bid three Hearts, feeling too weak for the double jump. South, of course bid four Hearts.

When the hand was played, West led the Ace of Clubs to trick 1, and when it won and East did not follow, he led the Jack of Clubs, North played the Queen, East ruffed and South had to follow suit a second time. East then led a Spade and West's Ace-Queen won two tricks; so the adversaries took four tricks and saved the game.

Could South have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Whether South could have made more tricks rested with the adversaries; but he might have given them a chance to stub their toe. When the Jack of Clubs was led at trick 2, dummy should have ducked, hoping that East, with the King-Queen shown in dummy, would allow his partner's Jack to win. If that happened, South's game was assured because if West next led the Ace of Spades, South's King would be good and he would make four-odd. If West next led another Club, North could duck for the third time, South could ruff (overruffing if East ruffed) and discard two Spades on dummy's King and Queen of Clubs. In that way Declarer would make five-odd.

However, when Declarer did not play a covering Club from dummy on the second trick, a clever East would have ruffed West's trick so as to lead a Spade through South; and Declarer's brilliant play would have been checkmated.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled the "Playing Problems." Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"Playing Problems" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced text books, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

New York, Nov. 13.

SUBTLY, is the way that changes in ideas of beauty come about. Skyscrapers didn't raise their heads overnight to a hundred-odd stories, nor shorn locks become a universal feminine need within a quarter of a century.

Very subtly, standards of feminine beauty have changed in the last six years. And they have changed universally, too, and all unknowingly it is the American woman herself who is responsible for this change.

Have you ever come across a fashion magazine of only 12 years ago? And noticed the sloping shoulders, wide hips, and lackadaisical posture of the ladies illustrated therein?

Just look up one in the library, the next time you are there, and compare it to the attitude of one of the ladies in a fashion magazine of today!

'Tis the American girl with her broad shoulders, small high bosom, and slim hips who has set the standard of beauty for today. The boyish figure now having become demode, the masculine figure, swathed in more feminine draperies than the world has seen for a decade, has replaced it. Don't be fooled by reading everywhere that feminine curves have come back into their own—they have, but not all of them.

'Nif your hips are not smaller than your shoulders, what are you going to do about it? Easy! Corset them for one thing, have the excess baggage pounded off of them, for another—and balance up by wearing suits with braid shoulder epaulettes or coats with tiny fur epaulettes on the shoulders.

Nowadays your hot water bottle doesn't have to hang on the bathroom door, nor get hastily thrust into a convenient closet when company comes, nor need its color clash with the other bathroom fixtures. That is—if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the most original leaflet that tells you how to make a "hot-water bag hidey" which is our own name for a pretty and practical and waterproof cover for your hot-water bottle. It's big enough to accommodate all the other rubber goods things, too, and attractive, and easily made. Hurry!

She Fell to Pieces.

Oh-h-h-h I almost forgot that series I was going to give you. Well, you see it was this way; she started to fall to pieces long before her time, what with so much wear and tearing from one continent to another, and all work and all play not giving her a chance to be dull; and she woke up on her umptieth birthday to the fact that she would have to do something about it. So she did something about it, voila, and I'm going to tell you some of the things she did so that you can do them for yourself if you are falling to pieces—just watch.

* * * *

Premet has taken blue georgette and strass and made an evening gown that is a dream of loveliness. Honestly, its lovely lines, its delicate pale blue and the shoulder straps and belt of square strass ornaments made me just long for tons of peroxide or whatever-does-the-trick, to be blonde enough to wear this dress just for one evening!

We are still urging you to look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post. We know you'll enjoy it.

Au Revoir!

"SCORPIO."

IF November 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger period is from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

There may be anticipated on this date family dissension, which can only be averted by patience and reasonableness. There may also occur some business complications. If these should arise, no drastic efforts should be made to unravel them. Think them over today and act tomorrow.

Children born on this November 14 will possess natural ability joined to merry and affectionate dispositions. Whilst entering with zest into sports, they will be studious and have retentive memories. They will shine at school, and the Fates have in store for them a great measure of material success.

You possess the greatest essential to success—Character. You can not be persuaded by any one or by any means to swerve from the path that you have mapped out for yourself, which is the Path of Conscience. It is immaterial to you if success or failure await you, so long as you have done your best and have not forfeited any of your ingrained principles. This creates within you the glow of contentment. You never grouse but greet the present and the future with a smile, whilst your memories of the past bring no tinge of regret.

You also are gifted with self-control and will power, and you always keep your hand on the emergency brake, and always keep a little bit of power in hand, so that when accidents threaten you can avoid them. Your "sportsmanship" instincts are strongly developed, and you accept defeat with a smile, and bear victory with modesty.

The one virtue lacking in your make-up is enterprise. In spite of your many outstanding virtues, no great material rewards await your efforts. You are an ardent apostle of "Safety First," and always afraid to take a chance. A cock sparrow in the hand is, in your opinion, worth more than two pheasants in the bush. You are not a "go-getter." Your life will insure both respect and affection, but it will not be very productive along the lines of money making.

Successful people born November 14:

The Rev. John Carroll, first R. C bishop in United States.
Anson Burlingame, diplomat.
Henry Clay Barnabee, comedian.
William T. Richards, artist.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA.

A REQUEST comes for an article on pernicious anemia, how it differs from other anemias, how it causes disease of the spinal cord, and how it is treated.

The name suggests much. It suggests that it is much more severe than other anemias, which is true. Unlike other anemias, it tends to seriously impair the working of certain organs and even to destroy life. Other anemias are spoken of as secondary. In them, the blood suffers along with other organs. If the case is severe the blood and organs may work poorly or be considerably injured, but they are passive, they are the harmed parties, and if the cause lets up they tend to become normal.

That conception of the anemias carried the theory that in pernicious anemia there was no cause, other than the blood itself, and that fluid was able to cause degeneration of the spinal cord. That, however, is not the accepted theory. Pernicious anemia has a cause, though physicians have not found what it is. They think it is operating either in the liver or in the digestive tract, though they can not agree as to exact location any more than they can as to its exact nature.

In this disease the blood is very watery. It contains only about a fifth as many corpuscles as it should and, say, one-fourth the normal amount of coloring matter. The blood corpuscles are irregular in shape, structure and general appearance. The only certain way to make a diagnosis is by means of a blood examination. The skin is very pale and may have a light orange tinge. In many cases the spinal cord is involved, causing some degree of paralysis and some peculiar sensations, principally in the legs.

A very promising treatment has been adopted in our generation. Since pernicious anemia is a disease which moves in waves, getting better and then getting worse, and lasting a long time, it is not possible to say yet whether this new treatment will permanently and completely cure. This can be said—the treatment is far superior to the old one, it causes almost a magic improvement, and thousands who have used it have been in apparent good health for years. In other words, the treatment is making good so far as it has had time to prove itself.

It consists in the use of liver extract or the eating of liver. The liver seems to hold a something which is specific for the blood. Nor is this substance found only in the liver: extract made from the stomach walls also possesses it. Possibly we may treat ourselves by eating tripe just as we now do by eating liver. Some of it seems to be in heart muscles and in kidney. Some day we may call pernicious anemia a deficiency disease and find in liver and stomach extracts a vitamin to prevent and to cure it.

BREAKING STAMMERING.

E. W. writes: I have a 3-year-old niece who is apparently bright and well, but for the last six months she has been stuttering constantly and is getting worse. Will she outgrow this habit? What can we do to make her stop?

REPLY.

The cure of stuttering is a matter of training. It is not advisable to trust to the child growing out of it. Nervousness is a part of the foundation. Home training is a part of the treatment.

DIET FOR 4-YEAR-OLD.

Mrs. N. M. writes:

1. My child is just 4 years old. Does she still need grade A milk?

2. Quite often she gets a fever for three or four days. What is the trouble with her?

REPLY.

1. She does. Children need one pint to one quart of milk daily. They need it especially in the years of rapid growth.

2. My guess is that these are attacks of acidosis. If so, feed more vegetables and fruit, more buttermilk, skim milk, cheese, and less butter, cream, fat, meat, cereals, sugars, sweets, and bread.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

CHICKEN RIZOTTO.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

1 quart of chicken broth.
1 cup chopped chicken meat.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 onion, minced.
Grated cheese.

Pick the meat from the bones of left-over cooked chicken. Stew the bones in enough water to make a quart of broth, adding any left-over gravy or sauce that will furnish chicken flavor. In a large skillet cook slowly in the butter the onion which has been finely minced. Do not let the onion brown. To this add the chicken broth. When it boils up rapidly, sprinkle in slowly the rice, which has been washed free of the surface starch. Cover the skillet. Allow the rice to simmer in the broth for about 25 minutes, or until the grains swell and become soft. Shake the skillet from time to time to keep the rice from sticking, but do not stir unless absolutely necessary. By the time the rice is done it will have absorbed practically all the broth, and the grains will be large and separate.

Then add the small pieces of chicken that were picked from the bones, turn the mixture onto a hot platter and sprinkle generously with grated cheese. The Italians use Parmesan cheese, but any of the American varieties hard enough to grate will be satisfactory.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

FERTILIZERS.

THE big three—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, each important and each possessing different food properties which are essential to plant life.

Nitrogen is used to encourage growth and improve the color of the foliage. If given at a time when your plants are beginning to set buds you may be reasonably sure of larger, finer flowers when the plants commence to bloom. When the leaves of plants begin to turn yellow the experienced grower knows at once they require nitrogen.

Phosphorous hastens growth and aids in the production of root formation. Phosphorous is usually the first of the necessary elements to become deficient in most soils.

Potassium contributes to the vigorous constitution of a plant and it is this chemical which enables it to resist disease.

Of course plants feed from air as well as from the soil, but we can improve the soil nourishment only. Do not make a mistake when considering the feeding of your plants and offer them lime, thinking that this is food. It is not, but it is of great value for other reasons. It will loosen heavy soil, make sandy soil more compact, sweeten sour soil and it increases the number of soil bacteria. Almost all gardens which have been cultivated for a period of several years will be benefited by an application of lime every three or four years.

Nitrogen, in the form of animal manures, is generally beneficial to all soils. This must always be applied in well-decayed form, because when fresh manure is used it is sure to injure tender roots.

Nitrate of soda, ammonium sulphate are strong drugs for plants, they add little to the physical condition of the soil, but they do supply large quantities of nitrogen. As a rule these fertilizers are applied at the rate of a teaspoonful to a gallon of water. But they are drugs and must be used with caution. In the hands of the experienced grower these chemicals may be used with splendid results, but the amateur will do better with such "foolproof" materials as bone-meal and well-rotted manures. There is no danger of using too much bone-meal, nor will it burn young growth roots. The same may be said of well-rotted manure, which, when well incorporated with the soil and kept from direct contact with the roots, will never injure any plants.

Most soils contain enough potash, but if you happen to have some wood ashes you may use them with benefit about the flower garden. A light covering of the soil is all that is necessary.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

When He Dislikes Toys.

Occasionally one sees a child who takes no interest in any of the playthings which have been provided for him.

He is apathetic and bored, consenting to show even a passive interest only when some adult or another child enters into the game and furnishes the initiative.

When an otherwise normal child behaves this way there are several possible reasons for it. It is possible that he has been given entirely too many toys. The mere sight of his shelves and boxes filled with innumerable objects fatigues him in much the same way that an adult is fatigued by too long hours in a museum. The number of his toys dispels their charm.

Perhaps his toys have been unwisely chosen, without attention either to his age level or to his particular interests. They may be just bad toys whose play possibilities have all been exploited in the first hour or two of possession. Mechanical, elaborate and fragile toys are of this sort.

Perhaps he never has been permitted to explore the possibilities of his play materials without adult interference or the overstimulation and direction of older playmates. This may well have dulled his capacity for starting things by himself and bringing to his games the color of his own imagination.

Because he has passively followed some one else's ideas he has no notion how to start his own.

The remedy for these troubles is obvious enough. Remove nearly all toys for a time. Introduce the good ones gradually, one by one. Leave him much alone in his play.

Give him a chance to get acquainted with himself in relation to his playthings and it will not be long before he develops something like normal responses.

CHAPTER XI.

Donald Flint—it was by that name that Robin always thought of him—had come to Lady Dorothy's country home for the week-end to see Lady Gwendolen and ask her to marry him, and not at all expecting to meet her brother, who, he believed, was in Canada. He admitted that his first intention of marrying Lady Gwendolen had been instigated by a twofold motive: that of getting even with the man he regarded as his persecutor, by marrying his sister and torturing him through her, and by his marriage also sealing his lips forever; for he counted on Lord Winston's love for his sister preventing any nasty revelation about her husband. These were unworthy motives, he admitted, but very human in the circumstances, he thought.

But upon closer acquaintance with Lady Gwendolen, Donald Flint had come to love her, and with his love and respect for the girl had come a softening of his feelings toward her brother until, when he went to Alston Manor for the week-end, all his animosity had been cleared away by his great love for Lady Gwendolen. He wanted only her happiness, and he only hoped that he might go unrecognized by Lord Winston or, in the case of his recognition, by his frankness and willingness to atone to earn his friendship. By this it could be seen that Bruin Peters, now Donald Flint, had looked upon the killing of Pierre Legrange in a very different light from that in which Lord Winston and the judge and jury were in the habit of viewing such crimes.

His consternation at meeting Lord Winston on that pleasant June afternoon can therefore be well imagined. He had hoped to be married to Lady Gwendolen before the meeting occurred; yet here, without any warning whatsoever, he was precipitately brought face to face with his enemy. He had kept his outward calm through the ordeal, and as the afternoon drew to a close and dinner came and there was no sign from Lord Winston, he began to regain his composure. After all, he had passed the test. Lord Winston had not recognized in Donald Flint, the financial magnate, the obscure Bruin Peters of trapping days.

So he had sought out Lady Gwendolen after dinner and in a secluded part of the garden was declaring his devotion when "that ass of a poet" interfered and attracted Lord Winston's attention. That had been the beginning of Lord Winston's suspicions. There had been some accent of his voice, or some gesture, in that unguarded moment which had recalled a memory. There had been something in the tone of Lord Winston's voice when he had turned to the poet and said: "I am capable of defending my sister, Mr. Flint will answer to me." He had warned the other that his recognition was imminent, if not accomplished. He had been flustered and distraught inside, but cool without. That he blamed the poet for the disaster which followed could be easily seen; there was animosity in his voice and a foreboding glint in his eye when he said "that ass of a poet."

Robin would often think about this incident. It appeared that, unknowingly, he had been the cause of the tragedy which followed, for Donald Flint might have passed unrecognized if it had not been for that moment. Then Lady Gwendolen would have married him and Robin would have been desolate forever. Not that she wasn't likely to marry some one else. Yet, still, there had been a difference since his incarceration . . . and Robin still hoped, despite the ever-lengthening silence.

After they had left Lord Winston and the poet together Donald Flint had renewed his proposal and Lady Gwendolen had accepted him. His heart was singing with joy, and murder was farthest from his heart at the moment she left him to go into the music room. He had turned back into the garden alone; he had never been so happy, so overflowing with kindness toward the whole world.

He had walked about a half-hour or so, enveloped in his dreams of this young girl he loved, when he heard footsteps behind him. He turned with an instinctive fear. It was Lord Winston.

"I have a word to say to you, Peters!" he said in a hard and ominous voice.

At the sound of that old name Flint winced. At the sight of the implacable hate in the cold, blue eyes he shuddered. The whole world was tumbling about his head, and in his ears was only a mighty roar, an intolerable confusion, in which the voice of Lord Winston sounded faintly:

"Come into the billiard room. We'll be undisturbed there. I don't want any scandal about this. . . ."

Perhaps he wasn't going to do anything, after all. His words seemed to indicate that. Flint's heart leaped with hope as he followed the other through a back passage into the billiard room. Not a word was spoken during that short walk.

"I want you to come with me quietly," Lord Winston commenced in that self-righteous manner which the French-Canadian loathed. "I have waited for this moment . . . waited long. But no breath of scandal must touch my sister. . . ."

"Your sister has promised to become my wife," Flint replied quietly.

The effect of his words was instantaneous. Lord Winston turned on him threateningly.

"How dare you, you murderer!" Lord Winston hissed. "I could kill you for that."

"I don't advise you to try . . ." Flint had returned, still very quietly.

"Come! I've no time to bandy words with such as you!" Lord Winston laid his hand on the other's arm.

At the touch the old animosity had returned in an overwhelmingly wave. "Take your hand from my sleeve!" Flint commanded firmly.

"You dirty halfbreed!" Lord Winston snarled. "Shut your mouth and come with me. We're going to get your things and you're going to leave this house quietly. If you make any attempt to escape I shall kill you."

They were at the foot of a short flight of steps at this time, and Flint had pushed past Lord Winston and run up to the half-landing, intending to get away before he lost control of himself. But the young earl had been too quick for him. On the landing he caught and tripped him. They fell together. Grappled. There was a brief struggle, in which Lord Winston was gaining the upper hand, when Flint's arm struck the knife he always carried. In the contact a storm of passion swept through him, bringing back a remembrance of the old hatred. This time the young meddling earl would not escape him. No, not though the whole world fell with him. With a mighty effort he wriggled his position, maneuvering to grasp the hilt of the knife in his right hand. He succeeded. It was Lord Winston's life or his!

With a quick lurch he threw himself free of the other for an instant, and in that instant he struck.

Voices from beyond the billiard room startled him. It was the servants who had described their chatting and laughing below. Donald Flint took it for the voice of some one approaching. He had no time to think. He only knew that he must get the tell-tale body out of sight as quickly as possible. There was a half-open door on the landing. He pulled the inert form through and into a tiny room. There was no place for concealment. Suddenly his eyes spied the valance of the old-fashioned bed. He dragged his victim there and shoved him under as far as he could.

Then he hastened from the room, closing the door after him. He ran up the remaining five of six stairs into the hall. But even in his hurry his mind had not been idle. He had thought to go through Lord Winston's pockets. To give the affair the aspect of robbery. The money he had crushed into his own pockets; the valuable cigarette-case and watch he had dared not to keep. He might be searched. So he had gone into the first room to which he came—it happened to have been Lady Gwendolen's, but he had not known—and here he had thrown the objects far into the garden, as near the path as he could, to give it the further aspect of murder and robbery from the outside.

It was then that he had spied blood on his hands. The sight of it frightened him, and, moreover, it reminded him that his talisman was gone. He had left the magic knife in Lord Winston's breast. His first instinct was to return and get it. But in his hurry he had become confused and he did not know which way to go. The manor, with its many passages, was like a maze to his distraught mind. He heard voices from the music-room. He wondered with fear if he had been missed. He knew he must hurry and rejoin the others. So he had, with the help of the dim light from the passage, washed the tell-tale stains from his trembling hands in Lady Gwendolen's bowl and dried his murderer's hands on her towel. He had thrown the water from the bowl out of the window. That he had remembered. If he had only remembered to withdraw the knife! Without his talisman he knew real fear, for he had the superstition of men of his type.

$350,000 Estate Sought by Sisters

Schadmann Relatives Say Secretary Influenced Their Brother.

Charging that their brother was unduly influenced and that he wrote a second will which can not be found, two sisters of the late George B. Schadmann, head of the Columbian Preparatory School, 1444 Rhode Island avenue northwest, yesterday began a legal contest over his will.

Schadmann, who was 67 and a bachelor when he died, left the bulk of his $350,000 estate to his secretary, Miss Katherine R. Pike. His sisters, Mrs. Emma G. S. Grove, of Williamsport, Pa., and Grace M. S. Yount, of Norristown, Pa., were left only $12,000 and $3,000, respectively.

They charge that Miss Pike influenced their brother to leave his estate to her. Later, they allege, he wrote a second will revoking the terms of the first. This second will can not be found. Miss Pike and George White are executors of the will.

Schadmann's will, executed October 18, 1918, left $10,000 to his brother, Raymond A. Schadmann, of Emporia, Pa.; $2,000 to another brother, Harry D. Schadmann, Waterloo, Iowa; $2,500 to two nephews, and other small sums to children of Harry and Grace.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—Mike Donlin, the former big league ball player who is acting now, talked himself out of a scene.

PATSY O'LEARY

No dialog had been written for a sequence in "Her Man" so Director Tay Garnett told Mike to ad lib a few words with Helen Twelvetrees. Donlin, still baseball minded apparently, discussed the first two games of the world's series.

Not until the picture was previewed did someone discover that previous conversation between two other characters established the time of the action as March 17, months before the series took place. The scene was cut out.

Had Mike known the date, it would have suggested a very appropriate subject.

Satire.

Mack Sennett, who makes a satirical picture about once a year, has completed another which pokes a lot of fun at singing in the movies. He calls his two-reeler "A Hollywood Theme Song," which slightly suggests the content.

The hero (Harry Gribbon) sings to and with every one, including a German spy and a general who is a speaking likeness of one named Pershing, and even when the little gal (Patsy O'Leary) appears as an apparition she joins in a chorus.

Last year "A Hollywood Star" was Sennett's contribution to the ridicule of filmland.

Captured.

Movie sound engineers have captured innumerable noises to file away on wax records in their libraries. They have caught the songs of various uncommon and bashful birds, the sound of storms at sea and that of flat wheels on street cars, but poets, philosophers and liars have set up a whole category that makes dandy reading but bad recording.

Where (the question is rhetorical) in Hollywood is recorded the awful grind of routine? Or the cracking of poor jokes, or the fall of night, or of wind whistling through an old man's beard?

The beating of a maiden's heart which has thrilled poets so often is too delicate a sound to be caught by even the most sensitive microphone. Neither is there a wax record of the lost chord or the call of the wild or of the tide in the affairs of men.

The squeaking of a new pair of shoes, the crunch of celery and the call of the o-o to its mate are simple matters in the life of a sound librarian, but he is baffled when one asks to hear the music of the spheres, the breaking of dawn, a candle throwing its beams, money talking, a politician being called by his people, or—well, why go on? (Voice: Why go this far?)

YOUR NAME What Does It Mean?

By HAARY A. DEFFERARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Randall" (also spelled "Randell," "Randia" and "Randal") is found in the earliest English records. It is a variation of the personal name "Randolph," which, in turn, is derived from the old low German "Randwulf," meaning "shield-wolf." The form "Randle" has been especially common in Cheshire because of the popularity of Randle, Earl of Chester, the Crusader. A certain Robert Ranulf and a Peter Randulf are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Bryan" is a variation of the Celtic personal name "Brian," which means "strength," "virtue" and "honor." This personal name, which was once very common in Brittany, was introduced into England at the time of the Conquest from Brittany and not from Ireland, as is popularly supposed. As a family name it occurs at least five times in the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Bryant" is generally merely a variation of "Bryan." However, in a few cases it may be traced back to the French "Bruyant" (also spelled "Bruant"), which was originally a nickname meaning "noisy" and "blustering."

The family name "O'Brien" is of Celtic origin and means "the descendant of Brian." "Brian" means "strength," "virtue" and "honor." "O'Brien" is one of the oldest, most distinguished and most common surnames in Ireland. It is believed that the family of this name is descended from Brian Boru, a king of Ireland, who was killed at Clontarf in the year 1014.

The family name "Rohrbach" is of German origin. It means "the reed-stream" and indicates an original place of residence.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

His Observations.

DEAR Miss McDonald: I have been quite a consistent reader of your column. Now I may be a little weak on the marriage question, but I would like to acquaint you with a few of the reasons why I shun the glorious ladies of apparently good character and wifely qualifications who come my way.

About 25 years ago my dad met a lady of the sort and married her. He was a tradesman and she a farm girl of good family and up-bringing. Father not being able to pick money off trees, did the best he could, giving earnings to mother. Did that satisfy her? No. And the result was that father began to depreciate in her eyes and as a result in his own. Finally she went to work in a factory against his wish. With her earnings she purchased such vital necessities as player-pianos and trick lamps, while dad and I were neglected at home. Dad was lucky to have a pair of socks to wear. I never knew how I got ready for school. We have never had a home. Just a mad house with every one looking for something they can't find. And our spiritual state is much the same.

Now I am not exaggerating when I say that mother hates dad and taunts him unmercifully. I can not understand how he endures it. But he goes on doing the best he can, and even at a time like this when his work is at a standstill, he offers mother such pleasures as his earnings afford, only to be ridiculed. Mother never allows him to show the least affection. Treats him as a stranger, and has all these years.

If a woman treated me as my mother has treated my dad I would go so far that they would never find me. Do you blame me for my feeling that "good character," long acquaintance—none of these things guarantee you one thing in marriage. You are beaten before you start because every one is on good behavior before marriage, but after, oh, my!

Do you suppose I will ever be able to marry? JIM.

Jim, old dear, you will do just as every one else does when the bell rings. You won't know how it happens, but it will happen. No matter how many or how bitter the experiences we have seen, we somehow go blank and forget when somebody happens upon the "combination." And, Jim, it is well that it is so. Why should you be lonely all your life just because your father married the wrong girl? You will probably marry the right one and live happily ever after—as old Mother Nature intended us to do. Stop worrying about dad. Give him your affection, and he will feel well repaid for all his unappreciated labors.

However, your letter is another warning to warring parents. But, of course, it will do no good.

This column is helpful only to those who use it. Your problem is just as important as your neighbor's problem. Write to the column. You need not sign your name.

PERUVIAN TROOPS PATROL RIOT ZONE

Scenes of Disorder Prevail Where Americans Lost Lives in Strike.

FOREIGNERS FLEE REGION

Lima, Peru, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Soldiers with fixed bayonets tonight patrolled the muddy streets of Mal Paso, the Andean mining town, where two Americans were killed and several others wounded in labor riots yesterday.

Troops were gathered in the barracks at Lima as a precaution against possible disorders arising from a general strike called by the Workers Council after the Mal Paso clashes, and several Communist agitators, charged with responsibility for the disorders, were in the hands of the police.

Three hundred foreign refugees, jammed into a jerky three-car train, piled into this city from Mal Paso and intermediate points today. They brought some of the wounded and told the first detailed story to come out of the mining area. Engineer Haggard, of the refugee train, related the story of the Mal Paso battle as he gulped the first food he had tasted in many hours.

Started at La Oroya.

The trouble really started, he said, at La Oroya, a mining town not far from Mal Paso. Radical organizers had aroused the men there to strike and when news of this action reached Mal Paso workmen in that town also threw down their tools.

The walkout paralyzed the power house which runs most of the smelting plants. The local constabulary hurried an armed guard to the bridge on the road between Mal Paso and La Oroya. When a group of workmen attempted to cross the bridge the battle began.

Before it was over John W. Chapman, of Chicago, and E. L. Tripary, an American storekeeper, were killed; J. A. Morger, another American, was critically injured, and the list of wounded included an American named Kelley, an American woman, Mrs. Albert Diamant, her husband and another man named Whitley. Twelve of the rioters were slain and at least 25 wounded.

Driven Back by Guard.

The attacking force, driven back by the guard at the bridge, moved against the town, looting stores and offices and pursuing all foreigners met on the way. Twenty foreigners fled before one band of workers and their fate still was in doubt tonight.

"The men wounded Chapman," Haggard said, "and bashed in his head with rocks. They shot Tripary to death and cut off his head."

Meanwhile the United States Ambassador, Fred Dearing, had demanded government protection for Americans at Mal Paso and sent the consul to the mining town to assist in removal of the refugees.

The rioters, greatly superior in number to the troops on the scene, surrounded the train as the refugees went aboard, but were driven back until it had started on its journey to Lima. Along the way, nearly 100 passengers were added to the 200 who originally embarked at Mal Paso.

Many Are Left Behind.

At various stations en route, hundreds of others waited for the train to carry them to safety also, but there was no room for them.

In Lima, first reports of the disorders were fragmentary because telegraph wires were down. But when word of the strike reached the city, the general workers' council called out its members, paralyzing trolley, bus and railroad lines.

Taxicabs were the only means of transportation, but there were not enough to go around. Some factories were idle most of the day because their workers had no means of coming from their homes to their places of employment, but toward nightfall the transportation facilities were partly restored by loyal workers, who refused to abandon their posts.

Guard Against Sabotage.

Reports conflicted as to whether the mines at La Oroya and Mal Paso would be closed for any length of time. Tonight, armed guards were stationed at all the plants to prevent sabotage.

The police and the mine operators believed that the Communists, whom they held responsible for the trouble, included some of the men who took part in the bloody labor riots of 1919.

The address of Tripary, one of the Americans killed, was given as in care of the Interstate Park Commission at 25 Broadway, New York City.

PETROLEUM GROUP SILENT ON TARIFF

BODY WARNS INDUSTRY

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The American Petroleum Institute adjourned its eleventh annual meeting tonight without committing itself on imports and oil tariff proposals.

The tariff proposal, which many big importing companies oppose and large producers favor, was discussed by the board of directors but was held over without action for future consideration at a directors' meeting.

The directors, in adopting resolutions asking the industry to adapt itself in a greater degree to the law of supply and demand, were careful to add that their action was "not to be construed as an approval of the present rate of imports nor as an acceptance of the principle that domestic production should be limited by the amount of imports.

Gasoline Surplus Foreseen.

The board of directors called attention to committee reports showing that if the runs to oil stills continue "as contemplated by the separate units of the industry, the stock of gasoline on hand March 31, next, based on a break-even demand, would be 78,000,0000 barrels, an amount so much in excess of the estimated requirements as to demand the immediate attention of every refiner."

The American oil industry was then urged by the board to try to conduct operations so as to harmonize the supply of gasoline and crude oil operations with the indicated demand "to the end that they may avoid the wasteful conditions indicated in the committee reports."

Final business sessions of the three divisions of the institute were held this afternoon. In the marketing division the chairman, Henry M. Dawes, of the Pure Oil Co., asserted the oil companies should carry on their business "as one-price merchants, rather than like a lot of shysters with as many prices as customers."

Code Violations Cited.

Calling attention to flagrant violations of the institute's code of ethics by the sellers of gasoline, Dawes said the only way to solve the marketers' problem was "to post one price in the service station and to adhere to it; to forget courtesy cards, charge accounts, commercial discounts and all of the host of subterfuges now resorted to for the purpose of discriminating between customers and deceiving competitors."

William N. Davis, of the Phillips Petroleum Co., reporting as chairman of the production division, said his section was thoroughly organized to analyze, discuss and make recommendations on technical and practical problems, as well as general problems.

W. M. Irish, of the Atlantic Refining Co., chairman of the refining group, discussing refinery wastes, said his committee had solved the problem so far as oil pollution of waters was involved and that it was passing on to other phases of the study.

Capital Doctor to Give His Brain to University

Cleveland, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Dr. Arthur MacDonald, prominent Washington physician, notified Western Reserve University here today that when he dies his brain will be sent to the Reserve Medical School for scientific study.

"Men of intelligence, especially those engaged in research work, should add to the sum of human knowledge by leaving their brains to be analyzed after death," Dr. MacDonald said. He himself has long been engaged in a study of the human brain and recently examined the skulls of several members of Congress. Dr. MacDonald has provided funds for the pathological laboratory of George Washington University to remove his brain and to send it to Western Reserve.

Tear Gas Again Balks Illinois Bank Robbery

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Highwood State Bank at Suburban Highwood probably was saved from robbery today by tear gas for the second time this year. Four men attempted to hold up the bank. Two entered, one stood guard outside and the fourth waited in an automobile, the motor running.

Edgar Benson, assistant cashier, released the tear-gas, and the would-be robbers, coughed, cried and fled. They fired six shots at Benson, but none took effect. Tear gas frustrated a holdup of the bank several months ago. Prior to its use the bank was robbed of $3,000 last December 31.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Winter has returned in Montana, announcing its advent with a snowfall all over the State. Temperatures this morning ranged from 26 to 34 above zero. In Alberta, Canada, the minimum was 12 above.

Bail Is Boosted On Bank Prisoner

Police Charge Defendant Did Not Keep Promise to Help Find Funds.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Because police were dissatisfied with the way Franklin P. Ferguson kept his promise to help locate $250,000 in securities taken from the Lincoln, Nebr., National Bank by robbers last September, the court raised his bail today from $5,000 to $25,000 on a charge of receiving $15,000 of the loot.

Ferguson was arraigned in Tombs Court, and his hearing was set for November 24. Assistant District Attorney Bernard Botein told the court Ferguson promised to help police make other arrests and recover more bonds, but had failed to cooperate.

Fred Boehm, attorney for surety companies interested in the case, said $130,000 in securities, the proceeds of eight robberies, had been found in New York banks where Ferguson deposited them as collateral for loans. He said a list of $569,000 worth of stolen bonds was found on Ferguson when he was arrested.

Man Admits Poisoning Wife, Child, Self, Claim

Detroit, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Dr. T. C. Owens, staff physician at Receiving Hospital, said this afternoon that Charles Anger had admitted he poisoned himself, his wife and their 5-year-old daughter last night. Anger and his wife are in a critical condition in the hospital. The daughter, Alice, is responding to treatment.

Dr. Owens said Anger refused to reveal his motive for the act.

Police Think Man, Hurt, Put Powder in His Car

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Police today said they were seeking evidence in support of a theory that the powder which caused the explosion yesterday in which W. F. Heidergott, Purdue University instructor, was seriously injured might have been placed in the instructor's automobile by Heidergott himself.

The nature of the evidence in support of this theory was not revealed. Authorities said they planned to interview Heidergott this afternoon at the hospital, where he apparently is recovering from injuries. A portion of his face was blown away.

The powder is believed to have been wrapped in a burlap sack and placed in the rear of the machine or on the floor underneath the car. It was exploded, police believe, by a fuse that had been laid from an alley in the rear of the garage. The fuse was touched off by a match.

Three Hurt in Gunfight On Streets of Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—James Cummings, 27, of Kansas City, and two bystanders were wounded today in a gun battle between Cummings and four policemen at a busy street intersection on the near West Side. Fifty shots were fired. Panic ensued, and pedestrians dived into doorways and behind automobiles.

Cummings drove up to a pawn shop in a taxi. He identified himself as a former purchaser of a shotgun and asked to see some revolvers. He grabbed two and ran. Brandishing the weapons, he ordered the taxi driver to "step on it." Instead the driver fled on foot. Cummings fired two shots after him, attracting police, who gave chase. Cummings was shot twice.

Every man has the right to work

EVERY company has a moral obligation to expand and to provide work. Business is no longer a personal matter where the destinies of men hang upon the whim of an executive. The social aspect eclipses the personal, in an organization which involves the livelihood of hundreds of families.

The company which folds up at the first hint of hard times is betraying a trust. In a time of depression we should fight to keep men in jobs.

Eighty men have been added to the fitting department of the Washington Gas Light Company to take care of installing the phenomenal number of Automatic Gas Home Heaters sold during the past two months. That seasonal job is drawing to a close, but although these new men are not regular employes we hope to retain them on the pay roll because we believe it possible to develop enough business by the sale of gas appliances to keep them busy.

To stimulate sales we have substantially reduced the prices of all gas ranges and gas refrigerators.

It is true that if we accomplish our aim, as we expect to, the company will benefit. But primarily we make this intensive merchandising drive now with this in mind:

that every man has the right to work, and if the Washington Gas Light Company by increasing its sales efforts can keep men in work, it is morally bound to do so.

ARMY-NAVY GAME NOW HINGES ON MUTUAL DATE

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Such crabbing and grousing as nobody ever heard before in sport, even in the prize fight business, have been troubling the echoes from the football stadiums this fall that it does begin to seem as though the boys have forgotten that the game is only a jolly lark, after all, and intended to promote good health, good conduct and good feeling. I am afraid this applies to the boys of the fourth estate, also, although, for my part, that which may seem to be querulous comment is only my way of asking what everything is all about and why so.

For instance, if football is nothing more than 60 minutes of good, clean fun and victory is secondary to the playing of the game and the receipts are of no importance at all, I just wonder why a team that is too tired and sore to play a game for the benefit of the unemployed isn't disbanded and retired for the season.

People Annoyed at Pegler's Questions.

But when I wonder this, people evince annoyance and I am given to understand that I have spoken out of turn, though nobody is kind enough to explain it all. Being not overly bright but insatiably curious, I can only keep on asking "why?" and, in a season when a lot of people are sore and indignant about various matters, this questioning note is mistaken for another beef about that vague but ever-present evil known as conditions. People are always finding fault with conditions, and even politicians who would think twice before denouncing Pontius Pilate lest they offend some body of voters, have been known to attack them with the utmost fearlessness. But I have no grievance against conditions. I only like to ask what are conditions and what causes them.

Out West, one great coach lets fly a bitter statement about another coach, calling him a bum sport and no gentleman because some one has turned up evidence that a star player on Coach A's team is a four-year man and therefore ineligible to play against Coach B's team. It is my impression that both coaches are taking themselves too seriously if football is only 60 minutes of good, clean fun, and that Coach A ought to be grateful to Coach B for calling his attention to the proposition. Otherwise Coach A would unwittingly go into the game with an unfair advantage under the rules, which, of course, no gentleman would wish to do.

Coaches Should Be Confined To Coaching.

Moreover, football being the simple, chivalrous game that I conceive it to be, I should think the coaches, who are only paid instructors after all and no more important than so many

Singer Risks His Crown Tonight

Canzoneri His Foe in Garden; Small "Gate" Prospect.

Champion's Defeat by McLarnin Makes Fans Skeptical.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Young Al Singer, who won himself a lightweight championship by knocking out Sammy Mandell last summer, will carry the crown into battle for the first time tomorrow night in a fifteen-round match with Tony Canzoneri in Madison Square Garden.

Singer's defense of the 135-pound title will mark the first title go in that class staged indoors here since Benny Leonard whipped Ritchie Mitchell in the old Garden years ago. Under financial conditions existing in the fight game today, however, despite the drawing powers of the two local favorites, gate receipts are not expected to exceed $50,000. The Singer-Mandell affair, staged in the Yankee Stadium, drew better than $150,000.

Mental Condition of Rivals Perplexes.

The mental rather than physical condition of the youngsters perplexes the wise ones who whisper the odds on tomorrow night's battle. Singer, after knocking out Mandell in a round, tackled Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver belter, in an overweight match, and was himself battered senseless. The critics fear that Singer, just turned 21 may have been "spoiled" by that defeat.

Canzoneri not yet 23, still is such a veteran in point of action that the ring-wise believe his best days are behind him. He lost the decision in Mandell's last successful title defense and was beaten a few months ago by Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. Dak. He has rested for the past few month, however, and seems in splendid condition.

Almost two years ago, Canzoneri and Singer met here for the first time and the match was declared a draw, although most of the critics gave Tony a wide edge on points.

POLO GAME POSTPONED.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The polo game scheduled for today between teams of the United States and Argentine Armies was postponed until Saturday on account of rain. The game is the first in a series which will be decided by winning two out of three.

Eastern-Tech Title Game Profits Voted to Charity

8,000 Crowd Expected to See Contest Next Tuesday.

THE final and championship deciding game of the high school football series, between Tech and Eastern, will be played next Tuesday afternoon, with the entire proceeds going toward the relief of the District's unemployed.

In a conference yesterday, Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, assistant Superintendent of Schools in charge of high schools; Frank Daniels, principal of Tech, and Charles Hart, principal of Eastern, decided upon this game as the charity game which the school board has intended to sponsor since the inception of the idea of staging games for relief of the needy.

Present plans call for the game to be played at Central Stadium, whose seating capacity does not exceed 8,000, but today G. Harris White, director of athletics at Central High School, will confer with Clark Griffith with a view to obtaining the use of Griffith Stadium for the game. This move is favored by the committee as plausible, in that the improved seating capacity of the ball park will promote larger attendance, and as a result, a larger relief fund.

The question of playing the game at night was discussed yesterday by Dr. Kramer, Mr. Daniels and Mr. Hart, but received little recommendation in its favor. It is almost definite that the game will be in the afternoon.

Whether the charity tilt is played at Central or Griffith Park, the price charged will be 50 cents general admission. Tickets will be sold in the high schools to students only for 10 cents. The starting time has been advanced to 3:15 p. m.

While no mention was made of any specific unemployment fund or committee to which the proceeds will be given, it is believed that proceeds will be turned over to the Chamber of Commerce's recently organized committee for the relief of the unemployed.

Maryland-Vanderbilt Scheduled Here in 1931

Vanderbilt, annually one of the South's strongest football teams, will meet Maryland in an intersectional game here next fall, it was learned last night. The game probably will be held in Griffith Stadium on November 7.

The scheduling of this contest will add considerably to the attractiveness of the local football program for 1931 and will be the first game of major importance played here in November in several years.

Possibility of shifting this year's Maryland-Vanderbilt game from Nashville to Baltimore on November 29 and giving the entire proceeds to the unemployed of Baltimore—a proposal originating with a charitable organization of the Maryland metropolis—was considered remote last night by Curley Byrd, athletic director of Maryland University.

G. W. Suspends 2 Linemen For "Disciplinary Reasons"

O'Brien and Demas, Linemen, Will Not Accompany Team to Albright Game; Pixlee Names Line-Up.

ZACHARY DEMAS, first-string guard, and Lawrence O'Brien, reserve tackle, have been indefinitely suspended from the George Washington University football squad, it was announced last night at the G. W. athletic office. Other than it was for "disciplinary reasons," the action was not explained.

Demas and O'Brien consequently will not make the trip to Reading, Pa., where the Colonials tomorrow face Albright College in one of their hardest games of the season. Demas has distinguished himself as a hard playing guard, particularly proficient on defense, while O'Brien has done fine yeoman service at tackle on a number of occasions.

The Colonial squad, headed by Coaches Pixlee and Walsh, departs at 5 p. m. by bus. A stop will be made in Baltimore for dinner and the party is scheduled to reach Reading at 10 o'clock.

Slaird Returns to Line.

Walter Slaird, who was injured in preseason training, will start at one of the tackle positions for the first time. His inaugural performance will be closely observed for signs of fulfilling the promise he showed before the start of the season. Slaird weighs about 200 pounds and is smart and agile.

The Colonials finished their heavy preparatory work yesterday on the Tidal Basin Field. The coaches, previously disappointed, were pleased. A light drill will be held this afternoon.

Sammy Berkowitz, slightly built but energetic reserve back, will take one of the half back positions in the starting line-up tomorrow. Joe Carter, the regular in the position, is still suffering the effects of a nasty spill in the New York Aggies clash last Friday night. His understudy is a clever runner and makes up in aggressiveness what he lacks in weight.

Other Starters Are Listed.

The other starting nominees are Fenlon and Galloway, ends; Hale, tackle; Wilson and Sommer, guards; Chambers, center; Wells, quarter back; Carlin, half back, and Kriemelmeyer, full back. The squad also includes Vogt, Helvestine, Mulvey and Sturtevant, ends; Chesnut and Hale, tackles; Bagranoff, Duffalo, Lannon and Reilly, guards; Brown, center, and Jones and Venezky, backs.

Irish Agree to Shift '31 Northwestern Game

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Notre Dame tonight agreed to Northwestern University's proposal to transfer the 1931 Notre Dame-Northwestern football game from South Bend to Soldier Field, in the interest of charity. The Rev. Father Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, in a letter to president Walter Dill Scott, of Northwestern, made the announcement tonight.

Northwestern, through Dr. Scott, yesterday offered to immediately advance $100,000 to Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission, if Notre Dame would agree to give Northwestern the extra proceeds up to $100,000 made available by transferring the game to the larger stadium.

Only consent of the Western Conference faculty committee on athletics is needed to complete the arrangement.

ST. PAUL'S SEEK GAME.

The St. Paul's 125-pound football team would like to schedule a contest for this Sunday to be played on their own field. Manager William Carr can be reached at Potomac 2321.

Bozek, Scalzi Bear Hope of G. U. Fans

Pair Has Proven Hilltop Opportunists in Other Victories.

Mills Stresses Defense for Punter in Last Drill for N. Y. U.

GEORGETOWN students and supporters in the majority entertain no doubt that Georgetown will defeat New York's Violent Violets, but they are concerned with a very relevant question about the game to be played tomorrow in Yankee Stadium.

"Will Johnny Bozek and Johnny Scalzi again come to Georgetown's rescue in time of stress?" Those who ask themselves that about the Hilltop's chief dependables will live the next 36 hours in hopes.

Judging from past performances dating as far back as 1928, Georgetown's greatest threats to New York U. tomorrow will be those two much-talked-of Johnnies. Of course, Coach Tom Mills has other players in whom he has placed just as much faith, but Bozek and Scalzi already have won recognition as "saviors" and they are the logical choices to carry the burden tomorrow.

Stars Came Through With Long Runs.

Bozek's 80-yard run last Saturday against Boston College and Scalzi's two long gallops against Michigan State on October 31 are still fresh in the minds of Blue and Gray adherents. In each instance these runs were vital in the final analysis of games in which Georgetown was sorely pressed by the enemy.

And there was the combined efforts of Bozek and Scalzi which last year toppled mighty N. Y. U. And in 1928 there was Bozek's surprise run from punt formation behind his goal line that turned the tide against West Virginia. Many other times this pair have come through in the pinches but the incidents here referred to are best remembered.

Tomorrow Bozek will be held in reserve while Scalzi will start at quarterback. It is not an unusual role for Bozek to watch the kick-off from the bench. Coach Tommy Mills and Lou Little before him have decided that Swampoodle's idol isn't physically endowed to perform effectively throughout an entire game.

But it is a safe bet to make now that Bozek will be called on at some time of tomorrow's proceedings. Both he and Scalzi will be sought out by N. Y. U. eyes from the time the teams take the field.

Bozek and Scalzi Stage Passing Act.

In recent games Bozek and Scalzi have worked the forward pass to perfection. To the surprise and dismay of their foes, Bozek has done the passing and Scalzi the receiving on a number of occasions when just the opposite was the thing to anticipate. The Violet may be prepared for anything, but even so it will be troubled aplenty once these boys get under way.

The Hilltoppers departed at 9 o'clock this morning and were scheduled to practice in the stadium this afternoon immediately after arrival in the big town. They will stop at the Hotel McAlpin.

Hundreds of Georgetown students, augmented by plain fans, are to leave this afternoon on special trains run by Hilltop authorities at excursion rates. Accommodations on these trains and tickets for the game are still available to the public at the Georgetown athletic office.

Mills practically selected following yesterday's practice the eleven players due to face the Violets at the opening whistle. It is virtually the same line-up that started against Boston College. Phil Mooney will be at right half back instead of Russ Danieu.

Practice Defending The Punter.

Practice yesterday in Griffith Stadium featured a drill on protecting the kicker of punts. For more than an hour Mills kept his charges at the task of blocking out the defensive side while the kickers got away their lofts. Three times in previous games the Georgetown kicker has found a horde of opponents blocking his punts. Boston College scored one of its touchdowns by smothering a punt by Bozek.

Charley Brickman, whom Mills has named as his best lineman, is not in the starting line-up. Dick Danner has been filling in capably at right guard during Brickman's lay-off enforced by injury.

Navy Squad Tapers Off For S. Methodist Clash

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Navy Football Team put aside discussions of a possible meeting with the Army in a post-season game today to taper off its preparation for the intersectional battle with Southern Methodist Saturday in Baltimore. A dummy scrimmage drill in defense against the Texans' passing attack was held. Tschirgi, half back, injured in the Ohio State game, was in uniform and took part in the drill.

Rockne to Assemble Stars To Play Pros for Charity

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne assured Mayor Walker of New York over the long distance telephone from South Bend today that he would definitely assemble a team of former Notre Dame football stars and send them into action against the New York Giants here on December 13 in a game for the benefit of the unemployed.

Any doubt that Rockne would agree to pit his all-star team against a professional aggregation was dispelled when he told the mayor he had volunteered the services of such a team and was ready to have them play any opponent.

Rockne said he expected that his famous "four horsemen" of 1924 would ride again, Stuhldreher, Crowley, Layden and Miller doing their stuff behind as many of the "seven mules" as could be rounded up.

The famous mentor of Notre Dame added that he would come on to New York as soon as possible after the Southern California game on December 6 to coach his all-star array.

Benny Friedman and Chris Cagle are expected to be in the line-up of the opposing Giant Team.

MAJ. GEN. W. R. SMITH.

Midshipmen Propose Alternate Dates of Nov. 29, Dec. 13.

that some sacrifice should be be considered in the interests of "so worthy a cause."

No official decision on the counter offer of Navy to play on either December 6 or 13 was announced at West Point yesterday, but according to an Associated Press dispatch it was said authoritatively that neither of the alternative dates could be accepted.

Possibility of a release of Navy by Penn for the game scheduled for December 6 appears unlikely in view of a statement made yesterday by Lou Young, chairman of the football committee of the Penn Athletic Council, who said: "I am trying to find out what Navy intends to do. It would be difficult for Penn to release Navy from the game, since season tickets, which must be honored, were distributed on the basis of a Navy game. Many tickets have been sold and reservations received and a cancellation would cause much confusion. There was no clause in the Navy game contract wherein the contest would be waived if Navy and Army arranged for a game on that date."

General Smith Acts on Own.

Gen. Smith acted on his own in reopening negotiations with Annapolis yesterday. Secretary of War Hurley had announced at the War Department yesterday that there were no new developments in the service game tangle at almost the moment when the news emanated from West Point that Gen. Smith had offered to schedule the game on December 6.

Overtures for resumption of the game were first renewed last week when Rear Admiral Robison expressed his willingness to forget eligibility differences which had caused the break in relations in 1927 and declared for a game with Army this season in the interests of charity.

This challenge met with the reply by Gen. Smith that Army would consider no post season games due to the possibility of injuries on "frozen fields" and resultant loss of time by players from studies. Heads of the two academies received the unqualified support of their chiefs in the Cabinet in the stands they had taken and hope of the game this season was believed lost early this week when a joint statement by the Secretaries of War and Navy had announced that the two institutions could agree on no mutually satisfactory basis of eligibility for a resumption of relations either this year or in 1931.

Middies Keenly Interested in Negotiations.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—Probability of Army and Navy clashing on the gridiron this year after all, as indicated by renewed overtures between Gen. Smith, superintendent of the Military Academy, and Rear Admiral Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, was the talk of the football campus at the local institution this afternoon.

The naval contingent, as well as local fans generally would like to see the charity game arranged for early December, as had been suggested.

News of the reopening of negotiations spread quickly about the naval reservation and it engrossed keen interest among officers and the regiment of midshipmen.

Text of the Negotiations Between Army-Navy Heads

From Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military Academy, to Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy:

"The newspapers have reported that the Naval Academy is desirous of playing on December 6 a postseason game of football with the Military Academy. No communication to this effect has been received from the Naval Academy. If reports are true, the Military Academy, in view of the increasing distress, will withdraw for this year from its recently published objections to participating in postseason games and will accept the offer of the Naval Academy for the game to be played December 6 at New York City. A later date can not be entertained on account of frozen grounds and interference with semiannual examinations and resultant harm to the academic standing of cadets.

"This game is a special game for charity and has no relation to the canceled contract between the two academies or to the existing athletic situation between them, and it is not to be considered a resumption of that contract. The West Point team will play under its own eligibility rules."

From Admiral Robison to Gen. Smith:

"Replying to your telegram, the Naval Academy will be glad to play the Military Academy a game for charity, but newspaper reports you refer to that we wish to play on December 6 is in error. We play our last scheduled big game on that date with Pennsylvania and with regard to that date are in the same position as is the Military Academy regarding its last big game with Notre Dame on November 29.

"The Naval Academy might arrange to play on November 29, but sees no possibility on December 6. We can, however, play on December 13 at New York or some other city agreeable. We believe that New York can offer assurances of proper protection of the field so that we would not have to play on frozen ground. We therefore suggest that the date be December 13.

"As the game is played for charity, the present status of athletic relations between the two academies will remain unchanged. No question of eligibility rules will be considered.

"I appreciate that the question of examinations is an embarrassing one at both academies as ours are scheduled for December 11, but in consideration of the circumstances I think that some sacrifice is justified."

Cagle Asks Release As Mississippi Coach

Starkville, Miss., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Christian Keener Cagle, former West Point football star, said here today he has asked Mississippi A. & M. College to release him from his coaching contract after Saturday's game with Auburn at Birmingham.

The New York Giants, professional team, announced last night that Cagle had been signed. His first season as a coach has been marked by one victory.

Cagle said his contract with A. & M. binds him to stay until Thanksgiving Day, but he hopes to obtain a release before then in order to play with the Giants against the Green Bay, Wis., Packers on November 23.

President Hugh Critz, of Mississippi A. & M., later today said he had not made up his mind definitely, but was disposed to refuse to release Cagle from his contract until after the Thanksgiving game with the University of Mississippi.

Willie Hoppe to Form New Billiard Federation

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Pursuing his move of independence, Willie Hoppe announced today his plan to form a new organization known as the Federation of Billiard Players, a national, self-governing membership body to guide the destinies and finances of players in this country. Through this medium Hoppe hopes to break the alleged monopoly of the National Billiard Association.

"I have obtained more than sufficient financial backing for a running start here in New York," said Hoppe.

"On December 1, when I begin an exhibition tour that will take me to the Pacific Coast, I will organize the sectional membership groups and be ready for national incorporation by the first of the year."

Hoppe bolted the N. B. A. this week with the announcement that he would defend his 18.1 balk-line title against Welker Cochran next week.

Brundage's Reelection Here By A. A. U Seen

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The reelection of Avery Brundage, of Chicago, as president of the Amateur Athletic Union at the national convention in Washington on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday was forecast in A. A. U. circles today.

No other names have been mentioned in what little preconvention discussion there has been. Several months ago there was some talk of electing a man primarily interested in amateur boxing, but no names have been suggested and the move appears to have died out.

Mr. Brundage, a former track and field athlete, has served as president for two years. Early this year he told associates he did not expect to be a candidate for reelection, but indications now are that he will accept the office if called upon.

Pitt-Nebraska Sign New 2-Year Contract

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Extension of football relations between the University of Nebraska and the University of Pittsburgh was announced today by Athletic Director H. E. Gish.

Under a new two-year contract, Gish said, Pitt will play here in mid-November in 1932, the Huskers going East the following year.

The present contract, expiring in 1931, takes Nebraska to Pittsburgh for a Thanksgiving Day game next year.

College May Hold Cagle To Coaching Contract

Starkville, Miss., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Hugh Critz, president of the Mississippi A. and M., had under consideration tonight the request of Christian Keener Cagle for his release as head football coach after Saturday's game with Auburn.

Cagle today advised the Associated Press that he planned to leave coaching for professional football and expected to leave Starkville early next week. He added that he was "trying to get release settled and arrangements made for my departure with the least amount of friction."

President Critz said that unless he changed his mind he would not release Cagle until after Thanksgiving, as his contract provided. The college president said he hesitated to change coaches before the annual game with the University of Mississippi on Thanksgiving.

Sec. Davis Entertains Moosehart Gridmen

En route to Malden, Mass., where tomorrow they meet the high school eleven of that town, the Moosehart High School Team, of Illinois, stopped off here yesterday on a combined social and business visit.

Upon arrival the Moosehart players visited Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Mrs. Davis at their home, where luncheon was served for the entire party. Mr. Davis founded Moosehart High School in 1916. It is located about 30 miles from Aurora, Ill.

During the afternoon the visitors held a scrimmage with the Georgetown University freshmen in Griffith Stadium.

LAND BOY WINS 3-MILE PIMLICO CHASE BY HEAD

Northwoods Second, Rose Dunstan Third in Long Race.

Joe Marshall Makes Pace for 2 Miles; Society Attends.

By J. B. SNODGRASS,
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 13.—A. F. Goodwyn's veteran hunter, Land Boy, won the third running of the Master of Fox Hounds Steeplechase, featuring the card here today, but he had the closest call he will ever have unless he is defeated. A head separated the champion from the Justa Farm's North Woods, while E. C. Marshall's Rose Dunstan was third.

The distance of 3 miles was covered in 6:05 3-5 on a slippery turf, the fastest time made for this race, but not the track record, which is 6:01 2-5. But Land Boy carried 169 pounds, while Taskdale, in setting the track mark, carried only 145. The renewal of this race brought representatives who follow this branch of the sport from New England, the South and West, while Pennsylvania was best represented of any State outside of Maryland and Virginia. There was a good crowd of the regulars to swell the throng, although the weather was showery and cloudy.

Land Boy, ridden by J. H. V. Davis, went to the front on the second round of the course, which was circled three and one-half times. Joe Marshall led for almost 2 miles. Land Boy had moved up from third to second and in the final round, after taking the lead, was ridden out to win over North Woods, G. H. Bostwick up. Rose Dunstan closed gamely. The winner was favorite at even money.

Rigan McKinney rode his own horse, Golden Gorse, coupled with Horicon, and fell. Mr. McKinney was recuperating from a bad fall suffered last week, but was no more than shaken up in the fall today. He had three horses in the race. Wolf Hill lost his rider, Mr. Forbes. Twelve horses started. Mabro, belonging to the owner of Land Boy, won this race last year.

Uncle Henry Outruns Whitney Juveniles.

The Marlboro purse, for 2-year-olds, was won by H. M. Woolf's Uncle Henry by a short length from C. V. Whitney's Magnifico. The Greentree Stable's Robin's Egg was third, two lengths further back. There was a deal of fluctuating in the betting. Early odds put the Whitney entry at 4 to 5, Halcyon being coupled with Magnifico. Uncle Henry was 5 to 1. The Whitney entry went up to 8 to 5 and Uncle Henry down to 2 to 1 on the approximate board and the price on Robin's Egg also shortened. Robin's Egg broke in front, but was soon outrun by Magnifico and Uncle Henry. The last-mentioned went to the front at the far turn and the finish was the same as at the turn. The winner paid $6.10. They ran the six furlongs in 1:13 4-5.

The Spare Never Headed In Fifth Event.

The Sagamore Stables' The Spare, Renick up, was an easy winner of the Calvert purse, fifth race, leading all the way and making three in a row. Pennant Lass, the favorite, was second, beaten by two lengths. The Justa Farm's Mud got third money, six lengths in front of Peggs' Pride, fourth.

The price on The Spare lengthened in the betting, after opening at 2 to 1 she paid $10.80. The time was 1:13 for 6 furlongs. This was the speed race of the afternoon. The field of seven was off without delay and the position of the horses did not change materially during the race. Pennant Lass failed to flash her usual speed.

Torch, Adams Up, Takes Opener.

A. T. Sanson's Torch scored in the first race, defeating Aurica by two lengths. Fair Folly was third, a head separating her from Aurica. This was another victory for Adams and the ride was perfect. He held his mount off the early pace set by Aurica, Danger Signal and Artie Kay and went to the front in the stretch. The mile and a furlong was run in 1:57. The winner paid $8.80. Soon after the start, Druggist fell with Jockey R. Wolverton and the horse appeared to roll over the rider, but when the field had swept by, the boy got up and walked away.

Bowie Closes Fast To Beat Maybe.

J. Bishop's Bowie, which ran second the first week of the meeting and paid more than $109 for $2, won the second race, with Garner up, by a half length from the favorite, Maybe, but paid no such price today, the return on a $2 mutuel ticket being $21.30. Madder was third, beaten a head for place. This was a mile and a furlong, the time being 1:56 3-5. Maybe and Madder set the pace to the back field, when Bowie challenged. In the home stretch he took the lead under good handling.

—Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 13.—TWENTY GRAND and MATE are at equal weights in the Walden, $10,000 added, at a mile and a sixteenth. Eleven 2-year-olds have been named for the race. TWENTY GRAND showed in the Futurity, run in the mud, that he can go on any kind of track, and at this hour a slow track seems probable, but a change from good to heavy, if more rain should fall, would not impair the chances of any of the candidates, for all can run well over a soft course.

In the Futurity TWENTY GRAND outran MATE and Equipoise came from behind to beat the Greentree colt by a neck. With the C. V. Whitney colt retired, it seems MATE and TWENTY GRAND, running the same distance in the Walden as in the Futurity, would finish in the same order, and that TWENTY GRAND would get the decision. HAPPY SCOT should get third money, but he has never been this route. He ran second to Balko at 6 furlongs and the older horse was extended to catch him.

TAMBOUR is a fast filly, a double stake winner, and while she made a poor showing in the Futurity, her three victories at Havre de Grace and Laurel entitle her to consideration for the show money, and she is lightly weighted with 109 pounds, while the two top colts have 125 each. This should prove as interesting a contest as the Futurity.

FIRST RACE—GAY BIRD is rated best in the race for 2-year-olds. He beat Burgoo easily at Laurel and is the class here. GARLIC in his first race here was second to MYNHEER after beating a good field at Laurel. MINE SWEEPER'S race behind Transformation, being beaten by a nose, should make him a contender with these.

SECOND RACE—Maidens 3 years old and up start in this race. GUN MAN, second all the way to Aziz a few days ago, should lead this field home. TAIL SPIN, third in that race, is rated the contender in this. PETER SIMPLE will like the track and may hold the others safe. In a recent race he was second to The Whip. GUN MAN is by Man O'War and should go the distance of this race easily.

THIRD RACE—The third race, a claiming affair for 2-year-olds, finds the C. V. Whitney colt, RIDE AWAY, in the cheapest field in which he has ever run. His best racing was in the spring, when he beat Fervor, in his second start, and in his first race won over Chicleaf. WEATHERPROOF, which defeated Prince Peter at Belmont Park, is rated the contender. TONEY PRINCESS, victor over Dippy at Empire City, should figure in the race. DUNFERN has a chance, but needs a longer route.

FOURTH RACE—VOLTEAR looks much the best in the fourth race. It is his distance and his kind of track. He was second to Sunvir at this track, but won twice at Laurel. HAT BROOM won his last start—at Pimlico Wednesday—over Adequate in a manner that shows the Whitney colt is to be much improved. He takes off weight, and the race will doubtless be between the two. BERBER has won his last two starts, beating Nicotine in his last, and should be close up in this race.

SIXTH RACE—TOKI is at her best and conditions suit her in the sixth. She beat Gerard in her second race back and this gives her the preference in this, her first start at Pimlico at this meeting. WAVE TOP'S recent races show the daughter of Messenger to be in good condition, and the most probable contender here. FIRST MISSION, on his best races, would be dangerous. He is improving but not at top form.

SEVENTH RACE—RACCOON should win the seventh. He almost beat Escutcheon in the Graded Handicap Wednesday, and that was a fast race. He was second by a nose. He is attempting to concede weight to WOODCRAFT, which may be difficult. But WOODCRAFT has been expecting to show great improvement all fall, but has failed to deliver. His best race was second to BUCKEYE POET and he has not run back to that effort. He should be the contender in this. STORM should hold the others safe. STORM is a good horse at times, but his best race recently was second to RACCOON.

Jimmy Moran Romps In Feature at Latonia

Latonia, Ky., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Showing a liking for the heavy going, Jimmy Moran, 3-year-old colt from C. M. Weaver's stables, easily accounted for the Worthville Purse, the featured number on today's program. Royal Julian, from W. H. Whitehouse's stable, was second, with Star Lassie, from C. C. and G. Y. Hieatt's string, third.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TORCH, $8.80, $4.80, $3.10; AURICA, $10.70, $6.40; FAIR FOLLY, $4.90.

TORCH, at home in the going and following near to the early leaders, reached AURICA with speed speed, assumed an easy lead and held his opposition safe in the final drive. AURICA, rushed to the front, was rated along and held out stubbornly to outstay FAIR FOLLY. Latter worked her way up on the outside to close courageously. DANGER SIGNAL weakened steadily in the final drive. PRINCELY ATTENTION ap-peared to favor the going and was never troublesome. ARTIE KAY quit. DRUGGIST slipped and fell before reaching the first turn.

SECOND RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:45½. Off at 1:46. Winner, J. Bishop's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOWIE, $21.30, $7.80, $4.50; MAYBE, $3.90, $2.90; MADDER, $6.80.

BOWIE, a slow beginner, was placed to severe punishment when settled on the back stretch and, responding willingly, reached the leaders at the far turn, finished fast and secured racing room on the inside, was up in the last twenty yards. MAYBE, sent into command at once, was rated until approaching the home stretch, came out and held on well. MADDER closed gamely. JUDGE CAVERLY was held safe after reaching a forward position. DADDY NELSON closed a big gap. HOMELIKE seemed to take a liking to the going. SOMETIME and WRACKSTER stopped.

THIRD RACE—Three miles. Purse, $2,500. For Hounds Steeplechase. For all ages. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:17. Off at 2:19. Winner, Augustus F. Goodwin's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LAND BOY, $4.00, $4.10, $3.80; NORTH WOODS, $6.10, $4.30; ROSE DUNSTAN, $10.80.

LAND BOY, taking his fences smoothly and handling his weight cleverly, went to the front without effort, resained command at the sixteenth fence and, steadied along thereafter, finished with rare courage to outstay NORTH WOODS. Latter, well handled and kept in reserve for two miles, reached the winner at the final fence and fought it out in determined fashion. ROSE DUNSTAN moved up with a rush the last turn of the field, took command at the fifteenth fence, but could not stay with the leaders thereafter. JOE MARSHALL offered keen contention for two miles, then weakened. OUR WAY was unable to improve his position at any stage. The others were beaten. Eased through the final stages when unable to threaten the leaders. MYRTHUS fell at the seventeenth fence. WOLF HILL broke down and bolted at the fifth. GOLDEN GORSE fell at the fourth.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Marlboro. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:53. Off at 2:54. Winner, H. M. Woolf's ch. c. (2), by St. Henry—Sudina. Trained by C. Irby. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:13 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UNCLE HENRY, $6.10, $2.90, $2.20; MAGNIFICO, $2.30, $2.10; ROBIN'S EGG, $2.20.

UNCLE HENRY, going in good form, raced HALCYON into defeat in the first three furlongs, withstood keen contention from MAGNIFICO and outstayed the latter in the final drive. MAGNIFICO, well placed from the start, furnished keen contention when HALCYON was done. ROBIN'S EGG, allowed to settle in her stride, moved up fast approaching the home stretch, lost some ground and was held safe. HALCYON was hard ridden all the way. The others were unable to threaten at any stage.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. The Calvert. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:23. Off at 3:25. Winner, Sagamore Stable's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE SPARE, $10.80, $4.70, $2.90; PENNANT LASS, $3.10, $2.50; MUD, $3.20.

THE SPARE outbroke her field, displayed keen speed over the footing, drew clear at the far turn and had enough in reserve to stall off PENNANT LASS. Latter, in hand for the first half mile, reached the winner a furlong from the finish, but was not good enough thereafter. MUD, sent into a forward position, was best of the others. PEGG'S PRIDE was held perfectly safe. COLOSSAL was never a factor. HOLD met with interference at the half-mile pole.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500. Madison Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:51. Off at 3:55½. Winner, California Stable's ch. g. (4), by Tim McGee—Maggie Isham. Trained by J. F. Richardson. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:24, 0:49 1-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:42, 1:56 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILLIE LEONARD, $26.50, $9.40, $5.10; ESSARE, $6.60, $4.60; RUANE, $3.70.

BILLIE LEONARD, rated off the fast early pace, reached the front when sounding the far turn, saved ground and held ESSARE safe. Latter made excessive use of being tiptoed to the first turn and then ridden hard, held on well in the final drive. He would likely have been winner with a more intelligent ride. RUANE, a trailer early, finished with good speed. FRUMPER could not keep pace. PAULA L. was outrun. SIGN OFF was badly ridden when he was rushed to the first turn at top speed and then shuffled back.

SEVENTH RACE—One and three-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:28½. Winner, H. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK CLOUD, $13.00, $6.10, $2.90; CAPTAIN HOOK, $4.00, $2.70; SPANISH, $2.30.

BLACK CLOUD, going in his best form, was allowed to remain in reserve for the first mile, came with splendid courage to displace BROWN SINNER and, continuing stoutly, just lasted to stall off CAPTAIN HOOK. Latter followed BROWN SINNER closely and came again in the final stages to just fail to be winner. SPANISH, given a breathing spell at the far turn, closed in good fashion. BROWN SINNER weakened when the real test came. NAYLOR was badly outrun.

BOYS FORGET FOOTBALL IS GAME

riding masters at the horse-back schools or golf instructors at the suburban clubs, would have no voice in the matter. The players are the only people really concerned, and if the two captains had got together in the spirit of the game, as it has always been represented in song and story, they should have been able to adjust the question as gracefully as two dub golfers might agree on the matter of whether or not one should charge himself with a stroke because his ball had rolled off the peg while he was taking his stance. In football, however, the tiniest questions become war-like controversies, and the first thing anybody knows a lot of old football stars, who have been cadging some extra income off the game for years when they ought to have been attending to work, are writing articles for the papers accusing other schools of the most revolting wrongs.

So, in the case out West, Coach A denounced Coach B as a mucker, and the two teams, deriving their sporting morale from their coaches, got sore, too. And a football game that might have been discoursed in a manner of pleasure and healthful relaxation became a formulated feud between two crowds of students, both alike, both drawn from the same general locality and both nominally committed to the principle of sport for the sake of the game.

I was downright bigoted on the proposal to produce some big games for the benefit of the unemployed, but there is this to be said for bigotry, that it isn't easily argued away with reasonable excuses, of which the colleges offered many.

Evils of Service Game Would Be Balanced by Good Done.

Broad-minded people never can be sure of their convictions and a broad-minded person, listening to Maj. Gen. Smith, of the Military Academy, would have been persuaded that the Army would not play the Navy this year, even for charity, without the most disastrous results. Being bigoted, I still insist that if President Hoover were to order the teams to play the teams would play, that 5,000 families could be helped over the cruelest part of the winter, and that the worst possible effect of such a sacrifice upon the West Point cadets would be counterbalanced by the good to be done. Four years ago Gen. Smith's predecessor, Gen. Stewart, was just as ready with insuperable reasons why the Army could not go to Chicago for the last of the Navy games, but the Army went, the game was played and the disaster to the military service is not perceptible yet, although the benefits are.

In New York one coach, shown an opportunity to twit another coach whom he had previously accused of preempting his system, sanctioned an informal challenge to the other coach to a post-season game between their undefeated teams for a national championship. The next day the pressure on Coach A was so severe that he withdrew and repudiated the challenge, after the manner of some senators and Presidents, but how dare these hired instructors arrogate unto themselves the privileges of great statesmen? Senators and Presidents, yes; but not yet are these football instructors risen to the prerogatives of the best minds of the nation. Or are they?

The president of Purdue says football is going down the hill now. A nimble promotor, with the delicacy of a ghoul, belatedly copyrights a dead man's idea to select the best composite team in the country, and several of the most prominent molders of character in the coaching racket readily implicate themselves in the plan for such money as it will yield them.

Yale News Editor Has Calm And Reasonable Ideas.

The Penn alumni denounce the coaches for exploiting their farm, and William T. Tilden is discovered among the protestants, blandly calling the kettle black. It all gets nowhere and things don't seem to fit. But the young editor of the Yale News, whoever he may chance to be this year, seems to have the calmest and the most reasonable ideas on the subject of the football frenzy and perhaps Yale will be the first to reduce the game to sane, cordial, amateurish sportsmanship. Being a pro myself in the sport business in the sense that I am a sports writer and certainly am no more amateur about it than I must be, I am unable to see the forest for the trees, and neither are the coaches, nor the players. But the young, nonvarsity students are beginning to be heard from, and when football is debunked, they will debunk it.

SIXTH—One and one

LEADERS CLASH SUNDAY IN CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE

Mercury and Brookland in Feature

Play-Off for Title in Unlimited Race Held Likely.

"Stop Centennials" Is Chant in 150-Pound Class Elevens.

PROSPECTS that the closeness of the fight for first place in the unlimited section of The Post's Capital City Football League will necessitate a play-off between at least two and perhaps three teams appears particularly bright at this writing.

With but two more rounds to be played, the hottest campaign in years finds the Mercurys, Seat Pleasants and Brooklands deadlocked at present for the top berth in the division and battling it out to see which shall remain in undisputed possession of the initial position.

The second place Marions are right on the heels of the league leaders and have more than an outside chance to be the first under the wire should the other three clubs falter in the home stretch. St. Stephen's, Quentins and the Alpha Delts Omegas are just about out of championship consideration.

Leaders to Clash in Remaining Games.

A glance at the schedule shows the last two rounds of league play on November 16 and 23 will bring together the four teams who are in the running for the class title. Sunday's games finds the Mercurys meeting the Brooklands on the Silver Spring Field and the Marions engaging the Seat Pleasants at Boyer Stadium, Seat Pleasant. The following Sunday the Marions will take on the Mercurys and the Seat Pleasants will stack up against the Brooklands in the last games on the regular schedule which have direct bearing on the section championships.

The first of these all-important "crucial" rounds was played last week when the Seat Pleasants and Mercurys battled each other to a 0-0 draw and the Marions and Brooklands also fighting an even-Stephen affair, with both sides going scoreless. So important are the remaining contests between the league leaders that even a single defeat practically will mean the end of the title hopes of the team suffering the reverse.

Centennials Riding On Top.

The situation ni the 150-pound section finds the Centennials riding on the crest, with Palace-D. G. S., Columbia and the Brentwood Hawks in a triple tie for the runner-up berth. The Cents, however, hav eplayed one more game than each of their three closest rivals.

The Marfeldts, Northern Preps and Brentwood Hawks still remain on the Centennials' card to bar their way to the championship. Should they cop only two of these last three battles, the Cents will be assured of at least a tie for first place in the final standings.

The Columbias and Northern Preps will engage in the feature contest of the lighter circuit next Sunday on the Seat Pleasant field. Closely pressing this clash ni point of interest and bearin gon the league standings is the battle between the Petworth Pennants and Brentwood Hawks, listed for the Silver Spring field, and the Palace-D. G. S.-Del Ray engagement, carded for the Gonzaga gridiron.

S. Carolina Back Field Shaken Up by Laval

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Unsatisfied with the showing of his so-called regular back field, Bill Laval today continued to experiment with his machine as he prepared the South Carolina Gamecocks for the game with Sewanee here Saturday.

Declaring he had no idea who would start in the back field, Laval said Wylie, Wannamaker, Ayers, Reynolds and King, of his reserves, had been going good, and any of them might be found in the starting line-up.

The Gamecock mentor said he was satisfied, however, with the calling of signals by Monk Shand from his regular tackle position, since the elimination of his back field ace, Bru Boineau, as the result of a dislocated shoulder suffered in the Furman game.

Greek, Italian Pin Teams Meet Saturday

The Ahepa All-Greek Stars have accepted the sweeping challenge of the Italian All-Stars for a bowling match to be staged next Saturday night on the Coliseum drives. The match will be the first of a home and home series of ten games, total pins to count.

The All-Greek Team will be selected from the following pinmen: Nick Chaconas, Louis Pantos, Gus Placos, Louis Chipouris, Charles Poulos, Gus Prompros, George Mantzouris, George Bracopoulos and Pete Metralsos. The Italian maple-crashers' squad includes Ollie Pacini, Joe Prisci, Tony Santini, Joe Preschi, Johnny Nicro, Louie Preschi, Mike Vitale, Gino Simi and Mike Rinaldi.

Ben McAlwee's Juniors, Mag Wood's Old Timers, the Jewish, German, Irish and Scandinavian bowling teams also are challenged by the Italians.

Ryerson Seeks Third Leg on "Champ's" Cup

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 13.—Another Eastern menace to the ambitions of Western and Southern contestants in the fourth annual national amateur championship of golf club champions, to be played February 3 to 7, over St. Augustine links, has appeared in the latest entries. He is Jack B. Ryerson, of the Cooperstown Country Club at Cooperstown, N. Y., outstanding amateur and one of the preeminent performers in the major winter events of the South.

Ryerson has won the championship of his club for the second consecutive year, and he is expected to arrive here at the top of his form for competition in the big winter amateur classic for the Walter J. Travis Memorial Trophy. His ambition to give the North another leg on the cup will doubtless be aided by Howard A. Tryon, of Elmira, N. Y., last season's winner, and opposed by Carl Dann, jr., of Rollins College, and Robert Wingate, of Jacksonville, respectively 1929 and 1928 winners of the national club championship. As winner of the 1927 and 1930 Florida winter championship here, Ryerson has two legs on the Ponce de Leon Cup.

YOU probably thought the three-foot female fish pictured yesterday, which carried her four-inch mate about as an accessory, was a fish story. It is. But it's true. And another thing—this freak has its own "fishing rod." Equipped with a light, too. This consists of an elongated, thread-like fin tipped on the end by a small light, which is followed by smaller fish and leads right into the angler's mouth. Some practical chandelier, I'd say. This fish was caught off Iceland far below the surface of the sea.

Here is a question that most people can't answer. How was the exact geographical center of the United States, which is marked by the Ogden Monument, on the Military Reservation at Fort Riley, Kans., ascertained? The hub of the United States was determined by mounting a map on a piece of cardboard cut to fit the exact outline. The point at which this figure balanced on a pin point, if left free to move, indicated the exact geographical center.

Tomorrow your questions of today's pictures will be explained.

V. P. I. TAKES EXTRA DRILL FOR MD.

Tech Will Practice Tomorrow at Home; Team Hopeful.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 13.—V. P. I.'s eleven will put in an extra day of practice at home this week before it boards the Cadet Special to clash with University of Maryland at Norfolk.

In past years the Techmen have started their long trek to the Tidewater City Thursday night, stopping over in Lynchburg that night and reaching Norfolk in time for a brief Friday workout there. But Capt. Bird Hooper will bark signals until dark on the home field this week on the eve of an overnight jaunt to the scene of battle. The coaches are calling for precious extra minutes to prepare for the College Park tornado, which already has bowled over three of Virginia's four Southern Conference entries.

Polytech Aims to Stop Maryland Drive.

Tech alone stands between the Old Liners and a clean sweep through Virginia's so-called "Big Four." The Gobblers will be fighting primarily to uphold their own prestige and to make the corps' trip to Norfolk a complete success, but in the background is the vision of a dramatic last defense against a clean Maryland sweep at the expenses of Virginia football.

Many cadets from the Tidewater section will return home for the Gobbler-Old Line tilt. Scores of cadets prominent in the corps of cadets in other branches of student activities as well as athletics are enrolled at V. P. I. this year. The football squad of 40 men lists 17 members from the Tidewater section. It is probable that seven of the eleven men in V. P. I.'s starting line-up will be from the vicinity of Hampton Roads. Most of these will be battling on ground which knew their cleats back in high school days.

Captain Hooper At Quarter.

Capt. Bird Hooper, Newport News, will be at quarter back; Phil Spear, Portsmouth, at half back, and Mit Owens, Portsmouth, in the other halfback post. Three, perhaps four, linemen are slated to be on deck for the first salvo at the Old Line craft. Harry Stark, Portsmouth, will be at left tackle; Red Jones, Gloucester Courthouse, at left guard; Gene Brown, Portsmouth, center, and Earl Dyke, Newport News, may start at right guard. Among players slated for utility roles are Benny Palmer, Buck Miles, and Buck Chandler, ends, and Bunt Ottley, George Cubberly and Charlie Morgan, half backs.

Ten 1931 Grid Games Scheduled by Brown

Providence, R. I., Nov. 13.—Brown will play ten varsity football games in 1931, seven of which will be played in this city, according to an announcement of the schedule by Dr. Frederick W. Marvel, last night.

The schedule opens with Colby on September 26 and closes with Colgate on November 26, and lists games with Rhode Island, Princeton, Tufts, Columbia, Holy Cross, Lehigh, Ohio Wesleyan and New Hampshire. In addition to Colby and Colgate, Ohio Wesleyan is a newcomer to the list, while all of the others have appeared in recent years, seven of the lot being on this season's schedule. Yale and Syracuse are major teams who appeared on this season's schedule, who will not be met next season.

September 26, Colby, at Providence.
October 3, Rhode Island, at Providence; 10, Princeton, at Princeton; 17, Tufts, at Providence; 24, Lehigh, at Providence; 31, Holy Cross, at Worcester.
November 7, Ohio Wesleyan, at Providence; 14, Columbia, at New York; 21, New Hampshire, at Providence; 26, Colgate, at Providence.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 13.—The football champions of the Third District will not be decided until after Washington and Lee High School, of Ballston, and Alexandria High School Teams have played the eleven carrying the colors of Culpeper High School, the board of principals decided at the meeting held in Warrenton yesterday.

Washington and Lee, Alexandria and Fredericksburg, are deadlocked for first place. The latter school has played Culpeper and won, 6—0, while Washington and Lee tackles Culpeper on Friday and Alexandria meets the same team on November 21. If the Culpeper boys defeat both Alexandria and Washington and Lee, they will be tied for top honors with Fredericksburg, while if either of the two schools drop a game they will be eliminated. Then there is a possibility of a double tie, with Fredericksburg and Culpeper meeting in the play-off. If the district play ends up with three teams vieing for the highest honors, the championship will be awarded on the percentage basis. The reason given by the board for not allowing a play-off of three teams is that the State series begins on November 29 and time to settle the title would be too short.

Henry T. Moncure, principal of the Alexandria High School, was reelected as chairman of the board. This is his second term. Chairman Moncure announced the next meeting of the District officials would be in Alexandria on November 20 at the George Mason Hotel.

The Alexandria High School Football Team is without a game for tomorrow. Coach Maurice Given is seeking an opponent with some Washington High School.

Director Corbett, of the St. Mary's Celtics, announced today buses would convey the Virginia fans to the game with the Irvingtons in Baltimore next Sunday. This is the annual clash between the two clubs.

The Del Ray Athletic Club will trek to Gonzaga Field in Washington Sunday for their engagement with the Palace A. C. in the Capital City League. The Alexandrians will hold a drill tonight on Edward Duncan Field to make ready for the tussle.

Ralph Scrivener has been elected as manager of the Alpha Delta Omega Fraternity Basket Ball Team for the 1930-1931 season.

The new leader of the frater team stated he had completed terms for his opening game which will be played in the Armory Hall in Alexandria on December 6. Scrivener has also listed games with Technical High and Emerson Institute teams, of Washington.

Some of the players with the fraters are Pete Williams, Brick Sis, Casey Dennis, Dave Bayliss, of the Alexandria High quint, and Bottles West, late of Emerson.

An important meeting of the club will be held Friday night at Scrivener's residence, 1012 Prince street. All members of the team and any new candidates are asked to be present.

On Sunday the Iroquois Athletic Club Football Team and the Engine Company No. 5 eleven will clash in their annual game on Haydon's Field. This contest is for the 150-pound title of Alexandria. It is expected to attract a big turnout.

STUHLDREHER IS DAD.

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Stuhldreher, one of the famous "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame," is the proud father of a son, Harry, jr., arrived today at the Germantown Hospital, in this city.

"He'll be a quarter back," was the comment of the former football star.

MD. FINISHES HARD WORK FOR V. P. I.

Byrd to Start Regulars at Norfolk; Last Drill Today.

AN EXTENSIVE signal drill for the regulars and much rougher work for the 24 players in the reserve squad yesterday completed actual preparation the University of Maryland will make for the game with Virginia Poly in Norfolk tomorrow.

The Old Liners will take a tuning-up drill of short duration this afternoon and get final instructions on various points of offense and defense to use against the Gobblers before the Maryland party starts for Norfolk tonight. Byrd intends to take his entire squad of 36 men to Norfolk and all are in trim for action except Buck Miller, half back, and he might be available in a pinch. He was hurt in the Washington and Lee game.

Evans or Poppelman At Full Back.

The Maryland team will be accompanied by the 51-piece Old Line band and a delegation of the College Park students.

Duke, Carolina State Will Clash Tomorrow

Durham, N. C., Nov. 13.—With six straight outstanding victories to their credit, but still able to fight off the overconfidence that accompanies winning habits, Duke's Blue Devils are taking the game with State's Wolfpack at Raleigh Saturday just as seriously as they took the Kentucky, Navy or Villanova tilts.

The members of the Duke team realize that they played a great game against Kentucky in downing the powerful Wildcats, but they have just marked that page for further references and turned to the next one, the page with N. C. State and a question mark on it.

Fans contend that State placed their feet on firm ground when they held Catrolina to a 13-to-6 score at Chapel Hill last week. Others say that Carolina lacked the scoring punch. The Duke coaches are taking the former theory as the correct one and are working to that end.

Duke and State usually play close games and there are no indications that the contest this year will not be a close one. State has a powerful line, and so have the Devils. Duke will have it on State when the back fields are considered. The Wolfpack backs can not match the superb brilliance of Murray and Brewer, Devil halfs.

Rentner, Northwestern Ace, Is Out for Season

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—"Pug" Rentner, star full back and passer on Northwestern's football team, will not play again this season, Coach Dick Hanley said today.

Rentner, spark plug in Northwestern's famous passing combination, injured his arm in the Minnesota game and it has not responded to treatment.

CELLAR GOES TO SERIES LOSER

Western Is Favored to Beat Business in Fray Today.

FACED with the fact that the loser goes into the cellar of the high school series, not to come up this year, Western and Business meet today at Central Stadium at 3:45 in their last engagement of the series.

Western still looms as a favorite to down Business today despite the fact that the Georgetowners will start today's game weakened in three major spots. Tom Webb is ailing with a bad leg and probably will not be in the opening line-up. If necessary his place will be taken by Bill Fletcher, Coach Ahern's all-around football player, who has seen service in most of the positions on the team this year. His last appearance was at a tackle post.

Dodson to Start At Center.

Another change in Western will be the substitution of Dodson for Pimper, regular center. Pimper received a shoulder injury in the Tech game on October 21, but has been playing since. Everett Buscher, big Western end, is also on the injured list, but that will not deter his appearance today.

Injuries and all, Western looks like the winner today.

Business has lost Bert Kallinsky, because of injuries, which further weakens the Stenographers' line. Coach Woodworth's boys are keen about registering their first win of the season, but it is not seen how that might come about.

MANHATTAN CHOICE OVER C. U. TEAM

Cardinals Not to Risk Regulars in N. Y. Tomorrow.

HOPING for victory, but resolved to save something for their big local tussle with George Washington next week, the Catholic University Cardinals today depart for New York City, where tomorrow they engage Manhattan College, coached by Johnny Law, former Notre Dame captain.

In the Jaspars, the Cardinals will oppose a team much like themselves, as both have been absorbing a new system of football this season and consequently have had their ups and downs. Manhattan, however, is rated a slight favorite.

The George Washington game next Friday night in Griffith Stadium is Catholic's main objective, so no sacrifice will be made to win from Manhattan if the opposition proves more than equal. It is likely that Coach Dutch Bergman will make free use of his substitutes should the Jaspars run up a sizable score early in the game.

Bergman Saving Men For G. W. Clash.

Catholic manpower is below par and Bergman has been doing everything possible to save his available strength for the George Washington game. If the Cardinals win that game they will consider their season a success in spite of having lost their first six starts.

A short practice this morning will top off the Brooklanders' training for the Manhattan fray.

Following is the line-up Bergman expects to place on the field tomorrow:

Fraatz and Lyons, ends; Mullen and Achstetter, tackles; Monaco and Menke, guards; Ambrose, center; Biasi, quarter back; Oliver and DeMello, half backs and Sheary, full back.

Baltimore Joins Move To End Purse Netting

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 13.—An announcement that the Baltimore Association of Commerce would go before the State Legislature at its next session to urge abolition of the use of purse and buck nets in Maryland waters was made at tonight's annual banquet of the Baltimore Chapter, No. 2, Izaak Walton League of America.

Speakers on the program included Dr. M. D'Arcy Magee, of Washington, president of the D. C.-Maryland regional council of the league; Lewis Radcliffe, of Washington, deputy fish commissioner; Glen Leach, chief of the division of fish culture; E. Lee Compte, Maryland State game warden, and Swepson Earle, Maryland conservation commissioner.

Officers elected by the chapter were John D. Steele, president; A. B. Gardner and W. P. Chew, vice presidents; A. H. Grape, treasurer, and F. W. Pettit, secretary.

President Steele, commenting on the proposed action to ban purse and buck nets, said such a step would meet with approval of hundreds of fishermen in the District of Columbia as well as in Maryland.

Oglethorpe Tackles Villanova on Saturday

Special to The Washington Post.

Oglethorpe University, Ga., Nov. 13. The much-traveled Oglethorpe University Football Team is making intensive and thorough preparations for its fourth, last, and perhaps hardest intersectional game of the season against Villanova at Philadelphia Saturday. The Stormy Petrels were held to a heart-rending scoreless tie by Wittenberg at Springfield, Ohio, last Saturday, after three separate and distinct goalward drives that took the Southerners within the 10-yard line, each time to be repulsed by an inspired Lutheran eleven battling for all the glory and tradition of a homecoming day.

For the first time this season the Petrels had the infinite pleasure of going through a game without losing a player from injury. And to add to their joy and happiness, there is the return to physical fitness of Ray (Dixie) Walker for the formidable Villanova encounter. Oglethorpe followers are hoping for a quick recovery for Dapper Meyers, hard-driving full back, but it is doubtful that he will get to play Saturday.

Walker was the outstanding Oglethorpe back field performer in the Georgia, Manhattan and Dayton games. In the latter game he scored the winning touchdown, but was carried from the field late in the first quarter when he sustained a dislocated elbow. Because of this injury he was missed three games, but is now ready for Villanova. And there is no question that he will be needed.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

IT is no trouble to get into a football argument in the Far West if one can shout loud enough to be heard above the roar of the crowd.

A small group in a club car of a transcontinental train was talking football. An Oregonian was in the party. His color began to mount and he stirred in his seat as crack half backs in the East and Middle West were mentioned. Finally he took the floor by main force and faifly yelled:

"What about Johnny Kitzmiller?"

There was no opposition to the big man's telling some of the things the Oregon half back can do. For three years he has been the leading back field threat of the Webfeet and it seems that his nickname, "the Flying Dutchman" has been well earned.

After the Oregonian finished his enthusiastic speech it was agreed all around that there is nothing the matter with Kitzmiller and never has been except for a time last year when he was out of the game with a broken ankle.

MEN in close touch with AA baseball in the Far West say that the Pacific Coast League schedule will not run beyond the world's series in 1931.

The big baseball man of the West has always been the first to start his season's work and the last to finish it, and he may still do that and cut many games from his long schedule. In 1930 the last few days of the season sent some of the club owners "into the red."

There will be some night baseball played in the league next season, but the motion will be by no means unanimous. Some of the clubs will stick to the day game for a majority of their contests.

DURING the year 1927, Gene Tunney earned $1,157,465.79, and in 1928 he collected considerably more than half a million dollars. It will be passing strange if another boxer realizes as much from his flying fists over the same period.

There is no "natural" on the horizon and the customers of late seem to have grown educated. They will no longer assemble at what is humorously called the "ringside" unless there is some reason for their presence in the vicinity.

There is still the breath of life in the old dog, but there must be an element of contest and something more at stake than a nebulous promise of the winner some time meeting some one for the so-called championship.

"Young" Stribling, not so young as he was, but young enough, seems to carry the hope of the sick game and if the Georgian continues to pack a knockout punch he will be as popular in the ring as he once was unpopular.

William Lawrence has never been so bad as he was painted, and probably was more sinned against than sinning in some cases.

THE University of Chicago Baseball Team has returned home after a trip through Japan which resulted in an even break after the Maroon was off to a bad start with five defeats in the first five games.

Neils Norgren, the Chicago coach, brought word of Japan's tremendous interest in baseball.

"There has been an astonishing development of the game in Japan since I was there with a Chicago team five years ago," Coach Norgren told a Chicago Tribune writer.

"Almost every youngster seems to be playing now and the college teams attract crowds of 70,000. They have their high school baseball organized like some of our States have basket ball, and there is a series of games on a national scale with the final round between the surviving sixteen teams.

"The colleges have three or four complete teams, one of which is just about as good as the other. These teams play the year around, and have two big series, one in the late summer and one in the spring, that are the country's greatest sporting events.

"THE Japanese seem to be going through the growing pains that characterized our American intercollegiate athletics. They have built up their athletics so fast that they are now having to consider questions of eligibility and recruiting similar to those that troubled American universities before standards were adopted.

"They have good coaching and they work hard, most teams practicing five hours a day with unbroken effort. The day we landed we found Waseda practicing. They had twelve batteries, each with a mound and a plate, and these twelve pitchers zipped the ball in for two solid hours.

"Their pitchers have fine control, although they lack the speed of American pitchers, but they are getting that also.

"Mechanically they are finely developed, especially in their fielding. They are after the ball with the crack of the bat and they throw well. The college players are taught not to hit at a ball that is not good and control by pitchers is essential.

"The umpires are first rate and make few mistakes. In Japan they do not call a pitch a strike unless it is above the knees and below the letters on the chest and they do not give much margin on the corners. Until we found that pitches would not go as strikes unless they were below the letters we were rather puzzled.

"Improved play by the Japanese teams has made the going hard for visiting aggregations from the United States."

CHICAGO baseball fans are divided in their opinion of the baseball fortune awaiting the Cubs, but most of the fight fans agree that William L. Stribling is the best heavyweight boxer in the game. "Strib" fought one of his best fights in Chicago.

ON EASTERN GRIDIRONS

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A short workout today wound up Dartmouth's home preparations for the meeting with Cornell, and the Green squad of 38 men left Hanover for Freeville, N. Y., a short distance from Ithaca. Eddie Toothaker's injured knee probably will keep him out of the game.

Holy Cross to Use 8 Veterans.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Eight of the eleven Holy Cross players who faced Harvard a year ago will start against the Crimson on Saturday, Coach John J. McEwen announced today. A long workout on defense and offense wound up the Purple's intensive preparations today.

Penn Hard Put for Backs.

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—With most of his first-string back field definitely out of the Georgia Tech game, Coach Lud Wray confined Penn's workout today to fundamentals. In addition to Gentle, Gette, and Ford, neither Masters nor Rafel may be in shape to start against the Southerners.

Hewitt Unable to Play For Columbia.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Columbia's hopes of stopping Brown took a sharp drop today with the announcement that Ralph Hewitt will not be able to play. Sheridan probably will take Hewitt's place at quarter back and Hodupp is expected to fill in at left half in place of Manuel Rivero, who is nursing a badly injured thumb.

Princeton Starts Hawson Against Yale.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Although he has not taken part in any practice sessions this week, Jay Howson, star Princeton punter, will be in shape to start against Yale, it was announced today. The Tigers had a light workout today, remaining on the field only an hour. The starting Tiger back field probably will consist of Howson, Trix Bennett, Jack James, and Bob McIver.

Army Speeds Drills for 3 Teams.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Full-speed scrimmage was the order today at Army's football practice for the game with Kentucky Wesleyan. Three teams participated in the workout. Considerable time was devoted to punting, with Stecker, Fields, Glattly, Letzelter and Elliott doing the booting.

Fordham Stresses Passes For St. Mary's.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—With emphasis laid on forward passing, Fordham went through a light but speedy drill today in preparation for its intersectional clash with the strong St. Mary Team from California. The Far Westerners arrived today and limbered up at the Westchester Country Club.

Harvard's Best Ready For Holy Cross.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Expecting the hardest kind of going against Holy Cross, Arnold Horween announced Harvard's starting line-up would be the strongest he could assemble. The back field will have Wood at quarter, Mays and Huguley at the halves and White at full back. Fundamentals and a dummy scrimmage comprised today's workout.

McLennan at Quarter For Yale.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The question of whether McLennan or Booth would start at quarter back for Yale at Princeton was definitely settled today when Coach Mal Stevens announced after a two-hour workout that McLennan would get the call. The Blue squad leaves tomorrow morning for Princeton.

Irish Drill Prepares Pitt Squad.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A brisk drill was the program for the Pitt Panthers today. A brief morning workout will be held tomorrow before the squad leaves for Columbus for the intersectional game with Ohio State.

Close Games Feature G. P. O. League Opening

The Government Printing Office League opened last night at Central High Gymnasium with close scores marking the sendoff.

In the first tilt of the evening Documents defeated Job Room by a score of 24 to 22. Lassiss, left forward for Documents, led his team to victory, scoring four field goals.

In the second game of the evening Monotype nosed out the Hand Press five 20 to 19, despite the efforts of Miller, left forward for Hand Press, who contributed 13 points.

VA. GRIDMEN DRILL IN SECRET

Return of DeButts, Kimball Bolsters Team.

Special to The Washington Post.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Nov. 13.—Virginia's line should be strengthened for the Washington and Lee game here Saturday by the return of two veteran linemen, Bill DeButts, guard, and Bob Kimball, tackle. Both these "V" men have been out with injuries for several weeks.

DeButts, who was cracked up in the Maryland contest, has been rejoining Team A in scrimmages and is almost certain to start against the Generals. Kimball's place with the varsity is not so sure. He was hurt playing V. M. I. His injury has been slow to improve and though he is back in uniform, he may not be ready for rough work this week-end.

DeButts Started Career At Charlottesville.

DeButts is almost a home town boy. He lives at Barboursville, only a few miles from the university. His gridiron training was received at Charlottesville High School, where he played on a State championship eleven.

Kimball's home is in Ipswich, Mass. He gained prep school experience up at Andover Academy. He did not play on the Cavalier first-year eleven but made his way into the varsity last fall.

DeButts weighs 188 pounds, stands 5 feet 10 inches, and is 22 years old. Kimball's weight is 195 pounds and his height is 6 feet 2 inches. He is also 22 years old.

If both these men are able to get back in action by Saturday the forward wall will be considerably reenforced. The center of the line showed little holding power in the second half against V. P. I., and it may be that the addition of this pair of veterans will be just what is needed to check W. and L.

Cavaliers Working Out In Secret.

Behind closed gates the Cavaliers have been serving long hours in preparation for the coming of the Generals. Practice has been kept more secret than ever and little or nothing is leaking out as to how Coach Abell is developing the varsity.

Virginia's first-year team can enjoy a rest this week. The young Cavaliers do not get into action again until November 22, when they go down to Chapel Hill to play the final game on their schedule against the University of North Carolina. Last year the Cavaliers defeated the Tarheel freshmen.

St. John's Eleven Plays Yale on 1931 Schedule

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—St. John's College gridders will meet Yale University in New Haven on November 7, 1931, it was announced by M. Talbot Riggs, director of athletics at St. John's.

The game will be the first between the two teams in football, but in 1928 and 1929 the St. John's lacrosse teams included Yale among its victims in the march to undisputed national championships.

The St. John's eleven this afternoon concluded hard practice for its most important game of the season, the nocturnal engagement in Baltimore with Johns Hopkins tomorrow evening.

The Johnnies, boasting a powerful team, expect victory by a substantial margin.

The final drill was on the defense against Hopkins' aerials which Carl MacCartee, former Washington high school player now freshman quarter back at St. John's, hurled against the varsity. His brother Bob MacCartee, one of the Johnnie aces, intercepted a number of the heaves.

Martinsburg Stages Fete for Hack Wilson

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Several thousand persons, practically all fellow citizens of Hack Wilson, Martinsburg's most distinguished citizen, jammed the public square here tonight to honor the National League's all-time home run king.

A parade over the principal streets of the city preceded the celebration in the square. At the latter place the Cubs' star was extolled by J. Vincent Jamison, jr., president of the Blue Ridge League; Lewis H. Thompson, who was president of the Martinsburg Club when Wilson started his professional career; Mayor Chris H. Dailey, who welcomed the athlete back home; Dr. A. B. Eagle, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and other prominent citizens. President Jamison presented Wilson, on behalf of the people of Martinsburg, a handsome silver loving cup, suitably engraved.

Mattox Likely to Play In Wash. and Lee Game

Lexington, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Monk Mattox, back field ace of Washington and Lee, is expected to be in the line-up to lead the Generals against Virginia at Charlottesville Saturday.

Mattox, injured in the Kentucky game and again against Virginia Poly, did not make the Maryland trip last week and has been held out of practice. Coach Gene Oberst has been trying to find a back field combination that will click and has given his agents stiff workouts in preparation for the game. The reserves are using Virginia plays.

Episcopal's "Lights" Win by 21-0 Margin

Episcopal High School's 135-pound eleven yesterday displayed a fine passing attack to defeat the "B" team of Washington-Lee High School by a 21-0 score on Horton Field. After being held scoreless in the first period, the lightweights counted a touchdown in each of the next two quarters on passes and added a third in the final. Swift, Flahburne and Woodruff were outstanding for the winners.

Tigers Play Michigan Again After 50 Years

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—After an elapse of 50 years, Princeton and Michigan will meet on the gridiron in 1931, according to next year's University of Michigan football schedule announced tonight. The Tigers and Wolverines have met only once, in 1881.

Princeton will replace Harvard as Michigan's only Eastern opponent. During six years of competition with Eastern teams Michigan has won four games, lost one and tied one. Navy administered the only defeat, losing two and getting a tie in four games. Harvard was defeated twice.

STOCKS' RECOVERY ENTERS THIRD DAY

Net Advances Again Range From 1 to 5 Points; Grains Rise.

BROKER LOANS DECLINE

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—This was anniversary day in Wall street and the stock market celebrated by extending its advance. Bonds and grains also rallied.

On November 13, 1929, share prices made their "panic lows" in three hours of trading. It so happens that today's highs, on the average, were considerably under those minimums of 1929, but there was some consolation for injured pocketbooks in the fact that the market had rallied in three successive sessions, an accomplishment not duplicated since the middle of August.

The net gains today ranged from 1 to 5 points, which was the extent of yesterday's move in active shares. However, the average improvement of 3.6 points was larger, increasing the week's advance to 8.4 points. The composite closing price of 90 shares was 131.8, compared with 140.2 a year ago.

Covering Seen as Impetus.

Covering seemed to give the chief impetus to the continuation of the rally. Traders in utility, chemical and railroad shares showed considerable anxiety, but it was nevertheless obvious that some recent bears were taking a shot at the long side of the market in the belief that the best opportunity for quick profits lay in that direction. Realizing and spoty short selling in the last hour depressed prices from their tops. There was also a brief interval of weakness in the forenoon coincident with another attack on American Telephone and the amusement stocks. Some of the latter closed heavy.

Perhaps it was fitting that on this anniversary day the market should hear that Federal Reserve brokers' loans had dropped $219,000,000 to the lowest level on record. The aggregate at the close of the week ended November 12 was $2,235,000,000 against the previous minimum of $2,409,000,000 on May 19, 1926. Publication of the figures began with that year.

The defiation of brokers' loans since September 24 amounts to $987,000,000 and the decline has not been interrupted in that period, during which stock prices almost steadily tumbled. All three groups of loans decreased in the past week, but security borrowings from New York City member banks by nonbrokers rose $19,000,000, showing that stocks had continued to pass to stronger owners.

Copper News Stimulating.

News from the copper industry again contributed to the better speculative feeling. Buyers were bidding 10¼ cents for the metal, while some dealers quoted from 10½ to 11 cents a pound for 1931 deliveries. Actual business, however, was on the 10-cent basis established yesterday. With the curtailment plan apparently nearing completion, it is believed in trade circles that copper prices will move slowly higher until conditions have returned more closely to normal.

Further encouragement was derived from the presence in New York of representatives of several large British investment trusts, who were said to be planning important security purchases for their companies. Some of these concerns have not been interested in Wall street for nearly two years and they then came as sellers rather than as buyers. Foreign buying from various other sources has increased considerably of late.

The return of the bond market to higher levels suggested that some of the recent pessimism had been dissipated. Bonds showed their first gains of the week, with utilities and rails in the lead.

Cotton Prices Decline.

Wheat moved up ¾ to 1½ cents net on the strength of large export sales in Canada, unfavorable rains in Argentina and Farm Board buying. Corn rallied slightly more, reflecting unfavorable weather in the Southwest and a firm cash market. Late liquidation turned an early advance in cotton into net losses of 70 cents to $1.10 a bale.

American Telephone's early weakness, which carried it off 3 points, resembled a bear raid. The stock eventually sold as high as 189¾ and closed five-eighths net higher at 187½. U. S. Steel rose to 145⅞ and was up just a point at the finish. There were net gains of 1 to 2 points in American Can, General Electric, General Motors, Johns-Manville, Montgomery Ward, Radio, National Biscuit and Union Carbide. The coppers were strohg, up 1 to 3. Two or three rails rallied as much as 5 points, while Union Pacific held more than 7 of an extreme rise of 8¾. North American, Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey gained 3, Peoples Gas 11 and Western Union 7. Diamond Match soared 18. Fox Film and Loew's lost more than 2. Allied Chemical again crossed 200, rising 5 net.

SALES UNIMPROVED AS BONDS ADVANCE

Trend, Influenced by Rally in Stocks, Lifts Index Three-Tenths Point.

GERMAN ISSUES CLIMB

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Buying inspired by the better tone in the equity share market reversed the trend of bonds today. All sections of the list reflected the buoyant effect of an improvement in sentiment, although the volume of business was unchanged.

It was the first session of the week in which a majority of changes in prices had been on the constructive side. After setting a new low for the year twice during the week, the average of 30 bonds advanced three-tenths of a point.

On a reduced turnover U. S. Government obligations maintained their firm tone. Liberty first 4¼s and Treasury 3¾s of 1943 reached new 1930 peaks, the latter on an advance of 5-32, a comparatively large gain.

Rails Much Improved.

Demand for railroad issues broadened, and while a few failed to participate in the advance, the group was much improved in price. Canadian Pacific 5s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Denver, Rio Grande & Western 5s, Erie 4s of 1975, International Great Northern first 6s, several Missouri Pacific issues, Nickel Plate 4½s "C," Pennsylvania 4½s and St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s and 4s "A" were particularly strong.

Best grade utilities were firm, but there was a desultory movement among issues more directly affected by earnings. American & Foreign Power 5s advanced ¾ and American Telephone issues and Consolidated Gas 5½s were slightly higher. Postal Telegraph 5s sagged 1 point.

A flurry of selling inspired by reports martial law was about to be declared in Havana precipitated Havana Electric 5½s and 5s into new lows for the year. The 5s dipped 8 points.

General Theaters 6s Drop 7.

Most of the stock privilege issues participated in the advance. Atchison 4½s advanced 2¼ and Alleghany 5s of 1950, American International 8½s, American Telephone 4½s, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s gained a point or more. General Theaters 6s closed at a new 1930 bottom.

Three issues were particularly prominent in foreign bond trading. German 5½s rallied 1½ points and closed ½ net higher, being joined in higher ground by many other German bonds. A strong demand developed for Sao Paulo 7s of 1940, and they rose ¾. Bulgaria department 7½s sagged 1¾ on the largest turnover in the foreign section, which was firm.

CHRISTMAS CLUBS TO DISTRIBUTE CASH

GAIN IN FIGURES SHOWN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Distribution by more than 8,000 banks and organizations within the next two weeks of $632,000,000 to approximately 11,000,000 members of Christmas savings clubs was estimated yesterday by Herbert P. Rawll, president of Christmas Club, a division of National Bancservice Corporation, New York, headquarters of the national movement.

While this is a record distribution, the increase over last year is less than the normal annual increase, Mr. Rawll explains, the average amount received by each member being $54.60, while this figure stood at $59.60 in 1929. The total increase over last year is $32,000,000.

While several institutions in many sections of the country report an actual increase over last year, as is the case in this city, curtailed pay rolls in industrial centers have occasioned a small reduction in the general average for the entire country. The lower average accumulation, however, is more than offset, in the total figure, by an increase in the number of members, 2,000,000, made possible by more banking institutions offering this form of service.

Gain in Regular Savings.

While regular savings in permanent accounts in American banks have increased materially during 1930 over 1929, the same contributing factors have not been felt in savings club activities. The upward movement in savings accounts, which started in the early part of the year, is a reflection of a movement toward the old-fashioned method of thrift as against the orgy of 1928-29 speculation. Membership in the 1930 clubs closed for enrollment last January before this new cycle got under way.

The operating statement of Capital Traction Co. for October, third full month during which increased fare was effective, was presented to a meeting of the board of directors yesterday and shows net income of $58,638.23, an increase of $8,756.66 over the month last year. The September 1930 increase over September, 1929, was approximately $2,000. Net income for the ten months is now $379,028, a decrease of $67,752.90 from the corresponding period last year.

Drop in Revenue Passengers.

Operating revenues for October amounted to $374,646.57, an increase of $4,538.45 over the month last year. Revenue passengers last month totaled 4,333,501, or 593,594 less than the month a year ago. There is a 3,903,038 decrease in revenue passengers for the ten months compared with the period in 1929.

On being informed of news dispatches stating an offer for the purchase of the municipal gas works of Fredericksburg, Va., had been received by the town common council from representatives of the Washington Gas Light Co., President George A. G. Wood, of the local company, said yesterday that the Washington Gas Light Co., as such had made no offer and would make none.

Admitting that surveys having in view the possible expansion of service are being made in Virginia and Maryland, he said that if it was deemed advisable to secure the Fredericksburg plant, it would be purchased by the Seaboard Investment Trust, of Boston, owner of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Cos., as had been the case with the recent acquisition of the Alexandria Gas Co.

Curb Review

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The recovery was pressed further in today's curb market, despite the interruptions of occasional selling flurries. The turnover of 720,900 shares was only slightly less than yesterday's.

Electric Bond & Share sold up 2½ points in a large turn-over, then lost all but a point of its gain. America Gas & Electric mounted 4 points, and Insull Utility Investment as much. Niagara Hudson sold up 1½ to 12 and closed at 11½. United Light A sold up 3 points and closed within a point of the top. Central States Electric and Utilities Power and Light sold up about 1. Middle West rose 1, then lost half its gain.

Copper shares continued to work higher, reflecting the determined price stand taken by producers. Newmont gained 3 points and Noranda and Hudson Bay closed fractionally higher. Oils were irregular. Cities Service sold up a point to 20, and Standard of Nebraska and International Petroleum gained about a point. Indiana advanced ¼. Gulf and Humble turned dull and eased fractionally. In the natural gas issues Dixie broke 6 points to 20, but Lone Star and Natural Fuel Gas improved about 1 point each.

In the industrials a feature was Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, which surged up 5¾ points to 19¾. Industrials generally, however, were neglected, and a few closed substantially lower. Deere broke 5 points and recovered only half its loss. Among issues having a thin market Morrison Electric sold at 22½, off 9½.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Sharp rallies from an early decline in cotton here today were followed by even sharper and more rapid declines in the late trading under Southern selling and liquidation.

March contracts, after selling off 11.46, advanced to 11.70, but broke to 11.40 in the last few minutes of trading and closed at that figure. The general market closed easy at net declines of 14 to 22 points.

The opening was unchanged to a decline of 5 points, with the active months showing net losses of 7 to 10 points during the early trading under some Southern selling, which appeared to be combined with liquidation and local selling on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool. The offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering and the market stiffened up during the middle of the day. Contracts became comparatively scarce and there was little Southern selling here after the early offerings had been absorbed, and the market showed considerable strength during the early afternoon.

Reports of a better tone in the stock market were accompanied by buying believed to be for Wall street account, while covering was rather active. New December sold up from 11.04 to 11.25 and May from 11.74 to 11.95. Trading on an advance of about 13 to 16 points on the more active months. The demand then appeared to have been pretty well supplied, however, and there was very little activity in the late trading under a renewal of Southern selling and liquidation. The lowest prices of the day were reached just before the close, with new December selling at 10.93 and May at 11.64, and the closing quotations were at these figures.

The advance during the middle of the day was accompanied by reports of a renewal of Wall street interest, and the way offerings tapered off after the early decline probably left a considerable short covering. The market seemed to meet cotton as prices reached the 12-cent level for July contracts, however, and some observers attributed the late break largely to a weakened technical position.

Liverpool cables said that realizing and hedge selling by Bombay spinners and continental buying in that market.

GROUP DISCUSSES REFORM NEEDED IN REALTY BUSINESS

Counsel for Congressional Committee Meets With Business Experts.

FORECLOSURE AND BLUE SKY MEASURES PASSED

Company's President to Go on Trial Nov. 24; Charged With False Pretenses.

Legislative safeguards about real estate deals and the issuance and sale of securities were agreed on in general terms yesterday at a conference between representatives of business interests and the counsel for the Blaine subcommittee of the Senate District committee.

The conference was called by the committee counsel and was held in the office of the Senate committee in the Capitol. Its purpose was to bring the various elements of the District into agreement on needed legislation so that action might be mad on the measures at the coming short session of Congress.

Two measures are to be prepared and presented to the Blaine committee. The first deals with foreclosure of mortgages and will provide safeguards against loss of property through foreclosures without ample notice to the owner. Other provisions will provide for redemption of property taken by foreclosure.

Would License Dealers.

A blue-sky law, regulating the issuance and sale of securities in the District, is the second of the two measures given general approval at the conference.

A third measure approved was the bill providing for the licensing of real estate dealers in the District. This measure already has passed the Senate and is pending in the House. There is not much opposition to it, and its enactment is considered likely if earnest effort is made to have the House act at the next session.

Drafts of the blue sky and mortgage bills are expected to be completed soon after Congress meets. Subcommittees comprising representatives of the bar associations, the Federation of Citizens Associations and the real estate business were named yesterday to work with the committee counsel in drafting the measures for submission to the committee.

Meeting December 4.

A meeting of the committee has been called by Senator Blaine for December 4. That meeting was called at the suggestion of committee counsel, who announced that he wished to present to the committee evidence of certain frauds discovered in the course of his investigation of the real estate business.

How much time will be devoted in public hearings to frauds is to be determined by the committee which was named to draft legislation to improve the real estate situation here. It may be that with general agreement on necessary legislation the subcommittee may decide it has done its task with drafting the legislation and submitting it for action.

Jacob B. Shapiro, president of the Joseph Shapiro Realty Co., will go on trial Monday, November 24, on charges of false pretenses in connection with the alleged sale of a house encumbered by a "hidden trust."

Faces Many Indictments.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced yesterday that the realtor will face trial first on the charge of selling the house at 1716 Hobart street northwest to W Calhoun Furr and Martha E. Furr in October, 1928, when it was covered by a hidden trust.

According to Furr, Shapiro told him that there was only one $8,000 trust on the house when, in fact, a second trust of $2,500 covered the premises.

Shapiro faces similar charges in eleven other indictments. The indictments resulted from an expose before the Blaine committee, which began its investigation last summer.

REED SAYS TAX CUT FOR 1930 DOUBTFUL

Senator Predicts Treasury Will End Year With Deficit, Anyway.

OPPOSES DOLES FOR IDLE

(Associated Press.)

Little prospect of continuing the 1 per cent tax cut on 1930 incomes was seen yesterday by Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, who predicted a Treasury deficit at the end of the current fiscal year even if the temporary tax reduction should be discontinued.

The 1 per cent income and corporation tax cut on 1929 incomes reduced collections this year by approximately $160,000,000. Chairman Wood, of the House appropriations committee, said Wednesday there was a good chance of the cut being continued.

Contending that the Government is the loser in the long run as a result of the capital gains tax and capital losses credits, Senator Reed advocated repeal of the tax as one way to assist in the economic recovery.

Held to Have Bad Effect.

"We will lose next year in personal taxes, due to capital losses, a great deal more than $160,000,000," he said, adding that the capital gains tax "has a bad effect in times of speculation" and that the United States is the only country which counts such gains as income.

President Hoover is believed to favor a change in this direction. In his speech before the American Bankers Association at Cleveland last month, he said, "an inquiry might develop that our system of taxes upon capital gains directly encourages inflation by strangling the free movement of land and securities."

Any legislation along this line would have to originate in the House but Senator Reed said he would favor it if it came to the Senate.

Opposing a direct dole to the unemployed and favoring local instead of Federal steps to lift the country out of the depression, Senator Reed said the only thing Congress apparently can do is to speed up the Federal building and naval construction programs.

"We don't need statistics; we need work," he said. He added that costs of distribution are far out of proportion to service rendered and that a need exists for some initiative to organize distribution agencies.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the House appropriations committee, said he had "little hope for any tax reduction at this time."

"On the contrary" he declared, "if the President requests an increase in appropriations as he has announced, for public buildings, and the revenue receipts continue to show a decline, a deficit appears inevitable."

Five Cars Crash, But Hurt No One

Bus and Taxi Top Each Other to Start Traffic Festivity.

A five-car crash, in which many fenders were more or less damaged and several tempers were disturbed, occurred last night at the intersection of Thrity-sixth and S streets northwest.

A taxi driven by Vernon A. Renshaw, 27 years old, of Bethesda, Md., skidded and struck an east-bound Trinidad bus, driven by James R. Johnson, 27 years old, of the Eleventh street bus barns. The bus then skidded into a machine owned by Sara H. Dow, of 3547 S street northwest, while the taxi, not to be outdone, skidded some more and struck a machine owned by Richard Becker, of 2048 Bennette street northwest.

The last impact in the series occurred when the bus just before it was brought to a stop, collided with a machine owned by Phillip Deegan, of 3838 S street northwest. Police reported that no one was hurt, and only slight property damage resulted.

START DUE TODAY ON NEW FARMERS' MARKET BUILDING

First Unit to Accommodate 250 Evicted by Razing of Downtown Mart.

PROJECT SPONSORED BY UNION TERMINAL

Contract Let for Erection of $15,000 Structure for Use Soon.

Start of a new Farmers Market for those who operated at the old Farmers Market, razed to make way for the Internal Revenue Building, was announced yesterday by the real estate firm of Phillips & Caldwell, agents for Union Market Terminal, sponsoring the new trading center.

The announcement was made following award of a contract yesterday to the William F. Brenizer Co. for construction of the first of a series of units, eventually to provide accommodations for between 700 and 800 farmers.

Has Set Tract Aside.

Union Market Terminal, now operating in a 45-acre tract at the intersection of Florida avenue and New York avenue northeast, extended, has set apart 5 acres between Fifth, Sixth and Penn streets northeast and Neal place for its farmers' market activities, and it is in this subdivision of its property that the first farmers' unit is to be built.

Ground will be broken today for the laying of the concrete base of the unit, costing $15,000 and affording, at nominal fees, stall space for the farmers in a short time. In the spring the base will be covered by a superstructure of steel and concrete, conforming in architectural design to the 52 buildings already erected on the sidte and housing wholesale and retail commission establishments. Thirty of these buildings have been sold for the foregoing purpose and 22 are leased.

Union Market Terminal officials also said another subdivision of their land, bounded by Fifth and Sixth streets northeast and Florida and Neal avenues, was being reserved as a future retail market center when the need is realized.

Will Accommodate 250.

The first farmers' unit will accomodate approximately 250 farmers who, since the razing of the old Farmers Market at Tenth, Twelfth, B and C streets northwest, have set up stands on the curbs around Center Market, also scheduled for demolition.

The Union Market Terminal project, now representing a valuation in excess of $1,000,000, was launched in 1928 by a group of Center Market commission merchants, who, realizing their eventual eviction by the Federal building program, favored a Northeast rather and a Southwest substitute location.

Freedmen's Hospital Reports Record Year

The annual report of Freedmen's Hospital, filed at the Interior Department yesterday, shows that a greater number of cases were treated in the fiscal year 1930 than in any other year of the institution's history. The number was 4,341, according to the report.

Additions to the nurses' home, installation of a power plant, equipment of employes' quarters and a dining room have expedited the work of the hospital, the report says. Need for an increased personnel and a clinical building are pointed out by the surgeon-in-chief.

GHANDHI DISCIPLE REBUKED BY JEWS

Hebrew Temple Was Lent for Nonviolence Talk, Not Attacks.

COURTESY BREACH HELD

An attack on Christianity, King GeorgeGeorge of Great Britain, Prime Minister MacDonald and some of the social and economic structure of the Western Hemisphere by Syud Hossain, disciple of Mahatma Ghandi, yesterday brought from the Washington Hebrew Congergation, where Hossain spoke, a disclaimer of responsibility for his utterances.

Hossain, appearing as the last last speaker on a program arranged by the Threefold Movement, a world peace organization, delivered a number of attacks in the course of his address. He remembered to include the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman among the targets for his verbal broadsides.

Although the subject of the meeting, as advertised, was "Nonviolence as Taught by the Prophets," Hossain seemingly could not restrain himself, when once warmed to his subject, and the word picture he drew would have had a disquieting effect on a street corner audience.

The temple had been loaned for the occasion by Rabbi Abram Simon.

In a letter to The Washington Post Joseph Salomon, president of the Congregation, yesterday wrote:

"Lest the members and the officials of the Washington Hebrew Congregation be accused of at least acquiescence in these statements, we hasten to utter a vigorous disclaimer of everything that was uttered by the man in question. The rabbi of the congregation, as a courtesy, authorized the use of the temple for what was supposed to be a meeting 'for the realization of peace and brotherhood through understanding and neighborliness—between people of all nationalities, races, cultures, religious classes, conditions and convictions.' The announced subject was 'Nonviolence as Taught by the Great Prophets.' Under no circumstances would the meeting have been permitted if it had been supposed for one moment the utterances thereat would have gone beyond the thoughts above outlined.

"To have flayed the Christian religion as an entirety, its leaders in particular, and a government with which this country is on the most friendly relations, in a Jewish synagogue, dedicated to the worship of God of Israel, was intemperance exceeded only by the grossness of the violation of the courtesy extended in permitting this meeting to be held in our house of worship."

Brothers Ask $51,500 Damages for Injuries

Damages totaling $51,500 are sought in two suits filed yesterday in District Supreme Court against Nathan Dunayer, of 4518 Sheriff road northeast.

Charles E. Waters, of Blackston, Va., and George E. Waters, of the University of Virginia, Charlotteaville, Va., are plaintiffs. The former seeks $25,000 for personal injuries while the latter asks $26,500 for his injuries and the demoliahment of his automobile. Dunayer is alleged to have driven his automobile on March 28, 1929, on the Baltimore-Washington boulevard in such a negligent manner as to cause a collision between his machine and the one in which plaintiffs were riding. Attorneys Albert E. Steinem and Simon Fleishman appear for plaintiffs.

Thieves Get $65 in Loot.

Harry Greenberg, of 234 Fifteenth street northwest, yesterday reported to police that his store at that address was entered the previous night and merchandise valued at more than $65 taken. Listed as missing articles were fountain pens, a Spanish pistol, meats, several bags of smoking tobacco and a watch.

BOOKS OF WARDMAN BROUGHT TO COURT

Officers of Firm Changed This Year, Receiver Hearing Is Told.

TESTIMONY TO CONTINUE

Taking of testimony in the suit of the minority stockholders of the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Corpoartion for the appointment of a receiver, was continued in the corporation court of Alexandria yesterday, with Judge Daniel Thew Wright of counsel for the corporation, on the stand.

Counsel for the plaintiffs questioned Judge Wright for more than two hours in an endeavor to show the maze of interlocking directorships and offices of the various Wardman interests, and alleged irregularities on the part of the companies in the handling of stocks.

Books of the corporation, which were subpenaed by the court on motion of Attorney Harry F. Kennedy, for the plaintiffs, were brought into court yesterday, and John Berg, a certified public accountant employed by the plaintiffs was placed on the stand in the afternoon.

Judge Wright testified that the two Maryland corporations, the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., and the Wardman Realty & Construction Co., were incorporated by bankers for the purposes of a bond issue, and were not organized by the Wardman interests, which, he defined as being composed of Wardman, Hobbs, Bones and himself. Judge William P. Wecils, presiding, permitted as an exhibit a prospectus of Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment bankers, dealing with the 1928 bond issue of $10,000,000.

Judge Wright also testified that the officers of the Wardman Realty & Construction Co. were changed in 1929 with the reorganization, and that Wardman, Bones and Hobbs were no longer connected with it. He stated, however, that he is still a member of the board of directors.

2 Convicted of Murder At Concurrent Trials

The Government was successful yesterday in two murder trials that ran concurrently in different criminal divisions of the District Supreme Court. Charles Morris, Negro, was convicted of murder in the first degree in Criminal Division No. 2, by a jury before Justice Jesse C. Adkins. He was found guilty of shooting to death Maggie Landon, also colored. The woman was slain July 26 on the Thirty-first street bridge over the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal. Assistant U. S. Attorney James R. Kirkland prosecuted the case.

A second jury, before Justice Oscar R. Luhring in Criminal Division No. 3, found Harry Brown, colored, guilty of second degree murder. Brown stabbed James Taylor, also colored, last August 1 in front of 1521 B street northeast. He was prosecuted by Assistant U. S. Attorney Irvin Goldstein.

Woman Seriously Hurt When Hit by an Auto

While walking across Pennsylvania avenue near Fourth street northwest Wednesday night, Lydia Price, 48 years old, living at the Mount Vernon Hotel at 487 Pennsylvania avenue, was knocked down by a car said to have been driven by Edward Franklin Pier, 26 years old, living on North Carolina avenue near First street southeast.

She was removed to Emergency Hospital by Pier, where she was treated for lacerations about the body and possible internal injuries. Physicians say that her condition is serious. A brother, who lives in Fort Worth, Tex., was notified by the police. Pier was held at the Sixth Precinct Station until yesterday morning.

SIMMONS TO BEGIN HEARINGS ON FISCAL MEASURE JANUARY 3

ANOTHER DISPUTE SEEN OVER AMOUNT FOR CITY

Nebraskan Will Not Try to Cut Sum Materially, Is Claim Advanced.

Hearings on the annual District appropriations bill have been tentatively fixed to begin on January 3 before the House District appropriations subcommittee of which Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, is chairman.

The District bill has been placed sixth in the order in which the annual supply bills are to be considered by the House.

Representative Simmons is expected in Washington early next week. He is a member of the House agriculture subcommittee which is to begin hearings on next Thursday. Mr. Simmons, incidentally, is to leave the chairmanship of the District appropriations subcommittee to take the chairmanship of the agriculture subcommittee next Congress. Of course, if the Republicans do not retain control of the next House then that plan will not be followed.

Strength of Simmons Cited.

But the Nebraskan will be the most powerful influence in the House on the District appropriations bill now in preparation.

One thing which seems certain, however, is that there will be no effort by Mr. Simmons to materially cut down the total appropriations asked for the District for the next fiscal year in the past he has favored approva of large appropriations and set a new style when he insisted that the District be permitted to spend for its public works more money than the budget bureau had permitted the commissioners to ask for.

There probably will be another dispute about the amount of the Federal appropriation, which was $9,500,000 for the current year, a $500,000 increase over preceding years. This increase was given on the insistence of the Senate. The Senate had sought to make the total $12,000,000.

.... Report by February Keen. ....

How serious the dispute will amount to this time is not known. With hearings on the appropriations bill not to begin until after the first of the year it is unlikely that the measure will be ready for report to the House before February. That means that there will be just about a month left for its passage by the House, which should not take any appreciable time, and hearings by the Senate District appropriations subcommittee and action by the Senate.

The Senate undoubtedly will make some changes and there usually is a conference committee appointed by each house to iron out these differences. Here will come the possibility of delay, and the District, as well as other appropriations bills, may be delayed sufficiently to force an extra session of the next Congress.

Kiwanians Honor George H. Winslow

Past and Present Heads of Club Eulogize Member, 10 Years Secretary.

George H. Winslow, secretary of the Kiwanis Club for the last ten years, was honored by the organization at its weekly meeting yesterday at the Washington Hotel with eulogies and presentation of an Oriental rug, a basket of flowers, and a fruit cake.

Ten men who have served as president of the club since its creation, in 1917, lauded Mr. Winslow and remarked on the growth of the organization from approximately 75 members when he assumed office to the present 196, coupled with the extension of activities to include many phases of civic work. They included Claude W. Owen, past president, who acted as chairman of the meeting; John J. Boobar, Claude W. Woodward, Harry G. Kimball, William S. Quinter, Radford Moses, Edgar Morris, Mark Lansburgh, and Roe Fulkerson, all past presidents, and James B. Edmunds, president now.

Announcement was made that a Thanksgiving meeting of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Civitan, and Optimist Clubs will be held on November 26 at the Willard Hotel and that the annual ladies' night dinner dance of the club will be held next Monday night at the Mayflower Hotel, with Eugene H. Ruark as chairman of the entertainment committee.

Ducks' Fate Rsets With Highest Court

Lawyer Apeals Charge He Violated Ordinance by Building Blind.

Upon a decision of the United States Supreme Court rests the fate of numerous ducks now quacking complacently among the Potomac marshes in Charles County, Md.

With designs upon the above mentioned ducks, Thomas Morris Wampler, a lawyer, of 3216 Macomb street northwest, built a blind upon property he owns in Charles County along the Potomac. Maryland authorities told Mr. Wampler that he had violated an ordinance which prohibits building a duck blind within 250 feet of the adjoining owner's line without the latter's consent.

Mr. Wampler took the case to the courts, where it has been consistently lost, until it has now reached the country's chief tribunal. There it has been set for hearing November 24, which will probably give Mr. Wampler a few shots at the tempting game before the hunting season ends January 31—if the court decides in his favor.

Copper Production to Be Cut.

New York, Nov. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Cornelius F. Kelley, president of the Anaconda Copper Co. and chairman of the board of the Copper Institute, in a statement issued tonight on behalf of the institute, announced that producers representing 90 per cent of the world's output had agreed to reduce production.

Coloring Contest To Be Nation-Wide

Awards of $8,000 Will Be Open to Children of Capital Schools.

A combined cut-out and coloring competition, open to every school child in the country, 14 years of age and under, in which more than $8,000 in awards will be given to successful contestants, is to be inaugurated February 14, throughout the country.

The educational flavor of this Nation-wide flower appreciation contest has gained approval of some of the leading educators of the country, and has the support as sponsors such notables as Kathleen Norris, Albert Payson Terhune, Senator Arthur Capper, Dr. Willis A. Sutton, president of the National Education Association, and many others. It is expected that as a result of this contest, hundeds of thousands of school children will be "Saying It With Flowers" to their parents for weeks on end, while they work out their puzzles and visit flower shops and greenhouses to study the flowers and plants in their puzzle books, which are to be given away for the asking at flower shops in more than 1,000 cities throughout the country. The sponsors have been deeply impressed by the educational value of the contest in educating the young to a proper appreciation of a love of nature, as is exemplified in growing flowers and plants.

Granville Gude, Washington florist, is chairman of the District of Columbia area.

Woman Who Fell Sues For $10,000 Damages

Charging that she was seriously injured when she tripped and fell over a poorly constructed section of sidewalk in front of 503 Kennedy street northwest, Marie Sweeney, of 4728 Fifth street northwest, filed suit for $10,000 damages in District Supreme Court yesterday against the District of Columbia and the Cafritz Construction Co.

The woman charges that she tripped over a pipe which the defendants allowed to be exposed when it should have been cemented in, she says. The accident occurred December 15, 1928. The bones in her foot were broken and she suffered other injuries, she claims. Attorneys Alvin L. Newmyer and Maurice Grudd appear on her behalf.

CONVERSATION WITH A BROKER.

CUSTOMER—Hello. How're they doing?

Broker—We're having a real good rally just now. "Can" is up an eighth.

Customer—Is the rest of the market as strong as that?

Broker—Westinghouse was up a quarter for a few moments. It looks as if we were having a decided turn for the better.

Customer — What's Consolidated Gas?

Broker—What's that?

Customer — Consolidated Gas You've heard of it, haven't you?

Broker—Oh, yes. Just a minute. It's 185. Beg pardon—184½.

Customer—What do you think of it for the long pull at that level?

Broker—Well, I think you'd make no mistake if you bought it under 83.

Broker—At 81.

Customer—I thought you said 83.

Broker—I did, but that was ten seconds ago. The market is selling off now.

* * * *

Customer—What do you think of New York Central?

Broker—It looks quite strong. It's lost only 2 points so far today.

Broker—It's 129.

Customer—How much?

Broker—128½.

Customer—What did you say Central was? Something's wrong with this wire.

Broker—126.

Customer—I don't hear you very clearly.

Broker—It's probably just as well.

* * * *

CUSTOMER—I hear a lot about Nickel.

Broker—About nickels?

Customer—No; Nickel . . . International Nickel. What's your opinion on that?

Broker—It acts remarkably strong It hasn't moved a half a point in a week.

Customer—I don't know what to do, whether to buy now or wait for lower levels.

Broker (as one or two stocks go up a quarter)—Well, the action of this market clearly indicates a turn. I think bottom has been touched. If you buy now and put it away you'll make plenty.

Customer—It really looks like the right time, eh?

Broker (as the same stocks lose an eighth)—What?

Customer—I say you think from the market action that the bottom has been reached.

Broker—Well, I don't know. Of course, you might do well to stay on the sidelines.

Customer (a little confused)—What's that again, please?

Broker (as the stocks go off another eighth, leaving them where they were when the conversation began)—I say I think it is a time for caution. I wouldn't buy anything just now. You will probably be able to buy all you want at lower levels.

Customer (quite hopelessly)—Well, I'll call you later. By the way, what time is it?

Broker (through force of habit)—It's 11:35. But it may fluctuate either way.

NO CLASS.

A TEAM of work horses ran away at the Horse Show in New York, nearly causing a panic among box holders. It was probably shocking to see horses run without displaying any grotesquely exaggerated knee action.

Capt. Hawks will be the ideal flier to use on a good-will flight to some country where the natives are satisfied with a fleeting glimpse of Americans.

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS TELL BY LOOKS.

"Buy an apple!" cried one of the city's unemployed, addressing a well-dressed passerby directly.

"Who, me?" demanded the well-dressed man in a tone of deep dejection. "Not unless I can buy it on margin, mister."

Ima Dodo thinks that a solo flier is an airman who sings.

MR. SAVOLDI, Notre Dame football star, admitting his marriage, says it was a mistake. Probably a misunderstanding of signals.

Pneumonia Deaths in City Slump From 1929 Figure

Despite Drop in 10-Month Comparison, Fatalities in Past Four Weeks, 59, Show 50 Per Cent Gain Over Like Period Last Year.

Although the total number of deaths from pneumonia in the District thus far this year is almost a third lower than in the same period last year, the total for the four weeks ended last Saturday shows an increase of 50 per cent over the corresponding four weeks in 1929.

Last week there were 22 deaths from pneumonia in the District, and 17 new cases reported, bringing the total for the four weeks ended November 8 to 59, as compared with 41 in the same four weeks of 1929. In the week ended November 9, 1929, there were 13 pneumonia deaths.

The total number of pneumonia deaths during 1930 up to November 8 was 398, as against a total of 1,102 cases reported by physicians to Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer. In the same ten and one-half weeks last year, on the other hand, there were 1,322 cases reported, of which 589 resulted in the death of the patient.

Ordinarily the pneumonia season in Washington does not begin until December, and Dr. Fowler yesterday would not attempt to advance any reasons for the apparent early start of the disease this year. He advised the most effective method for combating the disease is through exercise of ordinary common sense in living.

Undernourishment and improper clothing he named as two important contributory factors in rendering people liable to attacks of pneumonia, and pointed out that the person who eats properly and sufficiently, dresses warmly, but not excessively, exercises sufficiently and sleeps regularly is not likely to become a victim of pneumonia.
